

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE

TO THE REVISED EDITION.

IN this edition, the Latin Course for the First Year has been thoroughly revised and in part rewritten. In its present form it aims to introduce the beginner to the Latin language as a means of expressing thought, and not as a mere system of grammatical forms and rules, to make his first lessons as simple and attractive as possible, and then to conduct him by easy stages to such a practical and working knowledge of the language as will enable him to read Caesar or Vergil with some little facility and with some degree of pleasure.

The following are a few of the leading features of the revised edition.

1. The beginner is introduced, at the outset, to complete Latin sentences, and is informed how he may best ascertain their meaning.

2. He learns no arbitrary rules. He is allowed to see the various Latin usages exemplified in the language itself, and is thus prepared to recognize in each rule of syntax, to which his attention is called, only a simple statement of the facts in the case.

3. He is instructed that his chief object must be to read and appreciate the language itself, and that the grammar will be useful mainly as it aids him in this work. An attempt is made to enable him to understand and enjoy the thought in the original, to see that Latin words are not mere equivalents for corresponding English words, but that they have a meaning of their own, that Latin nouns, for instance, are the actual names of real persons and things.

4. The grammatical information, which will be of immediate and constant use to the learner in reading and understanding Latin, is given in the lessons themselves, while other grammatical facts which ought to be within his reach, but which should not be allowed to burden his memory, are placed in the introduction for reference.

In conclusion, the learner is advised to make faithful use of the Suggestions, which he will find in the latter part of the book, beginning on page 261. It is hoped that they will greatly aid him in his work.

BROWN UNIVERSITY, July, 1888.

P R E F A C E.

THE volume now offered to the public is intended to furnish the pupil a complete course for his first year in the study of Latin. It conducts the beginner through the common forms and inflections of the language, introduces him to the leading principles of its syntax, and aims to prepare him to enter with success upon the consecutive study of Caesar or of any of the less difficult Latin authors. It comprises an Outline of Latin Grammar, Progressive Exercises in Reading and Writing Latin, eighteen pages of Connected Discourse from Caesar, Directions for Reading at Sight, Suggestions to the Learner, Notes, a Latin-English and an English-Latin Vocabulary.

The Paradigms and Rules are introduced in the exact form and language of the author's Grammar. Thus the great objection to many First Latin Books, that they fill the memory of the pupil with forms of statement that must be laid aside as soon as he passes to his Grammar, is entirely obviated in this volume.

The Latin Exercises are taken chiefly from Caesar's Commentaries on the Gallic War. They are made so strictly progressive, that the learner will find it perfectly easy, in the latter part of the volume, to make the transition from classified sentences to connected discourse. The English Exercises are modelled after the Latin, and involve the same constructions and the same vocabulary.

The Exercises in Reading at Sight consist of easy passages of connected discourse from Caesar's Commentaries. They are so arranged that all the words and constructions involved in any given exercise are introduced and used in previous lessons. The pupil, therefore, who has learned all the vocabularies, and has been faithful in his other work, will find little difficulty in reading at sight in accordance with the directions given him. The important point is not that he should translate any given passage absolutely at sight, but that he should master it without help from any source whatever. The exercises are intended to encourage independent work, to promote self-reliance in study, and to give facility in reading and appreciating Latin.

The Suggestions to the Learner are intended not only to point out to the beginner the process by which he may most readily and surely reach the meaning of a Latin sentence, but also to aid him in expressing that meaning in idiomatic English. Experience has abundantly shown the need of such directions. The beginner's first efforts to solve the problem presented by a Latin sentence are too often little better than a series of unsuccessful conjectures, while his first translations are purely mechanical renderings, with little regard either to the thought of his author or to the proprieties of his mother-tongue.

I am happy in this connection to acknowledge my obligations to my esteemed friend, Mr. Edward H. Cutler, the accomplished Head-Master of the Newton High School. His accurate scholarship and large professional experience have contributed greatly to the value of every part of the work. The vocabularies are all from his hand.

The work which appears entire in this volume is also published without the Grammatical Outline, under the title: Progressive Exercises in Reading and Writing Latin, with Frequent Practice in Reading at Sight, intended as a Companion Book to the Author's Latin Grammar.

Teachers who use the author's Latin Series in connection with the Standard Edition¹ of his Latin Grammar, may now choose for their classes during the first year of their Latin studies any one of the following courses :—

1. The Complete Latin Course for the First Year.
2. The Grammar, and the Progressive Exercises in Reading and Writing Latin.
3. The Grammar, and the New Latin Reader.

Each of these courses will be found to furnish an adequate preparation for the reading of any of the less difficult Latin authors. In making the selection, teachers will have an opportunity to gratify their individual preferences, and to consult the special needs of their schools.

FIRST YEAR'S LATIN COURSE.

INTRODUCTION.

NOTE. — The teacher will doubtless deem it advisable to begin with Lesson I., page 15, and to use the introduction for reference.

LATIN ALPHABET.

1. LATIN GRAMMAR treats of the principles of the Latin language.

2. The Latin alphabet is the same as the English, with the omission of w.

3. Letters are divided according to the position of the vocal organs at the time of utterance into two general classes, vowels and consonants,¹ and these classes are again divided into various subdivisions, as seen in the following

CLASSIFICATION OF LETTERS.

I. VOWELS.

1. OPEN VOWEL ²	a
2. MEDIAL VOWELS	e o
3. CLOSE VOWELS ³	i y	u

³ E is a medial vowel between the open a and the close i; o a medial

II. CONSONANTS.¹

	GUTTURALS.	DENTALS.	LABIALS.
1. SEMIVOWELS, sonant ²	i or j = y		v = w
2. NASALS, sonant	n ³	ɲ	m
3. ASPIRATE, surd ²	h
4. FRICATIVES, comprising :
1. Liquids, sonant		l, r
2. Spirants, surd		s	f
5. MUTES, comprising :
1. Sonant mutes	g	d	b
2. Surd mutes	c, k, q	t	p

NOTE. — X = cs, and z = ds, are double consonants, formed by the union of a mute with the spirant s.

4. Diphthongs are formed by the union of two vowels in one syllable.

NOTE. — The most common diphthongs are ae, oe, au, and eu. Ei, oi, and ui are rare.

PHONETIC CHANGES.

22. Vowels are often weakened, i.e., are often changed to weaker vowels.

The order of the vowels, from the strongest to the weakest, is as follows:

vowel between the open a and the close u; y was introduced from the Greek.

¹ Observe that the consonants are divided:

I. According to the ORGANS chiefly employed in their production, into

1. Gutturals — throat letters, also called Palatals.

2. Dentals — teeth letters, also called Linguals.

3. Labials — lip letters.

II. According to the MANNER in which they are uttered, into

1. Sonants, or voiced letters.

2. Surds, or voiceless letters.

² The distinction between a sonant and a surd will be appreciated by observing the difference between the sonant b and its corresponding surd p in such words as bad, pad. B is vocalized, p is not.

³ With the sound of n in concord, linger. It occurs before gutturals. congruenter, suitably.

a, o, u, e, i¹
 Thus a is changed to o . . . u . . . e . . . i o to u . . . e . . . i u to e . . . i e to i²

Curmen,³ carmenis, carminis, a song, of a song; faciō, cōn-faciō, cōn-ficiō, I make, I accomplish; factus, in-factus, in-fectus, made, not made; teneō, con-teneō, con-tineō, I hold, I contain; tuba, tuba-cen, tubi-cen, a flute, a flute-player.

30. A Guttural — c, g, q, (qu) or h, — before s generally unites with it and forms x:

Dux, dux, leader; pācs, pāx, peace; rēgs, rēcs, rēx, king; lēgs, lēcs, lēx, law: coqusī, cocsi, cozī, I have cooked; trahsī, tracsi, traxi, I have drawn.

31. S is generally changed to r when it stands between two vowels:

Flōsēs, flōrēs, flowers; jūsa, jūra, rights; mēnsāsum, mēnsārum, of tables; agrōsum, agrōrum, of fields; esam, eram, I was; esāmus, erāmus, we were.

33. PARTIAL ASSIMILATION. — A consonant is often partially⁴ assimilated by a following consonant. Thus before the surd s or t, a sonant b or g is generally changed to its corresponding surd, p or c:

Scribsī, scripsī, I have written; scribtus, scriptus, written; rēgsī, rēcī, rēxī (30), I have ruled; rēgtus, rēctus, ruled.

¹ The change from a through o to u is usually arrested at æ, while a is often changed directly through e to i without passing through o or u. Thus the open a is changed either to the close u through the medial o, as seen on the right side of the following vowel-triangle, or to the close i through the medial e, as seen on the left side:

Open vowel	a
Medial vowels	e o
Close vowels	i u

² But u, e, and i differ so slightly in strength that they appear at times to be simply interchanged.

³ Here e in carmen becomes i in carminis, a in faciō becomes i in cōn-faciō, etc.

PRONUNCIATION OF LATIN.¹I. *Roman Method of Pronunciation.*²

5. VOWELS. — The vowel sounds are the following: —

LONG.		SHORT.
ā like ä in father:	ā'-rīs. ³	a like a in Cuba: ⁵	a'-met.
ē " e " prey; ⁴	ē'-dī.	e " e " net:	re'-get.
ī " i " machine: ⁴	ī'-rī.	i " i " cigar:	vi'-det.
ō " o " old:	ō'-rūs.	o " o " obey:	mo'-net.
ū " u " rule: ⁴	ū'-nō.	u " u " full:	su'-mus.

1. A short vowel in a long syllable is pronounced short: sunt,⁶ u as in sum, su'-mus. But see 16, note 2.

3. I preceded by an accented a, e, o, or y, and followed by another vowel, is a semivowel with the sound of y in yet (7): A-chā'-ia (A-kā'-yā).

4. U in qu, and generally in gu and su before a vowel, has the sound of w: quī (kwē), lin'-gua (lin'-gwā), suā'-sit (swā'-sit).

² Those who adopt the English Method will now turn to page 6; those who adopt the Continental Method to page 8. Strictly speaking, there is no Continental Method, as every nation on the Continent of Europe has its own method.

³ The Latin vowels marked with the macron are long in quantity, i.e. in the duration of the sound (16); those not marked are short in quantity; see 16, note 3. Observe that the accent is also marked. For the laws of accentuation, see 17 and 18 in this introduction.

⁴ Or ē like ā in made, ī like ē in me, and ū like oo in moon.

⁶ Observe the difference between the length or quantity of the vowel and the length or quantity of the syllable. Here the vowel u is short, but the syllable sunt is long; see 16, I. In syllables long irrespective of the length

6. DIPHTHONGS. — In diphthongs each vowel retains its own sound :

ae (for ai) like the English ay (yes): mēn'-sae.¹

au like ow in how: cau'-sa.

oe (for oi) like oi in coin: foe'-dus.²

7. CONSONANTS. — Most of the consonants are pronounced nearly as in English, but the following require special notice:

c like k in king: cē'-lēs (kay-lace), cī'-vī (kē-wē).

g “ g “ get: re'-gunt, re'-gis, ge'-nus.

j “ y “ yet: jū'-stum (yoo-stum), ja'-cet.

s “ s “ son: sa'-cer, so'-ror, A'-si-a.

t “ t “ time: tī'-mor, tō'-tus, āc'-ti-ō.

v “ w “ we: va'-dum, vī'-cī, vī'-ti-um.³

8. SYLLABLES. — In dividing words into syllables,

1. Make as many syllables as there are vowels and diphthongs: mō'-re, per-suā'-dē, mēn'-sae.

2. Join to each vowel as many of the consonants which precede it—one or more—as can be conveniently pronounced at the beginning of a word or syllable: ⁴ pa'-ter, pa'-trēs, ge'-ne-rī, dō'-mī-nus, men'-sa, bel'-lūm. But—

3. Compound words must be separated into their component parts, if the first of these parts ends in a consonant: ab'-es, ob-ī'-re.⁵

of the vowels contained in them, it is often difficult and sometimes absolutely impossible to determine the natural quantity of the vowels; but it is thought advisable to treat vowels as short in all situations where there are not good reasons for believing them to be long.

³ There is some uncertainty in regard to the sound of v. Corssen gives it at the beginning of a word the sound of the English r.

⁵ Those who adopt the Roman Pronunciation, omitting the English and the Continental Method, will now turn to LESSON I., page 15.

II. English Method of Pronunciation.

9. VOWELS.—Vowels generally have their long or short English sounds.

10. LONG SOUNDS.—Vowels have their long English sounds—a as in fate, e in mete, i in pine, o in note, u in tube, y in type—in the following situations:—

1. In final syllables ending in a vowel:—

Se, si, ser'-vi, ser'-vo, cor'-nu, mi'-sy.

2. In all syllables, before a vowel or diphthong:—

*De'-us, de-o'-rum, de'-ae, di-e'-i, ni'-hi-lum.*¹

3. In penultimate² syllables before a single consonant, or before a mute followed by a liquid:—

Pa'-ter, pa'-tres, ho-no'-ris, A'-thos, O'-thrys.

4. In unaccented syllables, not final, before a single consonant, or before a mute followed by a liquid:—

Do-lo'-ris, cor'-po-ri, con'-su-lis, a-gric'-o-la.

1. A unaccented, except before consonants in final syllables (11, 1), has the sound of a final in America: *men'-sa, a-cu'-tus, a-ma'-mus.*³

2. I and y unaccented, in any syllable except the first and last, generally have the short sound: nob'-i-lis (nob'-e-lis), Am'-y-cus (Am'-e-cus).

3. I preceded by an accented a, e, o, or y, and followed by another vowel, is a semivowel with the sound of y in yet: A-cha'-ia (A-ka'-ya), Pom-pe'-ius (Pom-pe'-yus), La-to'-ia (La-to'-ya), Har-py'-ia (Har-py'-ya).

4. U in qu, and generally in gu and su before a vowel, has the sound of w: qui (kwi), qua; lin'-gua (lin'-gwa); sua'-de-o (swa'-de-o).

11. SHORT SOUNDS.—Vowels have their short English sounds—a as in fat, e in met, i in pin, o in not, u in tub, y in myth—in the following situations:—

² Penultimate, the last syllable but one.

³ Some give the same sound to a final in monosyllables: da, qua: while others give it the long sound, according to 10, 1.

1. In final syllables ending in a consonant:—

A'-mat, a'-met, rex'-it, sol, con'-sul, Te'-thys; except post, es final, and os final in plural cases: res, di'-es, hos, a'-gros.

2. In all syllables before x, or any two consonants except a mute followed by a liquid (10, 3 and 4):—

Rex'-it, bel'-lun, rex'-e'-runt, bel'-lo'-rum.

3. In all accented syllables, not penultimate, before one or more consonants:—

Dom'-i-nus, pat'-ri-bus. But—

1) A, e, or o before a single consonant (or a mute and a liquid), followed by e, i, or y before another vowel, has the long sound: a'-ci-es, a'-cri-a, me'-re-o, do'-ce-o.

2) U, in any syllable not final, before a single consonant or a mute and a liquid, except bl, has the long sound: Pu'-ni-cus, sa-lu'-bri-tas.

12. DIPHTHONGS.—Diphthongs are pronounced as follows:

Æ like e: Cae'-sar, Daed'-a-lus.¹ | Au as in author: au'-rum.

Oe like e: Oe'-ta, Oed'-i-pus.¹ | Eu² as in neuter: neu'-ter.

13. CONSONANTS.—The consonants are pronounced in general as in English. Thus:—

I. C and G are soft (like s and j) before e, i, y, æ, and oe, and hard in other situations³: ce'-do (se'-do), ci'-vis, Cy'-rus, cae'-do, coe'-pi, a'-ge (a'-je), a'-gi; ca'-do (ka'-do), co'-go, cum, Ga'-des.

II. S, T, and X are generally pronounced as in the English words son, time, expect: sa'-cer, ti'-mor, rex'-i (rek'-si). But—

1. S, T, and X are aspirated before i preceded by an accented syllable and followed by a vowel, — s and t taking the sound of sh, and x that of ksh: Al'-si-um (Al'-she-um), ar'-ti-um (ar'-she-um), anx'-i-us (ank'-she-us).

¹ The diphthong has the long sound in Cae'-sar and Oe'-ta, according to 10, 3, but the short sound in Daed'-a-lus (Ded'-a-lus) and Oed'-i-pus (Ed'-i-pus), according to 11, 3, as e would be thus pronounced in the same situations.

² Ei and oi are seldom diphthongs, but when so used they are pronounced as in height, coin: hei, proin. Ui, as a diphthong, with the long sound of i, occurs in cui, hui, huic.

³ C has the sound of sh—

1. Before i preceded by an accented syllable and followed by a vowel: so'-ci-us (so'-she-us);

2. Before eu and yo preceded by an accented syllable: ca-du'-ce-us (ca-du'-she-us), Sic'-y-on (Sish'-y-on)

2. S is pronounced like z —

1) At the end of a word, after e, ae, au, b, m, n, r: spes, praes, laus, urbs, hi'-ems, mons, pars;

2) In a few words after the analogy of the corresponding English words: Cae'-sar, Caesar; cau'-sa, cause; mu'-sa, muse; mi'-ser, miser, miserable, etc.

3. X at the beginning of a word has the sound of z: Xan'-thus.

14. SYLLABLES. — In dividing words into syllables —

1. Make as many syllables as there are vowels and diphthongs: mo'-re, per-sua'-de, men'-sae.

2. Distribute the consonants so as to give the proper sound to each vowel and diphthong, as determined by previous rules (10–12): pa'-ter, pa'-tres, a-gro'-rum, au-di'-vi, gen'-e-ri, dom'-i-nus.

III. Continental Method of Pronunciation.

5. VOWELS. — The vowel sounds are the following: —

LONG.		SHORT.
ā like ä in father:	ā'-ris. ¹	a like a in Cuba: ³	a'-met.
ē " e " prey: ²	ē'-dī.	e " e " net:	re'-get.
ī " i " machine: ²	ī'-rī.	i " i " cigar:	vi'-det.
ō " o " old:	ō'-rās.	o " o " obey:	mo'-net.
ū " u " rule: ²	ū'-nō.	u " u " full:	su'-mus.

1. A short vowel in a long syllable is pronounced short: sunt,⁴ u as in sum, su'-mus. But see 16, note 2.

6. DIPHTHONGS. — In diphthongs each vowel retains its own sound: —

ae (for ai) like the English ay (yes): mēn'-sae.⁵

au like ow in how: cau'-sa.

oe (for oi) like oi in coin: foe'-dus.⁶

² Or ē like ā in made, ī like ē in me, and ū like oo in moon.

13. CONSONANTS. — The consonants are pronounced in general as in English; see 13, I., II. 1, 2, page 7.

14. SYLLABLES. — In dividing words into syllables make as many syllables as there are vowels and diphthongs: mō'-re, per-suā'-dē, mēn'-sae.¹

QUANTITY.

16. Syllables are in quantity or length either long, short, or common.²

I. LONG. — A syllable is long in quantity —

1. If it contains a diphthong or a long vowel: haec, rēs.³

2. If its vowel is followed by x or z or any two consonants, except a mute and a liquid:⁴ dux, rēx, sunt.⁵

II. SHORT. — A syllable is short, if its vowel is followed by another vowel, by a diphthong, or by the aspirate h: dī-ēs, vi-ae, nī'-hil.⁶

² Common, i.e. sometimes long and sometimes short.

³ See note 3, below.

⁴ That is, in the order here given, with the mute before the liquid; if the liquid precedes, the syllable is long.

⁵ Observe that the vowel in such syllables may be either long or short. Thus it is long in rēx, but short in dux and sunt.

⁶ By referring to pages 4 and 8, it will be seen, that, in the Roman Method and in the Continental, quantity and sound coincide with each other: a vowel long in quantity is long in sound, and a vowel short in quantity is short in sound. But, by referring to 10 and 11, it will be seen, that, in the English Method, the quantity of a vowel does not at all affect its sound, except in determining the accent (18). Hence, in this method, a vowel long in quantity is often short in sound, and a vowel short in quantity is often long in sound. Thus in rēx and sāl, the vowels are long in quantity; but by 11, 1, they have the short English sounds: while in ave, mare, the vowels are all short in quantity; but by 10, 1 and 3, they all have the long English sounds. Hence, in pronouncing according to the English Method, determine the place of the accent by the quantity, according to

III. COMMON. — A syllable is common, if its vowel, naturally¹ short, is followed by a mute and a liquid: a-grī.

NOTE 1. — Vowels are also in quantity either long, short, or common; but the quantity of the vowel does not always coincide with the quantity of the syllable.²

NOTE 2. — Vowels are long before ns, nf, gn, and gm; cōn'-sul, īn-fē'-līx, rēg'-num, āgmen.

NOTE 3. — The signs [˘], ^ˉ are used to mark the quantity of vowels, the first denoting that the vowel over which it is placed is long, the second that it is common, i.e. sometimes long and sometimes short: a-mā-bō. All vowels not marked are to be treated as short.³

ACCENTUATION.

17. Words of two syllables are always accented on the first: mēn'-sa.

18. Words of more than two syllables are accented on the Penult,⁴ if that is long in quantity;⁵ otherwise on the Antepenult:⁴ ho-nō'-ris, cōn'-su-lis.⁶

3. A secondary or subordinate accent is placed on the second or third syllable before the primary accent — on the second, if that is the first syllable of the word, or is long in quantity, otherwise on the third: mo'-nu-ē'-runt, mo'-nu-e-rā'-mus,⁷ in-stau'-rā-vē'runt.

18, and then determine the sounds of the letters irrespective of quantity, according to 10-13.

¹ A vowel is said to be naturally short, when it is short in its own nature; i.e. in itself, without reference to its position.

² Thus in long syllables the vowels may be either long or short, as in rēx, dux, sunt (see foot-note 6, p. 4). But in short syllables the vowels are also short.

³ See p. 4, foot-note 6. In many works short vowels are marked with the sign [˘]: rēg'īs.

⁴ The penult is the last syllable but one; the antepenult, the last but two.

⁵ Thus the quantity of the syllable, not of the vowel, determines the place of the accent: regen'-tis, accented on the penult, because that syllable is long, though its vowel is short: see 16, I., 2.

⁷ In the English Method divide thus: mon'-u-e'-runt, mon-u-e-ra'-mus.

SENTENCES. — VERBS.

346. A sentence is a combination of words expressing either a single thought or two or more thoughts.

347. A SIMPLE SENTENCE expresses a single thought:

Deus mundum aedificāvit, God made (built) the world. Cic.

348. A COMPLEX SENTENCE expresses one leading thought with one or more dependent thoughts:

*Dōnec eris fēlix, multōs numerābis amicōs, so long as you shall be prosperous, you will number many friends.*¹ Ovid.

349. A COMPOUND SENTENCE expresses two or more independent thoughts:

Sōl ruit et montēs umbrantur, the sun hastens to its setting and the mountains are shaded. Verg.

356. The SIMPLE SENTENCE in its MOST SIMPLE FORM consists of two distinct parts, expressed or implied:—

1. The SUBJECT, or that of which it speaks;
2. The PREDICATE, or that which is said of the subject:

*Cluilius moritur, Cluilius dies.*² Liv.

NOTE. — In Latin, both subject and predicate may be contained or implied in a single word, if that word is a verb:

*Amās,*³ thou lovest. *Amat,*³ he loves.

357. The SIMPLE SENTENCE in its MOST EXPANDED FORM consists of these same parts with their various modifiers:

¹ In this example two simple sentences — (1) 'you will be prosperous,' and (2) 'you will number many friends' — are so united that the first only specifies the time of the second: You will number many friends so long as you shall be prosperous. The part of the complex sentence which makes complete sense of itself — multōs numerābis amicōs — is called the Principal or Independent Clause; and the part which is dependent upon it — dōnec eris fēlix — is called the Subordinate or Dependent Clause.

² Here Cluilius is the subject, and moritur the predicate.

³ The ending s shows that the subject is of the second person singular, THOU, while t shows that it is of the third person singular, HE.

In his castris Cluilius, Albānus rēx, moritur, *Cluilius, the Alban king, dies in this camp.*¹ Liv.

192. Verbs in Latin, as in English, express existence, condition, or action: est, he is; dormit, he is sleeping; legit, he reads.

193. Verbs comprise two principal classes:—

I. TRANSITIVE VERBS admit a direct object of the action: servum verberat, he beats the slave.²

II. INTRANSITIVE VERBS do not admit such an object: puer currit, the boy runs.²

194. Verbs have Voice, Mood, Tense, Number and Person.

195. There are two voices:

I. The ACTIVE VOICE³ represents the subject as ACTING or EXISTING: pater filiū amat, the father loves his son; est, he is.

II. The PASSIVE VOICE represents the subject as ACTED UPON by some other person or thing: filius ā patre amātur, the son is loved by his father.

196. There are three moods: ⁴—

I. The INDICATIVE MOOD either asserts something as a fact or inquires after the fact:

Legit, HE IS READING. Legitne, IS HE READING? Servius rēgnāvit, Servius REIGNED. Quis ego sum, who AM I?

¹ Here Cluilius, Albānus rēx, is the subject in its enlarged or modified form: in his castris moritur, the predicate in its enlarged or modified form.

² Here servum, 'the slave,' is the object of the action; beats (what?) the slave. The object thus completes the meaning of the verb. He beats is incomplete in sense, but the boy runs is complete, and accordingly does not admit an object.

⁴ Mood, or Mode, means manner, and relates to the manner in which the meaning of the verb is expressed, as will be seen by observing the force of the several moods.

II. The SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD expresses not an actual fact, but a possibility or conception.

Amemus patriam, LET US LOVE our country. Sint beāti, MAY THEY BE happy. Quaerat quispiam, some one MAY INQUIRE.

III. The IMPERATIVE MOOD expresses a command or an entreaty :

Iūstitiam cole, PRACTISE justice. Tū nē cēde malis, DO not YIELD to misfortunes.

197. There are six tenses :¹

I. THREE TENSES FOR INCOMPLETE ACTION : —

1. Present : amō, I love, I am loving.
2. Imperfect : amābam, I was loving, I loved.
3. Future : amābō, I shall love, I will love.

II. THREE TENSES FOR COMPLETED ACTION :

1. Perfect : amāvī, I have loved, I loved.
2. Pluperfect : amāveram, I had loved.
3. Future Perfect : amāverō, I shall have loved.

198. Tenses are also distinguished as —

I. PRINCIPAL or PRIMARY TENSES :

1. Present : amō, I love.
2. Present Perfect : amāvī, I have loved.
3. Future : amābō, I shall love.
4. Future Perfect : amāverō, I shall have loved.

II. HISTORICAL or SECONDARY TENSES :

1. Imperfect : amābam, I was loving.
2. Historical Perfect : amāvī, I loved.
3. Pluperfect : amāveram, I had loved.

199. In Verbs, as in Nouns (44), there are two numbers, SINGULAR and PLURAL, and three persons, FIRST, SECOND, and THIRD.

NOTE. — The various verbal forms which have voice, mood, tense number, and person, make up the finite verb.

200. Among verbal forms are included the following verbal nouns and adjectives:

I. The INFINITIVE is a verbal noun. It is sometimes best translated by the English Infinitive, sometimes by the verbal noun in ING, and sometimes by the Indicative:

Exīre ex urbe volō, I wish TO GO out of the city. Gestīō scīre omnia, I long TO KNOW all things. Haec scīre juvat, TO KNOW these things affords pleasure.

II. The GERUND gives the meaning of the verb in the form of a verbal noun of the second declension,¹ used only in the genitive, dative, accusative, and ablative singular. It corresponds to the English verbal noun in ING:

Amandī, OF LOVING. Amandī causā, for the sake OF LOVING. Ars vivendi, the art OF LIVING. Ad discendum prōpēnsus, inclined TO LEARN, or TO LEARNING.

III. The SUPINE gives the meaning of the verb in the form of a verbal noun of the fourth declension.² It has a form in um and a form in ū:

Amātum, TO LOVE, FOR LOVING. Amātū, TO BE LOVED, FOR LOVING, IN LOVING. Auxilium postulātum vēnit, he came TO ASK aid. Difficile dictū est, it is difficult TO TELL.

IV. The PARTICIPLE in Latin, as in English, gives the meaning of the verb in the form of an adjective. It is sometimes best translated by the English Participle or Infinitive, and sometimes by a Clause:

Amāns, LOVING. Amātūrus, ABOUT TO LOVE. Amātus, LOVED. Amandus, DESERVING TO BE LOVED. Platō scribēns mortuus est, Plato died WHILE WRITING, or WHILE HE WAS WRITING.

NOTE. — A Latin verb may have four participles: two in the Active, the Present and the Future, amāns, amātūrus; and two in the Passive, the Perfect and the Gerundive, amātus, amandus.

201. Regular verbs are inflected, or conjugated, in four different ways, and are accordingly divided into Four Conjugations.

² See 92, 116.

LESSONS AND EXERCISES.

LESSON I.

PARTS OF SPEECH.—NOUNS.

1. *Lesson from the Grammar.*¹

38. IN Latin, as in English, words are divided, according to their use, into eight classes, called Parts of Speech, viz. : Nouns, Adjectives, Pronouns, Verbs, Adverbs, Prepositions, Conjunctions, and Interjections.²

NOUNS.

39. A Noun or Substantive is a name, as of a person, place, or thing: Cicerō, Cicero; Rōma, Rome; domus, house.

1. A PROPER NOUN is a proper name, as of a person or place: Cicerō; Rōma.

2. A COMMON NOUN is a name common to all the members of a class of objects: vir, man; equus, horse.

40. Nouns have Gender, Number, Person, and Case.

¹ The lessons are from the author's Latin Grammar, and the numerals at the side of the page, 38, 39, etc., designate articles in that work. It is advised that the Introduction be used mainly for reference, but that such parts of it be learned from time to time as the interests of the class may require. For pronunciation the pupil must at first depend upon his teacher, but he will soon be able to profit by the rules contained in the Introduction.

² In general, the use of the Parts of Speech is the same in Latin as in English.

I. GENDER.

41. There are three genders:¹ Masculine, Feminine, and Neuter.

NOTE.—In some nouns, gender is determined by signification; in others, by endings.

42. GENERAL RULES FOR GENDER.

I. Masculines:—

1. Names of Males; Cicerō; vir, man; rēx, king.
2. Names of Rivers, Winds, and Months: Rhēnus, Rhine; Notus, south wind; Mārtius, March.

II. Feminines:—

1. Names of Females: mulier, woman; leaena, lioness.
2. Names of Countries, Towns, Islands, and Trees: Graecia, Greece; Rōma, Rome; Dēlos, Delos; pirus, pear-tree.

II. PERSON AND NUMBER.

44. The Latin, like the English, has three persons and two numbers. The first person denotes the speaker; the second, the person spoken to; the third, the person spoken of. The singular number denotes one; the plural, more than one.

2. In this exercise give the GENDER and NUMBER of each noun, and tell whether it is COMMON or PROPER.

1. Caesar (Caesar), Alexander (Alexander), Graecia (Greece).
2. Mātrēs (mothers), māter (a mother), Hispānia (Spain).
3. Pater (a father), patrēs (fathers), Rhēnus (the river Rhine).
4. Puer (a boy), puerī (boys), puella (a girl), puellae (girls).
5. Sicilia (Sicily), Sparta (the city Sparta), miles (a soldier), milītēs (soldiers).

LESSON II.

NOUNS.—CASES.

3. Lessons from the Grammar.

45. The Latin has six cases :¹ —

NAMES.	ENGLISH EQUIVALENTS.
Nominative,	Nominative.
Genitive,	Possessive, or Objective with of .
Dative,	Objective with to or for .
Accusative,	Objective.
Vocative,	Nominative Independent.
Ablative,	Objective with from , with , by , in .

Thus in general the English cases are represented in Latin as follows :

1. The Nominative, by the Nominative in Latin :

THE QUEEN is praised. *Rēgina laudātur.*²

2. The Possessive and the Objective with of, by the Genitive in Latin :

THE QUEEN'S daughter is praised. *Filia rēginæ laudātur.*³

The daughter OF THE QUEEN is praised. Filia rēginæ laudātur.

3. The Objective with to or for, by the Dative in Latin ; the Objective without a preposition, by the Accusative :

They give a BOOK TO THE QUEEN. *Rēginæ librum dōnant.*⁴

¹ The case of a noun shows the relation which that noun sustains to other words: as, John's book. Here the possessive case shows that John sustains to the book the relation of possessor.

² Observe that the English words to be illustrated are printed in SMALL CAPITALS and the corresponding Latin in Italics. QUEEN is in the Nominative, and is the subject of the verb is praised, and rēgina, the corresponding word in the Latin, is also in the Nominative and is the subject of the Latin verb laudātur. The Latin has no article; accordingly rēgina may mean a queen, the queen, or simply queen.

³ Here daughter, the subject of the English sentence, and fīlia, the subject of the Latin sentence, are both in the Nominative, but the possessive queen's, or its equivalent, of the queen, becomes in the Latin rēginæ, the Genitive of rēgina.

⁴ Book, the object of give, is in the Objective case, and the correspond-

4. The Nominative Independent in an address, by the Vocative in Latin :

They praise you, O QUEEN. Tē, rēgina, laudant.¹

5. The Objective with from, with, by, in, by the Ablative in Latin :

They are fortifying the city WITH A WALL. Urbem vallō mūniunt.²

They are walking IN THE GARDEN. In hortō ambulant.

NOTE 1. The Genitive, Dative, Accusative, and Ablative are called the Oblique Cases.

NOTE 2. The Latin has also a few remnants of another case, called the Locative, denoting the place in which.

4. In this exercise give the GENDER, NUMBER, and CASE of each Noun, and tell whether it is COMMON or PROPER.

1. Rēx (the king) laudātur (is praised). 2. Filius (the son) rēgis (of the king) laudātur (is praised). 3. Filii (the sons) rēgis (of the king) laudantur (are praised). 4. Filii (the sons) rēgum (of kings) laudantur (are praised). 5. Rēx (the king) filiam (his³ daughter) amat (loves). 6. Rēx (the king) filiās (his daughters) amat (loves). 7. Caesar (Caesar) militēs (the soldiers) laudat (praises). 8. Militēs (the soldiers) laudantur (are praised).

ing Latin, librum, the object of the Latin verb dōnant, is in the Accusative, but the words to the queen are rendered by rēginae, the Dative of rēgina. Observe the order of the words:

ENGLISH ORDER: They give a book to the queen.

LATIN ORDER: To the queen a book they give.

² With a wall is rendered by the Ablative vallō, but in the garden by the Ablative with in: in hortō. Observe the order of the words:

ENGLISH ORDER: They are fortifying the city with a wall.

LATIN ORDER: The city with a wall they are fortifying.

ENGLISH ORDER: They are walking in the garden.

LATIN ORDER: In the garden they are walking.

Observe that in all these examples the verb in Latin stands at the end of the sentence.

³ In Latin the possessive pronouns, meaning his, her, their, when not emphatic, are seldom expressed if they can be supplied from the context.

LESSON III.

SENTENCES.—VERBS.—CERTAIN FORMS OF THE FIRST CONJUGATION.

5. Lesson from the Grammar.

356. Every SENTENCE consists of two distinct parts, expressed or implied :—

1. The SUBJECT, or that of which it speaks ;
2. The PREDICATE, or that which is said of the subject :

NOTE.—In Latin, both subject and predicate may be contained or implied in a single word, if that word is a verb :

*Amās,*² thou lovest. *Amat,*² he loves.

201. Regular verbs³ are conjugated in four different ways, and are accordingly divided into Four Conjugations.

6. In Verbs of the FIRST CONJUGATION, the THIRD PERSON in the singular and plural of the present, imperfect, and future tenses of the indicative mood has the following—

ENDINGS.
PRESENT.	IMPERFECT.	FUTURE.
Singular, at,	ābat,	ābit.
Plural, ant,	ābant,	ābunt.

PARADIGM.
SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
Pres. amat, he loves ; ⁴	amant, they love.
Imp. amābat, he was loving ; ⁵	amābant, they were loving. ⁵
Fut. amābit, he will love ;	amābunt, they will love. ⁵

¹ Cluilius is the subject, and moritur the predicate.

² The ending s shows that the subject is of the second person singular, THOU, while t shows that it is of the third person singular, HE.

³ For verbs, mood, tense, number, and person, see pages 12 and 13.

⁴ The subject of each of these verbs may be, in English, either he, she, or it: amat, he loves, she loves, or it loves. The suffix, t, shows the number and person of the subject, but not its gender.

⁵ Or, he loved ; plural, they loved. See page 13, 197.

⁶ Each of these Latin forms, amat, amant, etc., consists of two distinct elements—(1) the stem, which gives the general meaning of the verb ;

7. In English, the tenses, numbers, and persons of verbs are indicated by certain words or signs; as,

PRESENT.	IMPERFECT.	FUTURE.
He loves,	he was loving,	he will love.
They love,	they were loving,	they will love.

In Latin, however, no such signs are used; but their place is supplied by the endings of the verb. Hence, in translating English into Latin, omit these signs, and express the tense, number, and person of the verb by the proper endings:

PRESENT.	IMPERFECT.	FUTURE.
Eng. He loves,	he was loving,	he will love,
Lat. Amat ,	amābat ,	amābit .

LESSON IV.

CERTAIN FORMS OF THE FIRST CONJUGATION.— EXERCISES.

8. Vocabulary.¹

Ambulat,	he walks, he is walking. ²
Arat,	he ploughs, he is ploughing.
Dēliberat,	he deliberates, he is deliberating.
Equitat,	he rides, he is riding.
Lacrimat,	he weeps, he is weeping.
Nāvigat,	he sails, he is sailing.
Rēgnat,	he reigns, he is reigning. and (2) the suffix, added to the stem, to designate tense, number, and person. Thus in ama-t	ama-nt

amā-bat	amā-bant
amā-bit	amā-bunt

the stem is amā, and the suffixes are t, nt, bat, bant, bit, bunt; but as in some verbal forms the final vowel of the stem has become inseparably united with the suffix, it is impossible to keep the two elements of the word distinct. We accordingly give the endings produced by the union of this final vowel with the suffix, as above, at, ant, etc.

The final vowel of the stem is called the stem characteristic.

² Or, she walks, etc.

9. In this exercise, first pronounce the several sentences with care, then give the TENSE, NUMBER, and PERSON of each Verb, and finally translate the whole into English.

1. Rēgnat,¹ rēgnant. 2. Dēliberābat, dēliberābant. 3. Lacrimābit, lacrimābunt. 4. Ambulant, arant, equitant. 5. Equitat, equitābat, equitābit. 6. Nāvigat, nāvigābat, nāvigābunt. 7. Ambulat, ambulābunt, ambulābat. 8. Rēgnant, rēgnābit, rēgnābant. 9. Nāvigant, ambulābit, equitābant.

10. Translate into Latin.

1. He was reigning, they will reign, she will reign.² 2. They are walking, he will walk, they were walking. 3. She is weeping, they will weep, he was weeping. 4. They will ride, he will sail. 5. He is deliberating, they will deliberate. 6. He was ploughing, they will plough. 7. They were ploughing, he will plough. 8. They were sailing, they are deliberating.

¹ In preparing this exercise, notice carefully the endings of the words; even a Roman could not understand this Latin without attending to these endings. What, then, is the meaning of the endings at, ant, in rēgnat, rēgnant? They show that in the first the subject, or agent, of the action is in the third person singular, he, she, or it; and, in the second, in the third person plural, they. But these endings also show that the verbs are in the present tense. How does that fact help you to understand the meaning? It tells you that the action is now taking place: He is reigning.

Again, what is the meaning of ābat, ābant, in dēliberābat, dēliberābant, and of ābit, ābunt, in lacrimābit, lacrimābunt? What do these endings tell you about the subjects of these verbs? What about their tense? What about the time of each action? The endings ābat and ābant assure you that the action of the verb was taking place at some past time; ābit and ābunt that it will be taking place or will take place at some future time.

In these exercises you may use at pleasure either he or she as subject, if the sense permits: he reigns, he is reigning, or she reigns, she is reigning. You should, however, accustom yourself to think of all the possible meanings of a Latin word, or of a Latin sentence, before you attempt to translate it. This habit, if early formed, will be of great value to you in your subsequent work.

² Observe that the English pronouns, he, she, it, they, are not to be rendered by separate Latin words, as the Latin verb contains a pronominal subject in itself. Hence, 'he reigns,' rēgnat; 'they reign,' rēgnant.

LESSON V.

NOUNS.—CASES.—FIRST DECLENSION.

11. Lesson from the Grammar.

46. DECLENSIONS.—The process by which the several cases of a word are formed is called Declension. It consists in the addition of certain suffixes to one common base called the stem.¹ In Latin there are five declensions.

FIRST DECLENSION.—A NOUNS.

48. Nouns of the first declension end in a and ē—feminine; ās and ēs—masculine.²

Nouns in a are declined as follows :

EXAMPLE.	SINGULAR.	MEANING.	CASE-ENDING. ⁴
Nom. mēnsa,		a table, ³	a
Gen. mēnsae,		of a table,	ae
Dat. mēnsae,		to, for a table,	ae
Acc. mēnsam,		a table,	am
Voc. mēnsa,		O table,	a
Abl. mēnsa,	from, with, by a table,		ā
	PLURAL.
Nom. mēnsae,		tables,	ae
Gen. mēnsarum,		of tables,	arum
Dat. mēnsis,		to, for tables,	is
Acc. mēnsas,		tables,	as
Voc. mēnsae,		O tables,	ae
Abl. mēnsis,	from, with, by tables.		is

¹ Thus each case-form contains the stem, which gives the general meaning of the word, and the case-suffix, which shows its relation to some other word. In rēg-is, 'of a king,' the general idea, king, is denoted by the stem, rēg; the relation of, by the suffix is. When the stem ends in a vowel, the case-suffix is seen only in combination with that vowel. The ending thus produced is called a case-ending, and the final vowel of the stem is called the stem characteristic or simply the characteristic.

² That is, nouns of this declension in a and ē are feminine, and those in ās and ēs are masculine, unless their gender is determined by their signification according to the General Rules : see page 16, 42.

³ Mēnsa may be translated a table, table, or the table.

⁴ These case-endings should be carefully studied and compared, as

1. Stem. — In nouns of the first declension, the stem ends in ā.¹

2. In the PARADIGM, observe that the stem is mēnsā,¹ and that the several cases are distinguished by their case-endings.²

3. Examples for Practice. — Like mēnsa decline :—

Ala, wing; aqua, water; causa, cause; fortūna, fortune.

4. Locative. — Names of towns and a very few other words have a Locative Singular in ae, denoting the place in which (p. 18, note 2): Rōmae, at Rome; militiae, in war.

LESSON VI.

NOUNS.—FIRST DECLENSION.—NOMINATIVE CASE.— RULES III. AND XXXVI.

12. Examine carefully the following examples.

1. Rēgnat,	He, she, or it reigns. ³
2. Numa rēgnat,	Numa reigns. ⁴
3. Rēgnat,	He reigns.
4. Victōria rēgnat,	Victoria reigns.
5. Rēgnat,	She reigns.
6. Rēginae rēgnant,	Queens reign.
7. Rēgnant,	They reign. ⁴

they will serve as a practical guide to the learner in distinguishing the different cases and in ascertaining the meaning of words.

² Observe also (1) that the Nominative and Vocative are alike, (2) that the Dative and Ablative plural are alike, and (3) that the Genitive and Dative singular and the Nominative and Vocative plural are all alike.

³ This is the full meaning of rēgnat when there is nothing in the context to restrict it, but take notice that in the third example it is rendered he reigns, because we make it refer to Numa, the king, while in the fifth example it is rendered she reigns, because we make it refer to Victōria.

⁴ Observe (1) that rēgnant, 'they reign,' differs from rēgnat, 'he, she, or it reigns,' only in having nt, meaning they, as its ending, while rēgnat has simply t, meaning he, she, it; and (2) that, though the forms of the verb thus contain a pronoun, yet a substantive may at any time be introduced as subject, and that then the pronoun is not translated. Thus rēgnat, 'he, she, or it reigns,' but Numa rēgnat, 'Numa reigns' (not 'Numa he reigns'), Victōria rēgnat, 'Victoria reigns,' rēgnant, 'they reign,' but rēginae rēgnant, 'queens reign.'

NOTE 1. — Observe (1) that in the first, third, fifth, and seventh examples the subjects are pronouns implied in the endings at, ant, or, more strictly, t, nt, he, she, it, they, and (2) that in the second example the subject is Numa, in the fourth Victōria, and in the sixth rēginae, and that these three subjects are all in the Nominative case. This is in accordance with general Latin usage,¹ expressed in the following

RULE III.—Subject Nominative.

368. The subject of a finite verb² is put in the Nominative.

NOTE 2. — Observe that in the examples at the head of this lesson the verb is in the singular if the subject is singular, and in the plural if the subject is plural. Thus, in the second example, the singular verb, rēgnat, is used, because the subject, Numa, is singular, while in the sixth example the plural verb, rēgnant, is used, because the subject, rēginae, is plural. Observe also that these verbs are in the third person, because their subjects, Numa and rēginae, are in the third person.³ This is in accordance with general Latin usage, expressed in the following RULE XXXVI.—Agreement of Verb with Subject.

460. A finite verb agrees with its subject in NUMBER and PERSON.

13. Vocabulary.

Agricola, ae,⁴ m.⁵

husbandman.⁶

Incola, ae, m. or f.

² That is, Latin writers always put a noun or pronoun in the Nominative case when they wish to use it as the subject of a finite verb, i.e. of any part of the verb except the Infinitive. This Rule is a simple statement of that fact.

⁴ The ending ae is the case-ending of the Genitive: agricola; Genitive, agricolae.

⁵ Gender is indicated in the vocabularies by m for masculine, f. for feminine, and n. for neuter.

⁶ In learning Latin it is not enough to find English equivalents for Latin words, the pupil must early learn to see the meaning in the Latin itself, without even thinking of the English. The Latin nouns in this

Nauta, ae, m.	sailor, seaman.
Poëta, ae, m.	poet.
Puella, ae, f.	girl, maiden.
Pūgnat,	he is fighting.
Rēgina, ae, f.	queen.
Victōria, ae, f.	Victoria, queen of England.

14. Give the GENDER, NUMBER, PERSON, and CASE of each Noun, and the TENSE, NUMBER, and PERSON of each Verb, and translate the whole into English.

1. Puella¹ lacrimat. 2. Puellae¹ lacrimant. 3. Agricola arābat. 4. Agricolae arābant. 5. Poëta equitābit. 6. Puellae ambulābunt. 7. Victōria rēgnat. 8. Rēgnābit.² 9. Rēgnābat. 10. Victōria dēliberat. 11. Incolae dēliberant. 12. Nauta nāvigābat. 13. Nautae navigābunt. 14. Incolae dēliberābunt. 15. Nautae pūgnābant. 16. Nautae nāvigant. 17. Poëtae nāvigābunt.

15. Translate into Latin.

1. Victoria was reigning. 2. She is reigning. 3. The³ inhabitants were deliberating. 4. They will deliberate. 5. The³ girls are riding. 6. They will ride. 7. The sailors were walking. 8. They are walking. 9. The poet was sailing. 10. He will walk. 11. The husbandman is ploughing. 12. Husbandmen plough. 13. The poets are deliberating. 14. The queen will reign. 15. Queens reign.

vocabulary, for instance, must represent to him not words, but living persons. Agricola should suggest to him, not the English word husbandman, but the husbandman himself, not the name, but the man.

¹ As the Latin has no article, a noun may, according to the connection in which it is used, be translated (1) without the article: as, puella, girl; puellae, girls; (2) with the indefinite article a or an: as, puella, a girl; (3) with the definite article the: as, puella, the girl.

³ The pupil will remember that the English articles, a, an, and the, are not to be rendered into Latin at all.

LESSON VII.

VERBS. — SUBJECT. — DIRECT OBJECT. — RULE V.

16. Examine carefully the following examples.

- | | |
|---------------------------|------------------------------------|
| 1. Rēgina laudat. | The queen praises. |
| 2. Rēgina puellam laudat. | The queen praises THE GIRL. |
| 3. Puella rēginam laudat. | The girl praises THE QUEEN. |

NOTE 1. — In the example rēgina laudat, “the queen praises,” the thought is not entirely complete, as we are not told what the queen praises, but in the example rēgina puellam laudat, “the queen praises (what?) the girl,” the sense is complete. The noun which thus completes the meaning of a verb is called the Direct Object.

NOTE 2. — Observe that in English the object follows the verb: thus in the examples above, the objects, the girl and the queen, follow the verb, praises; but in Latin the object usually precedes the verb; thus puellam and rēginam precede the verb laudat.

NOTE 3. — Again compare the second and third examples. Observe that laudat is common to both, that rēgina in the second becomes rēginam in the third, and that puellam in the second becomes puella in the third. Notice now the effect of these simple changes upon the meaning of the sentences. You thus learn that when the Romans spoke of a queen as the subject of an action, they used the form rēgina, but when they spoke of a queen as the object of an action they used rēginam. These forms, rēgina, rēginam, are types or examples of a large class of Latin nouns which in the singular end in a when used as subject and in am when used as object.

NOTE 4. — Observe that puellam, the Direct Object in the second example, and rēginam, the Direct Object in the third example, are both in the Accusative. This is in accordance with general Latin usage, expressed in the following

RULE V. — Direct Object.

371. The Direct Object of an action is put in the Accusative.

17. Vocabulary.

Amat,	he loves.
Amicitia,	friendship.
Dēlectat,	he delights.

Epistula, ae, f.	letter, epistle.
Filia, ae, f.	daughter.
Jūstitia, ae, f.	justice.
Laudat,	he praises.

18. Translate into English.

1. Rēgina puellās laudābat.¹ 2. Puellae rēginam laudābant. 3. Rēgina incolās laudat. 4. Incolae rēginam laudant. 5. Poētae amīcitiam laudant. 6. Poētae rēginam laudābunt. 7. Rēgina poētās laudābit. 8. Nauta poētā laudābat. 9. Poēta nautam laudābit. 10. Poētae nautās laudant. 11. Poēta dēliberābit. 12. Poētae dēliberābant. 13. Puellae ambulābant. 14. Rēgina filiā² amat. 15. Filiā³ amābit. 16. Epistula rēginam dēlectat.

19. Translate into Latin.

1. The poet praises the queen. 2. He was praising the queen. 3. The poet will praise friendship. 4. The letter delights the girl. 5. The girl praises the letter. 6. The girls were praising the poet. 7. The girls love the queen. 8. The queen loves the girls. 9. The husbandman will plough. 10. The husbandmen were ploughing. 11. The poets are deliberating. 12. The husbandman loves his daughter.

¹ In taking up a Latin sentence, remember that the meaning must be learned in part from the vocabulary, and in part from the endings of the words. In this sentence, for example, we first learn the general meaning of the words from the vocabulary. We then ascertain the number and case of rēgina from its ending. We find that it is in the singular number, and that in form it may be either a Nominative or a Vocative. As a Nominative it would mean that the queen is the subject of the action, as that is the only use of the Nominative which we have thus far learned; as a Vocative, that the queen is addressed. We next notice puellās. This must be an Accusative Plural, and it accordingly represents the girls as the object of an action; puellās, then, must be the object of the action of which rēgina is the subject. The ending ābat in laudābat shows that the verb is in the imperfect tense, third person singular, and that it accordingly represents the action as taking place in past time, and as having one person for its subject. We are now prepared to translate the sentence: The queen was praising the girls. See Suggestions, I. to X., page 261.

LESSON VIII.

SUBJECT. — DIRECT OBJECT. — QUESTIONS.

20. In questions the interrogative particles, -ne, nōnne, and num, are often used in Latin.

1. Questions with -ne ask for information: Rēgatne,¹ 'is he reigning?'

2. Questions with nōnne expect the answer 'yes': Nōnne rēgnat, 'is he not reigning?'

3. Questions with num expect the answer 'no': Num rēgnat, 'is he reigning?'

21. Vocabulary.

Artemisia,	Artemisia , queen of Caria.
Corōna, ae, f.	crown .
Expectat,	he expects, awaits .
Fābula, ae, f.	story, fable .
Jūlia, ae, f.	Julia , a Roman name.
Nōn,	not .
Sapientia, ae, f.	wisdom .

22. Translate into English.

1. Nōnne Artemisia rēgnābat? 2. Rēgnābat. 3. Nōnne poēta rēgīnam laudābit? 4. Rēgīnam laudābit. 5. Num poēta nāvigābat? 6. Nōn nāvigābat. 7. Nōnne poētae sapientiam laudant? 8. Sapientiam laudant. 9. Ambulantne? 10. Nōn ambulant. 11. Equitantne? 12. Equitant.

13. Nōnne rēgīna corōnam amābat? 14. Corōnam amābat. 15. Nōnne fābulae puellās dēlectābant? 16. Puellās dēlectābant. 17. Fābula nautās dēlectat. 18. Fābulae nautam dēlectant. 19. Nautae nāvigābunt.

² Observe in 2 and 3 that the auxiliary is stands at the beginning of the question in English, and that the subject follows: is he not reigning? is he reigning? Does and do often introduce questions in the same way, and in the past tense was and did: was he not reigning, nōnne rēgnābat?

³ Ambulantne = ambulant and the interrogative particle -ne.

23. Translate into Latin.

1. Does not Julia praise the queen? 2. She praises the queen. 3. Will the girls love Julia? 4. They will love Julia. 5. Is not Victoria reigning? 6. She is reigning. 7. Is the sailor expecting letters? 8. He is not expecting letters. 9. Does the poet love his daughters?

10. He loves his daughters. 11. Will not the letters delight the queen? 12. They will delight the queen. 13. Were not the inhabitants deliberating? 14. They were deliberating. 15. The story will delight the poet.

LESSON IX.

SUBJECT. — DIRECT OBJECT. — QUESTIONS.

24. Vocabulary.

Accūsāt,	he accuses.
Armat,	he arms.
Familia, ae, f.	family, servants.
Gallia, ae, f.	Gaul, now France.
Honōrat,	he honors.
Patria, ae, f.	country, one's country.
Probat,	he approves.
Sententia, ae, f.	opinion, sentiment.
Tullia, ae, f.	Tullia, a Roman name.

25. Translate into English.

1. Nōnne agricolae patriam amābant? 2. Patriam amābant. 3. Num incolae rēgīnam accūsābunt? 4. Nōn rēgīnam accūsābunt. 5. Rēgīnam amant. 6. Rēgīna nautās armābit. 7. Nōnne familiam armābat? 8. Familiam armābat. 9. Num Artemisia incolās armābat?

10. Nōn incolās armābat. 11. Rēgnābatne? 12. Rēgnābat. 13. Incolae nautās accūsābunt. 14. Nōnne agricolae nautās accūsābant? 15. Nautās accūsābant. 16. Nōnne rēgīna sententiam probābat? 17. Sententiam probābat. 18. Nōnne incolae sententiam probābunt?

26. Translate into Latin.

1. Was Artemisia reigning? 2. She was not reigning. 3. Victoria was reigning. 4. Do the husbandmen love Gaul? 5. They do¹ not love Gaul. 6. Will not the queen honor the poet? 7. She will honor the poet. 8. The inhabitants honor the queen. 9. Do they not love their country?

10. They love their country. 11. Will the queen approve the opinion? 12. She will approve the opinion. 13. She approves the opinion. 14. Was not Gaul arming its inhabitants? 15. Gaul was arming its inhabitants. 16. Did not Artemisia accuse² her servants? 17. She accused² her servants.

LESSON X.

CERTAIN FORMS OF THE SECOND CONJUGATION. — RULES II. AND XVI.

27. In verbs of the SECOND CONJUGATION, the THIRD PERSON in the singular and plural of the present, imperfect, and future tenses of the indicative mood has the following

ENDINGS.

	PRESENT.	IMPERFECT.	FUTURE.
Singular,	et,	ēbat,	ēbit.
Plural,	ent,	ēbant,	ēbunt. ³

PARADIGM.

	SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
Pres	monet, he advises; ⁴	monent, they advise.
Imp	monēbat, he was advising; ⁵	monēbant, they were advising. ⁵
Fut.	monēbit, he will advise;	monēbunt, they will advise.

¹ Omit do in rendering into Latin, as that language has no separate words for the English auxiliaries, does, do, did.

² Use the imperfect; see page 19, foot-note 5.

⁵ Or, he advised; plural, they advised; see page 19, foot-note 5.

28. Examine the following examples.

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|--|
| 1. Artemisia rēgnat. | Artemisia reigns. |
| 2. Artemisia rēgīna rēgnat. | Artemisia the queen reigns. |
| 3. Poēta Artemisiam laudat. | The poet praises Artemisia . |
| 4. Artemisiam rēgīnam laudat. | He praises Artemisia THE QUEEN. |
| 5. Corōnam laudat. | He praises the crown. |
| 6. Corōnam rēgīnae laudat. | He praises the crown OF THE QUEEN. |

NOTE 1. — A noun or pronoun used to qualify or identify another noun or pronoun, denoting the same person or thing, as rēgīna in the second example and rēgīnam in the fourth, is called an appositive. Rēgīna, “the queen,” is an appositive, showing the rank or office of Artemisia, — Artemisia THE QUEEN.

NOTE 2. — Observe that in the second example, where Artemisia is in the Nominative, the appositive, rēgīna is also in the Nominative, while in the fourth example, where Artemisiam is in the Accusative, the appositive is also in the Accusative. This usage is expressed in the following

RULE II. — Appositives.

363. An Appositive agrees in CASE with the noun or pronoun which it qualifies.¹

NOTE 3. — Observe that in the sixth of the above examples the genitive rēgīnae limits or qualifies corōnam by showing whose crown is meant, the crown OF THE QUEEN. This usage is expressed in the following

RULE XVI. — Genitive with Nouns.

395. Any noun, not an appositive, qualifying the meaning of another noun, is put in the Genitive.¹

397. The PARTITIVE GENITIVE designates the whole of which a part is taken.

Gallōrum fortissimī, the bravest of the Gauls.

¹ The pupil must not fail to notice that the Appositive always denotes the same person or thing as the noun or pronoun which it qualifies, while the Genitive always denotes a different person or thing. The Appositive follows its noun as in examples 2 and 4 above. The Genitive generally follows its noun as in example 6, but when emphatic it is placed before that noun.

LESSON XI.

CERTAIN FORMS OF THE SECOND CONJUGATION.

29. Vocabulary.

Dēlet,	he¹ destroys.
Docet,	he teaches.
Habet,	he has.
Luxuria, ae, f.	luxury.
Monet,	he advises.
Pecūnia, ae, f.	money.

1. Poēta filiam docēbat. 2. Fīliam docēbit. 3. Nōnne

² The pupil has already learned that in the first declension a noun in a is always in the Nominative or Vocative singular, and he has observed that in the previous exercises the Nominative is always the subject of a verb. He has now learned a new use for the Nominative, viz. that it may be an Appositive qualifying another Nominative.

Again, he has learned that a noun in am is in the Accusative singular and a noun in as in the Accusative plural, and he has observed that in previous exercises the Accusative is the direct object, i.e. the object of some action, but he has now learned a new use for the Accusative, viz. that it may be an Appositive qualifying another Accusative. Hence, in future, in preparing his exercises, he must remember that a Nominative may be either the subject of a verb or an Appositive, and that an Accusative may be either the object of an action or an Appositive, but he will have little difficulty in distinguishing the Appositive from the subject or object, if he remembers that it follows another noun or pronoun in the same case, as in examples 2 and 4 under 28.

The pupil has also learned that a noun may be qualified by another noun denoting a different person or thing, and that the qualifying noun is in the Genitive, as in the sixth and seventh examples under 28, but the Genitive may also be used as an Appositive to another Genitive; hence the pupil must remember when he sees a Genitive that it may either qualify another noun, denoting a different person or thing, or may be an Appositive to another Genitive. See Suggestion VI., page 262.

agricolae¹ filiās docēbunt? 4. Filiās docēbunt. 5. Artemisia rēgīna² tacēbat. 6. Victōria rēgīna jūstitiam laudat. 7. Incolae Victōriam rēgīnam³ honōrant. 8. Nōnne poēta filiam Jūliam⁴ docēbit? 9. 8. Did Artemisia the queen fear the sailors? 9. She did not fear the sailors. 10. Did not the husbandmen fear the queen? 11. They were fearing Artemisia the queen. 12. Will not the girls see the queen? 13. They will see the queen. 14. Will they not see the crown?

LESSON XII.

NOUNS. — SECOND DECLENSION.

32. Lesson from the Grammar.

51. Nouns of the second declension end in er, ir, us, and os —masculine; um, and on—neuter.

¹ In form where may agricolae be found? In what case is it in this sentence? See Suggestion VII., page 263.

² Which nominative is subject and which appositive?

³ Which accusative is object and which appositive?

⁴ In form where may poētae be found? In what case is it here?

Nouns in er, ir, us, and um are declined as follows:

Servus, slave. Puer, boy. Ager, field. Templum, temple.

SINGULAR.
Nom. servus	puer	ager	templum
Gen. servi	pueri	agri	templi
Dat. servō	puerō	agrō	templō
Acc. servum	puerum	agrum	templum
Voc. serve	puer	ager	templum
Abl. servō	puerō	agrō	templō
PLURAL.
Nom. servi	pueri	agri	templa
Gen. servōrum	puerōrum	agrōrum	templōrum
Dat. serviis	pueriis	agriis	templiis
Acc. servōs	puerōs	agrōs	templa
Voc. servi	pueri	agri	templa
Abl. serviis	pueriis	agriis	templiis

1. STEM. — In nouns of the second declension, the stem ends in o.

2. In the PARADIGMS, observe —

1) That the stems are servo, puero, agro, and templo.

2) That the characteristic o becomes u in the endings us and um, and e in serve; that it disappears by contraction in the endings a, i, and is (for o-a, o-i, and o-is), and is dropped in the forms puer and ager.

3) That the case-endings, including the characteristic o,¹ are as follows:—

SINGULAR.		PLURAL.
MASC.	NEUT.	MASC.	NEUT.
Nom. us ²	um	Nom. i	a
Gen. i	i	Gen. ōrum	ōrum
Dat. ō	ō	Dat. is	is
Acc. um	um	Acc. ōs	a
Voc. e	um	Voc. i	a
Abl. ō	ō	Abl. is	is

3. EXAMPLES FOR PRACTICE. — Like SERVUS: dominus, master. Like PUER: gener, son-in-law. Like AGER: magister, master. Like TEMPLUM: bellum, war.

¹ For the characteristic, and for the distinction between case-endings and case-suffixes, see 11 with foot-note.

² The endings of the Nominative and Vocative Singular are wanting in nouns in er. Thus puer is for puerus.

5. Nouns in ius generally contract ī in the Genitive Singular and ie in the Vocative Singular into i without change of accent ; Claudī for Claudīi, of Claudius, filī for filīi, of a son ; Mercūri for Mercūrie, Mercury, filī for filie, son.

8. LOCATIVE. — Names of towns, and a few other words, have a Locative Singular in i, denoting the place in which (page 23, 4). Corinthī, at Corinth ; humī, on the ground.

33. Vocabulary.

Ager, agrī, m.	field.

LESSON XIV.

ADJECTIVES. — FIRST AND SECOND DECLENSIONS. — RULE XXXIV.

39. Lesson from the Grammar.

146. The Adjective is the part of speech which is used to qualify nouns: bonus, good; māgnus, great.

NOTE. — The form of the adjective in Latin depends in part upon the gender of the noun which it qualifies: bonus puer, a good boy; bona puella, a good girl; bonum templum, a good temple.

147. Some adjectives are partly of the first declension, and partly of the second, while all the rest are entirely of the third declension.

² In what case should the Latin word for daughter be put? The word for of the queen? See 28, Rule II. and Rule XVI.

FIRST AND SECOND DECLENSIONS : A AND O STEMS.

148. Bonus, good.¹

SINGULAR.
MASC.	FEM.	NEUT.

Servus Bonus, a good slave.²

SINGULAR.
Nom. servus bonus,	a good slave.
Gen. servi boni,	of a good slave.
Dat. servo bono,	for a good slave.
Acc. servum bonum,	a good slave.
Voc. serve bone,	O good slave.
Abl. servo bono,	from a good slave.
PLURAL.
Nom. servi boni,	good slaves.
Gen. servorum bonorum,	of good slaves.
Dat. servis bonis,	for good slaves.
Acc. servos bonos,	good slaves.
Voc. servi boni,	O good slaves.
Abl. servis bonis,	from good slaves.

¹ BONUS is declined in the Masc. like servus of Decl. II., (32, 51,) in the Fem. like mēsa of Decl. I., (11, 48), and in the Neut. like templum of Decl. II., (32, 51). The stems are bono in the Masc. and Neut., and bonū in the Fem.

² In English the adjective usually precedes its noun, but in Latin it sometimes precedes and sometimes follows, though when not emphatic it more frequently follows.

40. Examine the following examples.

- | | |
|---|----------------------------|
| 1. Servus bonus. | A good slave. |
| 2. Servi boni. | Of a good slave. |
| 3. Servis bonis. | For good slaves. |
| 4. Verae amicitiae. ¹ | TRUE friendships. |
| 5. Templum pulchrum. | A beautiful temple. |

NOTE. — In these examples, observe that the adjectives are all in the same Gender, Number, and Case as their nouns. This usage is expressed in the following RULE XXXIV. — Agreement of Adjectives.

438. An adjective agrees with its noun in GENDER, NUMBER, and CASE.

Tullia feared the haughty tyrant. 17. Tullia loves faithful friends. 18. The sailor will see the sacred temple.

LESSON XVI.

ADJECTIVES.—FIRST AND SECOND DECLENSIONS.

45. Lesson from the Grammar.

¹ While in general the verb in Latin occupies the last place in the sentence, est and sunt often stand between the subject and the predicate adjective, as in this sentence. Some freedom of arrangement is, however, allowed. Thus Corōnae sunt aureae might be corōnae aureae sunt, and corōna aurea est, above, might be corōna est aurea.

² Novum is emphatic.

³ Put the adjective in the right form to agree with its noun.

⁴ In translating English into Latin, the pupil is expected, in the arrangement of words, to imitate the order followed in the Latin Exercises.

149. Liber, free.¹

	SINGULAR.

151. IRREGULARITIES. — Nine adjectives have in the singular iūs in the Genitive and ī in the Dative:

Alius, a, ud, another; nūllus, a, um, no one; sōlus, alone; tōtus, whole; ūllus, any; ūnus,² one; alter, -tera, -terum, the other; uter, -tra, -trum, which (of two); neuter, -tra, -trum, neither.

LESSON XVII.

ADJECTIVES. — FIRST AND SECOND DECLENSIONS.

Aeger, aegra, aegrum,	ill, sick.
Beātus, a, um,	happy, blessed.

13. Julia, the beautiful daughter of the poet, is ill. 14. Tullia was praising the beautiful daughter of the poet. 15. The temple is beautiful. 16. Many temples are beautiful. 17. Tullia will see the beautiful temples. 18. Will not the pupils have beautiful books? 19. They will have beautiful books. 20. Friends will be faithful.

LESSON XVIII.

THIRD DECLENSION — CONSONANT AND I NOUNS.

49. Lesson from the Grammar.

55. Nouns of the third declension end in a, e, i, ō, y, c, l, n, r, s, t, and x.

56. Nouns of this declension may be divided into two classes:

I. Nouns whose stem ends in a Consonant.

II. Nouns whose stem ends in I.

CLASS I. — CONSONANT STEMS.

57. STEMS ENDING IN A LABIAL: B OR P.

Princeps, m., a leader, chief.

		SINGULAR.	CASE-SUFFIXES.
Nom.	princeps,	a leader,	s
Gen.	principis,	of a leader,	is
Dat.	principi,	to, for a leader,	i
Acc.	principem,	a leader,	em

Abl.	principe,	from, with, by a leader,	e
		PLURAL.
Nom.	principēs,	leaders,	ēs
Gen.	principum,	of leaders,	um
Dat.	principibus,	to, for leaders,	ibus
Acc.	principēs,	leaders,	ēs
Voc.	principēs,	O leaders,	ēs
Abl.	principibus,	from, with, by leaders.	ibus

1. STEM AND CASE-SUFFIXES. — In this Paradigm observe —

1) That the stem is prīncep, modified before an additional syllable to prīncip; see p. 2, 22, and 49, 57, 2.

2) That the case-suffixes appear distinct and separate from the stem;¹ see 11, 46, with foot-note.

2. VARIABLE VOWEL. — In the final syllable of disyllabic consonant stems, short e or i generally takes the form of e in the Nominative and Vocative Singular, and that of i in all the other cases. Thus prīnceps, prīncipis, and jūdex, jūdicis (53, 59), alike have e in the Nominative and Vocative Singular, and i in all the other cases.

58. STEMS ENDING IN A DENTAL: D OR T.

1. STEMS AND CASE-SUFFIXES. — In these Paradigms observe —

1) That the stems are lapid, aetāt, milit, nepōt, virtūt, and caput.

2) That mīles has the variable vowel, e, i, and caput, u, i.

3) That the dental d or t is dropped before s: lapis for lapids, aetās for aetāts, mīles for mīlets, virtūs for virtūts.

4) That the case-suffixes, except in the neuter, caput, 'head,' are the same as those given above; see 49, 57.

5) That the neuter, caput, has no case-suffix in the Nominative, Accusative, and Vocative Singular, a in the Nominative, Accusative, and Vocative Plural, and the suffixes of masculine and feminine nouns in the other cases.

LESSON XIX.

THIRD DECLENSION. — CLASS I.

50. Vocabulary.

1. STEMS AND CASE-SUFFIXES. — In the Paradigms observe —

- 1) That the stems are rēg, jūdic, rādic, and duc; jūdic with the variable vowel, i, e; see 49, 57, 2.
- 2) That the case-suffixes are those given in 49, 57.
- 3) That s in the Nominative and Vocative Singular unites with c or g of the stem, and forms x; see p. 3, 30.

54. Examine the following examples.

1. Imperiō pāret. He is obedient TO (obeys) AUTHORITY.
2. Hōc mihi placet. This is pleasing TO (pleases) ME.
3. Nōbis vita data est. Life has been given TO US.
4. Lēgēs civitātī scripsit. He wrote laws FOR THE STATE.

NOTE.—In these examples imperiō, ‘to authority,’ mihi, ‘to me,’ nōbis, ‘to us,’ and civitātī, ‘for the state,’ are examples of what is called the Indirect Object. The first is the Indirect Object of pāret, the second of placet, the third of data est, and the fourth of scripsit. If the verb is transitive (p. 12, 193), as in the last example, an Accusative of the Direct Object (16, 371) may be used in addition to the Indirect Object. Observe that in these examples the Indirect Objects are all in the Dative Case. This is in accordance with the following

RULE XII.—Dative with Verbs.

384. The INDIRECT OBJECT of an action is put in the Dative. It is used —

I. With INTRANSITIVE and PASSIVE Verbs:

*Serviunt populō, they are devoted TO THE PEOPLE.*¹ Cic. Imperiō pārebant, they were obedient TO (obeyed) AUTHORITY. Caes. Tempori

¹ Populō, ‘to the people,’ is in the Dative, and is the Indirect Object of serviunt, ‘they serve’ or ‘are devoted;’ plēbi, ‘to the common people,’ is the Indirect Object of the transitive verb edit, ‘he gave,’ which also takes the Direct Object agrūs, ‘fields,’ ‘lands.’

cēdit, he yields to the time. Cic. Labōrī student, they devote themselves to labor. Caes. Mundus deō pāret, the world obeys God. Cic. Nōbis vita data est, life has been granted to us. Cic.

II. With TRANSITIVE Verbs, in connection with the DIRECT OBJECT :

Agrōs plēbī¹ dedit, he gave lands to the common people. Cic. Tibī grātiās agō, I give thanks to you. Cic. Pōns iter hostībus dedit, the bridge gave a passage to the enemy. Liv. Lēgēs civitatībus suis scripsērunt, they prepared laws for their states. Cic.

1. STEMS AND CASE-SUFFIXES. — In the Paradigms observe —

1) The stems are sōl, cōsul, passer, patr, pāstōr, leōn, virgon, carmen.

2) Virgō (virgon) has the variable vowel, o, i, and carmen, e, i.

3) In the Nominative and Vocative Singular s, the case-suffix, is omitted, the stem pāstōr shortens o, while teōn and virgon drop n.

1. STEMS AND CASE-SUFFIXES. — In the Paradigms observe —

- 1) That the stems are flōs, jūs, opos, and corpos.
- 2) That opus has the variable vowel, e, u, and corpus, o, u.
- 3) That s of the stem becomes r between two vowels: flōs, flōris (for flōsis).
- 4) That the Nominative and Vocative Singular omit the case-suffix; see 58, 60, 1, 3).

LESSON XXIII.

THIRD DECLENSION. — RULE I. — EXERCISES.

59. Examine the following examples.

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1. Servius rēx . | Servius THE KING. |
| 2. Servius rēx erat . | Servius was KING. |
| 3. Artemisia, Mausōli uxor . | Artemisia , THE WIFE of Mausolus . |
| 4. Artemisia Mausōli uxor erat . | Artemisia was THE WIFE of Mausolus . |

NOTE 1. — In the first example rēx is an Appositive; see 28, Rule II. In the second example, however, rēx is predicated or affirmed of Servius, — Servius was king, — and is called a Predicate Noun. Rēx erat is the Predicate of the sentence of which Servius is the subject. In the third example uxor is an Appositive, while in the fourth it is a Predicate Noun, predicated of Artemisia.

NOTE 2. — In the second and fourth examples observe that rēx and uxor are in the same case as the nouns of which they are predicated, i.e. in the Nominative. This usage is expressed in the following

RULE I. — Predicate Nouns.¹

362. A noun predicated of another noun denoting the same person or thing agrees with it in CASE:

*Brūtus cūstōs*¹ libertātis fuit, Brutus was the GUARDIAN of liberty.
 Liv. Servius rēx est dēclārātus, Servius was declared KING. Liv.
Orestem sē esse dixit, he said that he was ORESTES. Cic.

60. Vocabulary.

Bellum , i, n.	war.
Brūtus , i, m.	Brutus , a Roman name.
Cāria , ae, f.	Caria , a country in Asia Minor.
Catō , ōnis, m.	Cato , a Roman name.
Causa , ae, f.	cause.
Cicerō , ōnis, m.	Cicero , a Roman orator and states-
Exsul , ulis, m. and f.	exile. [man.]
Frāter , frātris, m.	brother.
Herodotus , i, m.	Herodotus , a Greek historian.
Historia , ae, f.	history.
Imperātor , ōris, m.	general, commander.
Libertās , ātis, f.	liberty, freedom.
Mausōlus , i, m.	Mausolus , King of Caria.
Numa , ae, m.	Numa , second of the legendary kings
Ōrātor , ōris, m.	orator. [of Rome.]
Uxor , ōris, f.	wife.
Victor , ōris, m.	conqueror.
Vindex , vindicis, m. and f.	defender.

61. Translate into English.

1. Cicerō exsul erat. 2. Nōne cōsul bellum timēbat?
 3. Bellum timēbat. 4. Numa erat bonus rēx. 5. Cicerō cōsul victōrem laudat. 6. Numa rēx patriam amābat. 7.
Ōrātor Numam laudat. 8. Cicerō cōsul erat. 9. Vindex libertātis.² 10. Brūtus, vindex libertātis. 11. Brūtus est vindex³ libertātis. 12. Poēta imperātōrem laudat. 13.

¹ In these examples cūstōs, rēx, and Orestem are all predicate nouns, and agree in case respectively with Brūtus, Servius, and sē.

² Libertātis is in the Genitive, depending upon vindex, according to 28, Rule XVI. The Genitive generally follows its noun, as in this instance, but sometimes, especially when emphatic, it precedes, as in belli causa below.

³ Vindex in 10 is an Appositive, according to 28, Rule II., but in 11 it is a Predicate Noun, according to 59, Rule I.

Tullia bellī causa erat. 14. Tullia, rēgis filia.¹ 15. Herodotus, pater historiae. 16. Catō, māgnus imperātor. 17. Catō māgnus imperātor erat.

18. Jūstitia, rēgīna virtūtum. 19. Jūstitia est rēgīna virtūtum. 20. Artemisia rēgis² uxor erat. 21. Artemisia Mausōlī, Cariae rēgis,³ uxor erat. 22. Virtūs est comes sapientiae. 23. Virtūtēs sunt comitēs sapientiae. 24. Jūdex virtutem rēgis laudat. 25. Virtūtēs rēgis bonī laudābat. 26. Poetae virtūtēs Numae, rēgis bonī, laudābunt. 27. Rēx bonus⁴ est. 28. Pater jūdicis rēgem bonum laudābit. 29. Tulliam, rēgis filiam,⁵ accūsābant.

62. Translate into Latin.

1. Cicero was an orator. 2. He was a great orator. 3. Mausolus was king. 4. Was he not king of Caria? 5. He was king of Caria. 6. Poets will praise the great commander. 7. They praise the father of history. 8. Does not the consul praise his brother? 9. He praises his brother.

10. The soldiers fear the king. 11. Latinus was the king.⁶ 12. Lavinia was the daughter of Latinus. 13. Lavinia was the daughter of Latinus, the king.⁷ 14. The daughter of the king was praising the faithful slave. 15. The orator will praise the wisdom of the judge. 16. Cicero, the orator, praises the bravery of the conqueror. 17. Cicero, the consul, praises the bravery of the soldiers. 18. The judge praises the wisdom of Cicero, the consul.

² Remember that the Genitive sometimes precedes the governing word, especially when it is emphatic.

³ What is the construction of rēgis? See 28, Rule II.

⁴ See 40, Rule XXXIV.

⁵ Explain the case of filiam. See 28 and 16, Rules II. and V.

⁶ A Predicate Noun. See 59, Rule I.

⁷ In what case will you put the Latin word? See 28, Rule II.

Abl.	tussibus	turribus	ignibus	hostibus	nūbibus

I. PARADIGMS. — Observe —

1. That the stems are tussi, turri, igni, hosti, and nūbi.
2. That the case-endings, including the characteristic i, which disappears in certain cases, are as follows: —

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
Nom. is, ēs	ēs
Gen. is	ium
Dat. i	ibus
Acc. im, em	ēs, is
Voc. is	ēs

Acc.	maria	animālia	calcāria	ia
Voc.	maria	animālia	calcāria	ia
Abl.	maribus	animālibus	calcāribus	ibus

1. PARADIGMS. — Observe—

1) That the stem-ending i is changed to e in the Nominative, Accusative, and Vocative Singular of mare, and dropped in the same cases of animal (for animāle) and calcar (for calcāre).

2) That the case-endings include the characteristic i.

64. STEMS ENDING IN I.—Nouns in s and x generally preceded by a consonant.

	Clīens, M. & F. , client.	Urbs, F. , city.	Arx, F. , citadel.	Mūs, ² M. , mouse.

Acc.	clīentem	urbem	arcem	mūrem
Voc.	clīens	urbs	arx	mūs
Abl.	clīente	urbe	arce	mūre

¹ The dash here implies that the case-ending is sometimes wanting.

² Clīens is for clīentis, urbs for urbis, arz for arcis, and mūs for mūsis. Mūs, originally an s-stem, Greek μῦς, became an i-stem in Latin by assuming i.

³ The vowel e is here short before nt, but long before ns; see p. 9, 16, note 2. Indeed, it seems probable that nt and nd shorten a preceding vowel, as ns lengthens it.

PLURAL.

Nom.	clientēs	urbēs	arcēs	mūrēs

Abl.	clientibus	urbibus	arcibus	mūribus

I. PARADIGMS. — Observe —

- 1) That the stems are clienti, urbi, arci, and mūri.
- 2) That these nouns are declined in the singular precisely like consonant-stems, and in the plural precisely like all other masculine and feminine i-stems.

65. SUMMARY OF I-STEMS. — To I-stems belong —

1. All nouns in is and ēs which do not increase¹ in the Genitive; see 63, 62.

2. Neuters in e, al (for ālis), and ar (for āris); see 63, 63.

3. Many nouns in s and x — especially (1) nouns in ns and rs, and (2) monosyllables in s and x preceded by a consonant; see 63, 64.

66, 4. LOCATIVE. — Many names of towns have a Locative Singular in i or e denoting the place in which (11, 46, 4). Karthāginī or Karthāgine, at Carthage, Tīburi or Tibure, at Tibur.

LESSON XXV.

GENDER IN THIRD DECLENSION. — RULE XXXIII. — EXERCISES.

64. Lesson from the Grammar.

GENDER IN THIRD DECLENSION.

99. Nouns in the third declension ending in ō, or, ōs, er, and in ēs and es increasing in the Genitive,¹ are masculine: sermō, discourse; dolor, pain; mōs, custom; agger, mound; pēs, Genitive pedis, foot.

¹ That is, have no more syllables in the Genitive than in the Nominative.

105. Nouns of the third declension ending in ās, as, is, ys, x, in ēs

not increasing in the Genitive, and in s preceded by a consonant, are feminine: aetās, age; nāvis, ship; chlamys, cloak; pāx, peace; nūbēs, cloud; urbs, city.

111. Nouns of the third declension ending in a, e, ī, y, c, l, n, t, ār, ar, ur, ūs, and us are neuter: ¹ poëma, poem; mare, sea; lāc, milk; animal, animal; carmen, song; caput, head; corpus, body.

65. Examine the following examples.

- | | |
|--------------------|---------------------------------|
| 1. Apud concilium. | In the presence of THE COUNCIL. |
| 2. Post castra. | Behind THE CAMP. |
| 3. Ab urbe. | From THE CITY. |
| 4. Prō castris. | Before THE CAMP. |

NOTE. — Observe that in the first and second of these examples, the nouns after the prepositions apud and post are in the Accusative, and that in the third and fourth the nouns after ab and prō are in the Ablative. This general usage is expressed in the following RULE XXXIII. — Cases with Prepositions.

432. The Accusative and Ablative may be used with prepositions: ²

¹ Nouns whose gender is determined by Signification (1. 42) may be exceptions to these rules for gender as determined by Endings.

² The Preposition is the part of speech which shows the relation of objects to each other: apud jūdicem dixit, 'he spoke in the presence of the judge'; prō castris, 'before the camp.' Here apud and prō are prepositions. In the Vocabulary, each preposition, as it occurs, will be marked as such; and the case which may be used with it will be specified. The following examples illustrate the use of prepositions: in Asiā profūgit, he fled into Asia; in Italiā fuit, he was in Italy; sub montem, toward the mountain; sub monte, at the foot of the mountain; ad urbem, to the city; apud concilium, in the presence of the council; contrā nātūrā, contrary to nature; ab urbe, from the city; ex Asiā, out of Asia.

Ad amicum scripsi, I have written to a friend. Cic. In cūriam, into the senate-house. Liv. In Italiā,¹ in Italy. Nep. Prō castris, before the camp. Caes.

66. Vocabulary.

Aedificat,	he builds.
Ante, prep. w. acc.	before.
Apud, prep. w. acc.	in the presence of, among, in ; of an author, in the works of.
Caesar, aris, m.	Caesar, the celebrated Roman statesman and general.
Civis, civis, m. ²	citizen.
Civitās, ātis, f.	state.
Contrā, prep. w. acc.	against, contrary to.
Habitat,	he resides, lives, dwells.
Hostis, is, m. and f.	enemy.
In, prep. w. acc. and abl.	into, in.
Lūx, lūcis, f.	light.
Multus, a, um,	much, many.
Nāvis, is, f. ²	ship.
Oppūgnat,	he assaults, attacks, storms.
Patria, ae, f.	native country.
Prō, prep. w. abl.	for, before.
Pūgnat,	he fights.
Rōmulus, ī, m.	Romulus, the legendary founder
Superat,	he conquers. [of Rome.

67. Translate into English.

1. Cīvēs rēgem laudant. 2. Rēx cīvēs laudat. 3. Puer leōnem timēbit. 4. Leō puerum terret. 5. Urbs est māgna. 6. Estne pulchra? 7. Est pulchra. 8. Rēx hostēs superābit. 9. Caesar multās navēs habēbat. 10. Apud Herodotum sunt fābulae. 11. Apud Herodotum, patrem historiae, sunt multae fābulae. 12. Militēs prō patriā pūgnābant. 13.

¹ Here the Ablative Italiā is used with in, though, in the second example, the Accusative cūriam is used with the same preposition. The rule is, that the Latin preposition in is used with the Accusative when it means into, and that it is used with the Ablative when it means in.

² Decline civis like ignis ; nāvis like turris.

³ See Rule XXXIII., 432.

Militēs prō libertāte pūgnant. 14. Cīvis bonus lēgibus patriae pāret.

15. Cōsul in urbe habitābat. 16. Hostēs urbem oppūgnābant. 17. Rēx urbēs multās oppūgnābit. 18. Caesar hostēs superābat. 19. Cōsul virtūtem hostium timēbat. 20. Militēs cōsulibus pārebunt. 21. Caesar turrīm oppūgnābat. 22. Rēx turrēs oppūgnābit. 23. Hostēs arcem oppūgnābunt. 24. Hostēs nāvēs multās habent. 25. Caesarī pūgnam nūntiant. 26. Cīvēs bonī lēgibus pārent. 27. Cōsulēs virtūtem hostium timent.

68. Translate into Latin.

1. The consul was attacking the tower. 2. He had (was having) many soldiers. 3. The king had a beautiful ship. 4. The consul had many ships. 5. The ships of the consul were large. 6. The commander destroyed the city. 7. He destroyed the city contrary to the law.¹ 8. Caesar conquers the king. 9. The citizens praise the law. 10. They praise the laws. 11. They praise the laws of the state. 12. The judge will obey the laws. 13. The citizens will obey the laws of the state. 14. The consul was building a large ship.

15. The citizens will build many ships. 16. The king has a good ship. 17. The soldiers were fighting for liberty. 18. The consul will attack the city. 19. He will conquer the enemy. 20. The conqueror is in the city. 21. The father of the king resides in the city. 22. The father of the good queen will reside in the city. 23. Good citizens will fight for their country. 24. The soldiers of the good king were assaulting many cities of the enemy.

¹ See 65, Rule XXXIII. The words contrary to are to be rendered by a single Latin preposition. We have already learned that the English prepositions of, to, by, with, etc., may generally be rendered into Latin without prepositions by simply using the proper case; but many prepositions, as before, between, behind, around, contrary to, must be rendered by corresponding prepositions.

LESSON XXVI.

CERTAIN FORMS OF THE THIRD CONJUGATION.

69. In verbs of the THIRD CONJUGATION, the THIRD PERSON in the singular and plural of the present, imperfect, and future tenses of the indicative mood has the following

		ENDINGS.
PRESENT.		IMPERFECT.	FUTURE.
Singular,	it	ēbat	et
Plural,	unt	ēbant	ent

PARADIGM.
SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
Pres. regit, he rules ;	regunt, they rule.
Imp. regēbat, he was ruling ;	regēbant, they were ruling.
Fut. reget, he will rule ;	regent, they will rule.

70. Examples. — Adverbs.

- | | |
|---------------------------|------------------------------------|
| 1. Miles pūgnat. | The soldier fights. |
| 2. Miles fortiter pūgnat. | The soldier fights BRAVELY. |
| 3. Miles nōn pūgnat. | The soldier does NOT fight. |

NOTE. — In these examples fortiter (bravely), and nōn (not) are adverbs modifying pūgnat. The use of adverbs is expressed in the following

RULE LXI. — Use of Adverbs.

551. Adverbs qualify VERBS, ADJECTIVES, and other ADVERBS :

Sapientēs feliciter¹ vivunt, the wise live happily. Cic. Facile doctissimus, unquestionably the most learned. Cic. Haud aliter, not otherwise. Verg.

¹ The Adverb is, therefore, the part of speech which is used to qualify verbs, adjectives, and other adverbs. Feliciter, 'happily,' is an adverb qualifying the verb vivunt, 'live' (live happily). Facile, 'easily,' 'unquestionably,' is an adverb qualifying the adjective doctissimus, 'the most learned' (easily, i.e. unquestionably the most learned). Haud, 'not,' is an adverb qualifying the adverb aliter, 'otherwise' (not otherwise). The adverb in Latin usually stands directly before the word which it qualifies, as in these examples.

71. Adverbs, unlike Nouns and Adjectives, from which they are largely derived, are indeclinable. They have a variety of endings, of which we now notice e, o, and ter: modestē, 'modestly'; saepe, 'often'; tūtō, 'safely'; fortiter, 'bravely.'

72. Vocabulary.

Ad, prep. with acc.	to.
Breviter, adv.	briefly.
Dē, prep. with abl.	about, concerning, in regard to.
Dīcit,	he says, speaks.
Diligenter, adv.	attentively, diligently.
Dūcit,	he leads.
Fēliciter, adv.	happily.
Fortiter, adv.	bravely.
Lēgātus, i, m.	ambassador; lieutenant.
Legit,	he reads.
Mittit,	he sends.
Modestē, adv.	modestly.
Nōn, adv.	not.
Numerus, i, m.	number.
Ōrātiō, ōnis, f.	oration, speech.
Regit,	he rules.
Saepe, adv.	often.
Scribit,	he writes.
Simpliciter, adv.	simply.
Vērum, i, n.	truth.
Vivit,	he lives.

73. Translate into English.

1. Dīcit, dīcēbant, dīcet. 2. Legunt, legēbat, legent. 3. Dīcunt, scrībunt. 4. Dīcēbat, scrībēbat. 5. Dīcent, scrībent. 6. Dūcit, dūcēbat, dūcet. 7. Regunt, regēbat, regent. 8. Cōsul modestē dīcēbat. 9. Puerī modestē dīcunt. 10. Rēx breviter dīcet. 11. Cōsulēs breviter dīcunt. 12. Jūdex fēliciter vīvit. 13. Cīvēs fēliciter vīvēbant. 14. Pāstōrēs simpliciter vīvunt.

15. Jūdex librum legēbat. 16. Jūdicēs ōrātiōnēs Cicerōnis legēbant. 17. Jūdicēs bonī ōrātiōnēs Cicerōnis cōsulis diligenter legēbant. 18. Epistulās cōsulis diligenter legent. 19. Hostēs lēgātōs ad Caesarem mittunt. 20. Hostēs lēgātōs ad rēgem mittent. 21. Militēs fortiter pūgnābant. 22. Cōsul amicōs multōs habēbat. 23. Cōsul māgnūm amicōrum numerum habēbat.

74. Translate into Latin.

1. He leads, he was leading, he will lead. 2. He rules, he was ruling, he will rule. 3. They lead, they rule. 4. They were leading, they were ruling. 5. They will lead, they will rule. 6. The judge will speak the truth. 7. They speak the truth. 8. They will speak modestly. 9. Cicero was writing to a friend. 10. The boys will write often. 11. Cicero was writing about friendship.

12. The king is writing a book. 13. He will write many books. 14. The boy is writing about virtue. 15. The boys will write about the victory. 16. The king lives happily. 17. The father of the good queen was living happily. 18. He was reading a good book. 19. The boys will read good books. 20. Caesar sends an ambassador to the enemy. 21. The king will send ambassadors to the enemy.

LESSON XXVII.

CERTAIN FORMS OF THE FOURTH CONJUGATION. — PERFECT TENSE.

75. In verbs of the FOURTH CONJUGATION, the THIRD PERSON in the singular and plural of the present, imperfect, and future tenses of the indicative mood has the following

ENDINGS.

	PRESENT.	IMPERFECT.	FUTURE.
Singular,	it	iēbat	iet
Plural,	iunt	iēbant	ient

PARADIGM.

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
Pres. audit, he hears;	audiunt, they hear.
Imp. audiēbat, he was hearing;	audiēbant, they were hearing.
Fut. audiet, he will hear;	audient, they will hear.

76. In verbs of the FOUR CONJUGATIONS, the THIRD PERSON in the singular and plural of the perfect tense of the indicative mood has the following

ENDINGS.

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
Conf. I. āvit	āvērunt
Conf. II. uit	uērunt
Conf. III. sit	sērunt
Conf. IV. ivit	ivērunt

PARADIGM.

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
I. amāvīt, he has loved;¹	amāvērunt, they have loved.¹
II. monuīt, he has advised;	monuērunt, they have advised.
III. rēxīt,² he has ruled;	rēxērunt,² they have ruled.
IV. audivīt, he has heard;	audivērunt, they have heard.

77. In the verb Sum, the THIRD PERSON in the singular and plural of the perfect tense of the indicative mood has the following forms:

SINGULAR.	PLURAL.
fuit, he has been, he was;	fuērunt, they have been, they were.

78. Examples. — Ablative.

- Virtūte rēgnum tenuit. He obtained the kingdom BY MERIT.*
- Oppidum vallō munīvit. He fortified the town BY MEANS OF A RAMPART.*

NOTE. — Observe in these examples that virtūte, 'by merit,' and vallō, 'by means of a rampart,' are both in the Ablative. This Latin idiom is expressed in the following

RULE XXV.—Ablative of Means.

420. INSTRUMENT and MEANS are denoted by the Ablative :

Cornibus tauri sē tūtantur, bulls defend themselves WITH THEIR HORNS. Cic. Glōriā dūcitur, he is led BY GLORY. Cic. Sōl omnia lūce collustrat, the sun illumines all things with its light. Cic. Lacte vivunt, they live upon milk. Caes. Tellūs saucia vomeribus, the earth turned (wounded) with the ploughshare. Ovid.

LESSON XXVIII.FOURTH CONJUGATION AND PERFECT TENSE. — EXERCISES.*79. Vocabulary.

Altus , a, nm,	high.
Artē , adv.	closely, soundly.
Castra , ōrum, n. pl.	camp.

Sermō , ōnis, m.	discourse, conversation.
Vallum , ī, n.	rampart.
Vōx , vōcis, f.	voice.

¹ As the ending of the third person singular of the present indicative is the same in the fourth conjugation as in the third, verbs of the fourth conjugation for the present will be distinguished in the vocabularies by the numeral 4.

80. Translate into English.

1. Audiunt, audiēbat, audient, audīvit. 2. Ērudīt, ērudīēbant, ērudiet, ērudivērunt. 3. Mūnit, cūstōdit, cūstōdient, mūnient. 4. Puerī dormiēbant. 5. Puer artē dormiēbat. 6. LESSON XXIX.

ADJECTIVES OF THE THIRD DECLENSION.

82. Lesson from the Grammar.

152. Adjectives of the third declension may be divided into three classes :

I. Those which have in the Nominative Singular three different forms—one for each gender.

II. Those which have two forms—the masculine and feminine being the same.

III. Those which have but one form—the same for all genders.

153. ADJECTIVES OF THREE ENDINGS in this declension have the stem in i, and are declined as follows :

Ācer, sharp. ¹
	MASC.	SINGULAR.	FEM.
Nom.	ācer ²	ācris	ācre
Gen.	ācris	ācris	ācris
Dat.	ācrī	ācrī	ācrī
Acc.	ācrēm	ācrēm	ācre
Voc.	ācer	ācris	ācre
Abl.	ācrī	ācrī	ācrī
	MASC.	PLURAL.	FEM.
Nom.	ācrēs	ācrēs	ācrīa
Gen.	ācrīum	ācrīum	ācrīum
Dat.	ācrībus	ācrībus	ācrībus
Acc.	ācrēs, īs	ācrēs, īs	ācrīa
Voc.	ācrēs	ācrēs	ācrīa
Abl.	ācrībus	ācrībus	ācrībus

¹ Ācer is declined like ignis in the Masc. and Fem., and like mare (63, 63) in the Neut., except in the Nom and Voc. Sing. Masc., and in the Abl. Sing.

² These forms in er are like those in er of Decl. II. in dropping the ending in the Nom. and Voc. Sing., and in developing final r into er : ācer for ācris, stem ācri.

154. ADJECTIVES OF TWO ENDINGS are declined as follows :

Tristis, sad . ¹			Tristior, sadder . ¹
			SINGULAR.
	M. AND F.	NEUT.		M. AND F.	NEUT.

83. Vocabulary.

Ācer, ācris, ācre,	sharp, severe.
Aetās, ātis, f.	age.
Cōpia, ae, f.	abundance, supply.
Crūdēlis, e,	cruel.
Fertilis, e,	fertile.
Fortis, e,	brave.
Gallus, ī, m.	Gaul.
Germānus, ī, m.	German.
Incolit,	he inhabits.
Inūtilis, e,	useless.
Nāvālis, e,	naval.
Occupat,	he seizes, takes possession of.
Omnis, e,	all.
Pābulum, ī, n.	fodder.
Per, prep. w. acc.	through, on account of, by means
Post, prep. with acc.	after. [of, by, during, for.
Singulāris, e,	remarkable, singular.
Timor, ōris, m.	fear.
Ūtilis, e,	useful.

¹ Tristis and triste are declined like ācris and ācre. Tristior is the comparative of tristis.

² Enclosed endings are rare.

84. Translate into English.

1. Cīvis est fortis. 2. Cīvēs fortēs erunt. 3. Rēx est beātus. 4. Estne fortis? 5. Fortis est. 6. Librī sunt ūtilēs. 7. Gallia fertilis erat. 8. Cīvēs fortiter pūgnant. 9. Fertilēs agrōs habent. 10. Acc. amantēs (is)	amantia	prudentēs (is)	prudentia
Voc. amantēs	amantia	prudentēs	prudentia
Abl. amantibus	amantibus	prudentibus	prudentibus

NOTE. — The participle amāns differs in declension from the adjective prūdēns only in the Ablative Singular, where the participle usually has the ending e, and the adjective, i.

COMPARISON OF ADJECTIVES.

160. Adjectives have three forms, called the Positive degree, the Comparative, and the Superlative: altus, altior, altissimus,¹ high, higher, highest. These forms denote different degrees of the quality expressed by the adjective.

161. The Latin, like the English, has two modes of comparison:

I. TERMINATIONAL COMPARISON, by endings.

II. ADVERBIAL COMPARISON, by adverbs.

I. TERMINATIONAL COMPARISON.

162. Adjectives are regularly compared by adding to the stem of the positive the endings:

COMPARATIVE.			SUPERLATIVE.
MASC.	FEM.	NEUT.	MASC.	FEM.	NEUT.
ior	ior	ius	issimus	issima	issimum

Altus, altior, altissimus: high, higher, highest.

Levis, levior, levissimus: light, lighter, lightest.

1. VOWEL STEMS lose their final vowel: alto, altior, altissimus.

¹ Each of these forms of the adjective is declined. Thus altus and altissimus are declined like bonus, 39, 148: altus, a, um; altī, ae, i, etc.; altissimus, a, um; altissimi, ae, i, etc. Altior is declined like tristior, 82, 154; altior, altius; altioris, etc.

165. The following are compared irregularly:

bonus,	melior,	optimus,	good, better, best.
māgnus,	māior,	māximus,	great, greater, greatest.
parvus,	minor,	minimus,	small, smaller, smallest.

166. POSITIVE WANTING.

citerior,	citimus,	nearer,	prior,	primus,	former,
dēterior,	dēterrimus,	worse,	propior,	prōximus,	nearer,
interior,	intimus,	inner,	ūterior,	ūltimus,	farther.
ōcior,	ōcissimus,	swifter,

II. ADVERBIAL COMPARISON.

170. Adjectives which want the terminational comparison form the comparative and superlative, when their signification requires it, by prefixing the adverbs, magis, more, and māximē, most, to the positive:

Arduus, magis arduus, māximē arduus.

Arduous, more arduous, most arduous.

LESSON XXXI.

THIRD DECLENSION OF ADJECTIVES. — COMPARISON. — EXERCISES.

87. Examples. — Comparison.

1. Aurum gravius est quam argentum. Gold is heavier THAN SILVER.
2. Aurum argentō gravius est. Gold is heavier THAN SILVER.

NOTE. — Observe (1) that in the first example, the Latin construction is the same as the English, and that the two nouns compared, aurum and argentum, are in the same case, i.e. in the Nominative, and (2) that in the second example quam is omitted, and that the second noun is put in the Ablative. This Latin idiom is expressed in the following RULE XXIII. — Ablative with Comparatives.

417. Comparatives without QUAM are followed by the Ablative:

 Cic. Quid est melius bonitāte,¹ what is better THAN GOODNESS? Cic.
 Scimus sōlem mājorem esse terrā,¹ we know that the sun is larger than the earth. Cic.

1. COMPARATIVES WITH QUAM are followed by the Nominative, or by the case of the corresponding noun before them:

Hibernia minor quam Britannia existimātur, Ireland is considered smaller than BRITAIN. Caes. Agris quam urbī terribilior, more terrible to the country than TO THE CITY. Liv.

NOTE. — Conjunctions are mere connectives, and are without inflection. Quam is a conjunction.

88. Comparison of Adverbs.

Most adverbs are derived from adjectives, and are dependent upon them for their comparison. The comparative is the accusative neuter singular of the adjective, and the superlative changes the ending us of the adjective into long ō:

altus,	altior,	altissimus,	loftly.
altē,	altius,	altissimē,	loftily.
prūdēns,	prūdentior,	prūdentissimus,	prudent.
prūdentē,	prūdentius,	prūdentissimē,	prudently.

tunate Gauls. 14. King Divitiacus was very powerful. He was the most powerful of all the chiefs. He was the most powerful of all the Gauls.

15. Virtue is more valuable than gold. 16. Wisdom is more useful than gold. 17. Virtue is better than wisdom. 18. The soldiers are braver than the general. 19. The wall will be double. 20. The enemy will fortify the city with a double wall. 21. The wall was very high. 22. The Gauls were fortifying the city with a very high wall.

LESSON XXXII.

NOUNS. — FOURTH DECLENSION. — FIFTH DECLENSION.

92. Lesson from the Grammar.

FOURTH DECLENSION: Ū NOUNS.

116. Nouns of the fourth declension end in us—masculine; ū—neuter.

They are declined as follows :

Fructus, fruit. Cornū, horn.

	SINGULAR.	CASE-ENDINGS.
Nom. fruct us	corn ū	us	ū
Gen. fruct ūs	corn ūs	ūs	ūs
Dat. fructu ī, ū ¹	corn ū	uī, ū ¹	ū
Acc. fructu m	corn ū	um	ū
Voc. fruct us	corn ū	us	ū
Abl. fruct ū	corn ū	ū	ū
	PLURAL.
Nom. fruct ūs	cornu a	ūs	ua
Gen. fructu um	cornu um	uum	uum
Dat. fructi bus	corni bus	ibus (ubus) ²	ibus (ubus)
Acc. fruct ūs	cornu a	ūs	ua
Voc. fruct ūs	cornu a	ūs	ua
Abl. fructi bus	corni bus	ibus (ubus)	ibus (ubus)

² The enclosed endings occur in a few words.

1. The STEM in nouns of the fourth declension ends in u: fructu, cornu.

2. The CASE-ENDINGS here given contain the characteristic u, weakened to i in ibus, but retained in ubus; see p. 2, 22.

FIFTH DECLENSION: E NOUNS.

120. Nouns of the fifth declension end in ēs—feminine, and are declined as follows:

	Diēs, day . ¹	Rēs, thing .
	SINGULAR.		CASE-ENDINGS.
Nom.	diēs	rēs	ēs
Gen.	diēī or diē	rēī or rē	ēī, ē
Dat.	diēī or diē	rēī or rē	ēī, ē
Acc.	diem	rem	em
Voc.	diēs	rēs	ēs
Abl.	diē	rē	ē
	PLURAL.		CASE-ENDINGS.
Nom.	diēs	rēs	ēs
Gen.	diērum	rērum	ērum
Dat.	diēbus	rēbus	ēbus
Acc.	diēs	rēs	ēs
Voc.	diēs	rēs	ēs
Abl.	diēbus	rēbus	ēbus

1. The STEM of nouns of the fifth declension ends in ē: diē, rē.

2. The CASE-ENDINGS here given contain the characteristic ē, which appears in all the cases. It is shortened (1) generally in the ending ēī when preceded by a consonant, and (2) regularly in the ending em.

93. Examples. — Time.

1. Urbem hōc tempore mūniunt. They are AT THIS TIME fortifying the city.

2. Sextō annō. IN THE SIXTH YEAR.

NOTE. — Observe that hōc tempore, 'at this time,' and sextō annō 'in the sixth year' are both in the Ablative. This Latin idiom is expressed in the following

¹ By exception, diēs is usually masculine in the singular, and always in the plural.

RULE XXXI. — Time.

429. The TIME of an Action is denoted by the Ablative:

Octōgēsīmō annō est mortuus, he died IN HIS EIGHTIETH YEAR.
Cic. Vēre convēnere, they assembled IN THE SPRING. Liv.

94. Vocabulary.

Aciēs, aciēi, f.	edge, line of battle.

The soldiers of Ariovistus did not have large experience in military affairs.

LESSON XXXIII.

NUMERALS.

97. Lesson from the Grammar.

171. Numerals comprise numeral adjectives and numeral adverbs.

172. Numeral adjectives comprise three principal classes:

1. CARDINAL NUMBERS :¹ ūnus, one ; duo, two.
2. ORDINAL NUMBERS :¹ prīmus, first ; secundus, second.
3. DISTRIBUTIVES :¹ singulī, one by one ; bīnī, two by two.

174. PARTIAL TABLE OF NUMERAL ADJECTIVES :

CARDINALS.	ORDINALS.	DISTRIBUTIVES.

Abl.	duōbus	duābus	duōbus	tribus	tribus

² Or two each, two apiece.

³ Instead of duōrum and duārum, duūm is sometimes used.

NOTE 1. — The plural of ūnus in the sense of alone may be used with any noun: ūnī Ubiī, the Ubiī alone; but in the sense of one, it is used only with nouns plural in form, but singular in sense: ūna castra, one camp; ūnae litterae, one letter.

176. The Cardinals from quattuor, 'four,' to centum, 'one hundred,' are indeclinable.

177. Hundreds are declined like the plural of bonus; ducentī, ae, a, 'two hundred.'

179. Ordinals are declined like bonus, and distributives like the plural of bonus.

98. Examples. — Duration of Time.

LESSON XXXIV.

PRONOUNS.

102. Lesson from the Grammar.

182. In construction, Pronouns¹ are used either as Substantives: ego, I, tū, thou; or as Adjectives: meus, my, tuus, your.

183. Pronouns are divided into six classes:

1. Personal Pronouns: tū, thou.
2. Possessive Pronouns: meus, my.
3. Demonstrative Pronouns: hic, this.
4. Relative Pronouns: quī, who.
5. Interrogative Pronouns: quis, who?
6. Indefinite Pronouns: aliquis, some one.

I. PERSONAL PRONOUNS.

184. Personal Pronouns,² so called because they designate the person of the noun which they represent, are:

¹ But in their signification and use, Pronouns differ widely from ordinary substantives and adjectives, as they never name any object, action, or quality, but simply point out its relation to the speaker, or to some other person or thing.

² Also called Substantive Pronouns, because they are always used substantively.

Ego, I. Tū, thou. Suī, *of himself, etc.*¹

2. Suī, of himself, etc., is often called the Reflexive pronoun.

4. REDUPLICATED FORMS. — Sēsē, tētē, mēmē, for sē, tē, mē.

6. CUM, when used with the ablative of a Personal Pronoun, is appended to it: mēcum, tēcum.

II. POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS.

185. From Personal pronouns are formed the Possessives:²

meus, a, um, my ;	noster, tra, trum, our ;
tuus, a, um, thy, your ;	vester, tra, trum, your ;
suus, a, um, his, hers, its ;	suus, a, um, their .

III. DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS.

186. Demonstrative Pronouns, so called because they specify the objects to which they refer, are declined as follows:

¹ Of himself, herself, itself. The Nominative is not used.

² Possessives are declined as adjectives of the first and second declensions; but meus has in the Vocative Singular Masculine generally mī, sometimes meus, and in the Genitive Plural sometimes meum instead of meōrum.

I. Hic, this, this one, he.

LESSON XXXVI.

PRONOUNS. — RELATIVE, INTERROGATIVE, INDEFINITE.

106. Lesson from the Grammar.

IV. RELATIVE PRONOUNS.

187. The Relative quī, 'who,' so called because it relates to some noun or pronoun, expressed or understood, called its antecedent, is declined as follows:

	SINGULAR.			PLURAL.
	MASC.	FEM.	NEUT.	MASC.	FEM.	NEUT.
Nom.	quī	quae	quod	quī	quae	quae
Gen.	cūjus	cūjus	cūjus	quōrum	quārum	quōrum
Dat.	cui	cui	cui	quibus	quibus	quibus
Acc.	quem	quam	quod	quōs	quās	quae
Abl.	quō	quā	quō	quibus	quibus	quibus

1. Quī = quō, quā, 'with which,' 'wherewith,' is a Locative or Ablative of the relative quī.

2. Cum, when used with the Ablative of the relative, is generally appended to it: quibuscum.

V. INTERROGATIVE PRONOUNS.

188. The Interrogative Pronouns quis and quī, with their compounds, are used in asking questions. They are declined as follows:

I. Quis, who, which, what?

	SINGULAR.			PLURAL.
	MASC.	FEM.	NEUT.	MASC.	FEM.	NEUT.
Nom.	quis	quae	quid	quī	quae	quae
Gen.	cūjus	cūjus	cūjus	quōrum	quārum	quōrum
Dat.	cui	cui	cui	quibus	quibus	quibus
Acc.	quem	quam	quid	quōs	quās	quae
Abl.	quō	quā	quō	quibus	quibus	quibus

II. Quī, which, what? is declined like the relative quī.

1. QUIS is generally used substantively, and QUI, adjectively. The forms quis and quem are sometimes feminine.

2. Quī, how? in what way? is a Locative or Ablative of the interrogative quis.

VI. INDEFINITE PRONOUNS.

189. Indefinite Pronouns do not refer to any definite persons or things. The most important are quis and quī, with their compounds.

190. Quis, 'any one,' and quī, 'any one,' 'any,' are the same in form and declension as the interrogatives quis and quī. But —

1. After sī, nisi, nē, and num, the Feminine Singular and Neuter Plural have quae or qua: sī quae, sī qua.

2. From quis and quī are formed — aliquis, aliqua, aliquid or aliquod, some, some one.

quidam, quaedam, quiddam or quoddam,¹ certain, certain one.

351. AN INTERROGATIVE SENTENCE has the form of a question :

Quis loquitur, who speaks? Ter. Quis nōn paupertatem extimēscit, who does not fear poverty? Cic. Quālis est oratio, what kind of an oration is it? Cic. Quot sunt, how many are there? Plant. Ubi sunt, where are they? Cic. Visne fortunam experiri meam, do you wish to try my fortune? Cic. Nōne nobilitari volunt, do they not wish to be renowned? Cic. Num igitur peccamus, are we then at fault? Cic.

1. INTERROGATIVE WORDS. — Interrogative sentences generally contain some interrogative word — either an interrogative pronoun, adjective, or adverb, or one of the interrogative particles: -ne, nōne, num; see examples above.

NOTE 1. — Questions with -ne ask for information; Scribitne, 'is he writing?'

NOTE 2. — Questions with nōne expect the answer yes: Nōne scribit, 'is he not writing?'

NOTE 3. — Questions with num expect the answer no: Num scribit, 'is he writing?'

2. The particle -ne is always appended to some other word, generally to the emphatic word of the sentence, i.e. to the word upon which the question especially turns; appended to nōn, 'not,' it forms nōne:

Visne experiri, do you wish to try? Cic. Tūne id veritus es, did you fear this? Cic. Omnisne pecunia soluta est, has ALL the money been paid? Cic. Unquamne vidisti, have you EVER seen? Cic. Nōne volunt, do they NOT wish? Cic.

352. ANSWERS.—Instead of replying to a question of fact with a simple particle meaning yes or no, the Latin usually repeats the verb or some emphatic word, often with prorsus, vērō, ‘certainly,’ ‘truly,’ and the like, or if negative, with nōn, ‘not.’

Dixitne causam, did he state the cause? Dixit, he stated it. Cic. Possumusne tūti esse, can we be safe? Nōn possumus, we can not. Cic.

353. DOUBLE OR DISJUNCTIVE QUESTIONS offer a choice or alternative, and generally take one of the following forms:

1. The first clause has utrum or -ne, and the second an:

Utrum ea vestra an nostra culpa est, is that your fault or ours Cic. Rōmamne veniō an hic maneō, do I go to Rome, or do I remain here? Cic.

2. The first clause omits the particle, and the second has an or anne:

Ēloquar an sileam, shall I utter it, or keep silence? Verg.

LESSON XXXVII.

PRONOUNS. — RULE XXXV. — EXERCISES.

107. Examples. — Agreement.

Rēx quem omnēs laudant.	The king WHOM all praise.
Rēgina quam omnēs laudant.	The queen WHOM all praise.
Ilī quōs omnēs laudant.	Those WHOM all praise.
Ego quī dicō.	I WHO speak.

NOTE. — In these examples the pronoun quem refers to rēx, called its antecedent, quam to its antecedent rēgina, quōs to its antecedent ilī, and qui to its antecedent ego. Observe that the pronoun in each instance is in the same gender and number¹ as its antecedent. Thus

¹ The case of the pronoun is determined by the construction of the clause in which it stands, and not by the case of its antecedent. Thus in these examples, though the antecedents are all in the Nominative, the pronouns quem, quam, and quōs are all in the Accusative as Direct Objects quem is in the masculine singular, because rēx is in that gender and number; quam in the feminine singular like rēgina; and quōs in the masculine plural like īi. The pronoun has also the same person as its antecedent. Thus quem, quam, and quōs are all in the third person, like their antecedents rēx, rēgina, and īi, while qui is in the first person, like its antecedent ego. This agreement of pronouns with their antecedents applies not only to relatives, but to all pronouns when used as substantives,¹ and is expressed in the following

RULE XXXV.—Agreement of Pronouns.

445. A pronoun agrees with its antecedent in GENDER, NUMBER, and PERSON :

Animal quod sanguinem habet, an animal WHICH has blood. Cic.
Ego, qui tē cōfirmō, I WHO encourage you. Cic. Vis est in virtutibus, eās excitā, there is strength in virtues, arouse THEM. Cic.

108. Vocabulary.

¹ Pronouns when used as adjectives agree like other adjectives, with the nouns to which they belong, according to 40, Rule XXXIV.

109. *Translate into English.*¹

1. Gallī ea loca incolunt. 2. Gallī fortēs sunt. 3. Gallī, quī² ea loca incolunt, fortēs sunt. 4. Germānī, quī cis Rhēnum incolunt, in armīs sunt. 5. Hostēs urbem,³ dō quā² suprā scripsit Caesar, vallō fossāque mūnīebant. 6. Reliquī omnēs Belgae in armīs erant. 7. Hī cōstanter omnēs idem⁴ nūntiant. 8. Venetī nāvēs habent multās, quibus⁵ in Britanniam nāvigant. 9. Ii quī vōbīs omnia dēbent, vōs semper amābunt. 10. Cīvēs nōbīs grātiās cotīdiō agunt.

11. Ille⁶ prīnceps doctrīnae, Platō, virtūtem et sapientiam laudat. 12. Ii quī hanc cīvitatē regunt, sapientēs sunt. 13. Quid dixit? Hōc dixit. 14. Num haec dīxērunt? Nōn dīxērunt.⁷ 15. Omnēs ferē Belgae in armīs fuērunt. 16. Cicerō in illō ipsō⁸ librō dū amīcitiā scripsit.

110. Translate into Latin.

1. Who was the king? 2. Was not⁹ Romulus king? He was.¹⁰ 3. Who was the leader of the Romans? Was not

¹ In preparing the longer and more difficult sentences in this and in the subsequent exercises, it is recommended that the pupil should follow the Suggestions which are inserted in this volume, page 200, and which are intended to aid him in discerning the process by which he may most readily and surely reach the meaning of a Latin sentence.

² For Gender and Number, see 107, Rule XXXV.

³ In reading this sentence in the Latin slowly and attentively, in accordance with Suggestion IV., which words do you recognize? What parts of speech do you find? What cases, moods, tenses, numbers, and persons? What does each case, mood, tense, number, and person show you?

⁴ Direct Object of nūntiant.

⁵ Ablative of Means. See 78, Rule XXV.

⁶ Ille is often thus used of what is WELL KNOWN, FAMOUS.

⁷ Observe that the auxiliaries does, do, did, are often used in interrogative and negative sentences in English, but that no corresponding auxiliaries are used in Latin. Thus, nōne dicit, does he say? nōn dicit, he does not say. Remember this difference in rendering into Latin, as in 110, 4 and 5, Did not Cicero, etc.?

⁸ Illō ipsō, that very; ipse is sometimes best rendered VERY.

⁹ What Interrogative will you use? See 106, 351, 1, notes.

¹⁰ See 106, 352.

Caesar the leader of the Romans? Caesar was the leader of the Romans. 4. Did not Cicero write this book? He wrote it. 5. Did he write the book that¹ the pupils are reading? He did not write it. Caesar, who conquered the Gauls, wrote that book. 6. Cicero, who wrote these books, was at that time a very renowned orator.

7. The enemy, about whom Caesar wrote above, were Gauls. 8. The Belgae, who were at that time in arms, were the bravest of the Gauls. 9. What did Plato praise? Did he not praise learning and wisdom? He always praised virtue. 10. Who has written in regard to friendship? Cicero, the consul, wrote a book in regard to friendship.

LESSON XXXVIII.

PRESENT AND IMPERFECT SUBJUNCTIVE ACTIVE, AND PRESENT IMPERATIVE ACTIVE, IN CONJUGATIONS I. AND II., AND IN THE VERB Sum. — RULE XXXVII.

111. Lesson from the Grammar.

196. The SUBJUNCTIVE MOOD² expresses not an actual fact, but a possibility or conception. It is best translated —

1. Sometimes by the English auxiliaries, let, may, might, should, would:

Amēmus patriam, LET US LOVE our country. Sint beāti, MAY THEY BE happy. Quaerat quispiam, some one MAY INQUIRE. Hōc nēmō dixerit, no one WOULD SAY this. Ego censeam, I SHOULD THINK, or I AM INCLINED TO THINK.

2. Sometimes by the English Indicative, especially by the Future forms with shall and will:

Huic cēdāmus, SHALL WE YIELD to this one? Quid diēs ferat incertum est, what a day WILL BRING FORTH is uncertain. Quaesi-vit si licēret, he inquired whether IT WAS LAWFUL.

¹ For the Gender, Number and Case of the Latin Pronoun, see 107, Rule XXXV., and 16, Rule V.

² For the Imperative Mood, see p. 13, 196, III.

92 INDICATIVE, SUBJUNCTIVE, IMPERATIVE.

3. Sometimes by the Imperative, especially in prohibitions :

Nē trānsieris Hībērum, do not cross the Ebro.

4. Sometimes by the English Infinitive :¹

Contendit ut vincat, he strives TO CONQUER. Missi sunt qui cōsularent Apollinem, they were sent TO CONSULT Apollo.

112. Examples. — Indicative Mood.

1. Galli ea loca incolunt. The Gauls INHABIT those places.

2. Hostēs urbem mūniēbant. The enemy WERE FORTIFYING the city.

NOTE. — Observe in these examples that the verbs incolunt, 'inhabit,' and mūniēbant, 'were fortifying,' relate to facts. They are in the Indicative Mood, in accordance with the Latin usage,² expressed in the following RULE XXXVII. — Indicative.

474. The Indicative is used in treating of facts :

Deus mundum aedificāvit, God made (built) the world. Cic. Nōne expulsus est patriā, was he not banished from his country ? Cic. Hōc fēcī dum licuit, I did this as long as it was permitted. Cic.

113. Certain Forms of the Subjunctive and Imperative.

I. In the Verb Sum, I am.

SUBJUNCTIVE.

	SINGULAR.	PRESENT.	PLURAL.
sim,	may I be,	simus,	let us be,
sis,	mayst thou be,	sitis,	be ye, may you be,
sit,	let him be, may he be ;	sint,	let them be.

² All the verbs in the preceding Lessons are in the Indicative Mood, and are illustrations of this usage.

IMPERFECT.

essem,	I should be,	essēmus,	we should be,

LESSON XXXIX.

SUBJUNCTIVE AND IMPERATIVE ACTIVE IN CONJUGATIONS I. AND II., AND IN THE VERB Sum. — RULES XXXVIII. AND XL. — EXERCISES.

114. Examples. — Subjunctive and Imperative.

1. Amēmus patriam.	LET US LOVE our country.
2. Nē audeant.	LET THEM not DARE.
3. Sint beātī.	MAY THEY BE happy.
4. Iūstitiam cole.	PRACTISE justice.
5. Perge, Catilīna.	GO, Catiline.

NOTE 1. — In the first three of these examples, observe that the verbs amēmus, audeant, and sint all express or imply a desire or wish on the part of the speaker. These verbs are all in the Subjunctive, in accordance with the Latin usage expressed in the following

RULE XXXVIII. — Subjunctive of Desire, Command.

483. The Subjunctive is used to represent the action NOT AS REAL, but AS DESIRED :

Valeant cīvēs, MAY the citizens BE WELL. Cic. Amēmus patriam, LET US LOVE our country. Cic. Ā nōbis diligātur, LET HIM BE LOVED by us. Cic. Scribere nē pigrēre, DO not NEGLECT to write. Cic.

1. The Subjunctive of Desire is often accompanied by utinam, and sometimes, especially in the poets, by ut, sī, ō sī :

Utinam cōnāta efficere possim, may I be able to accomplish my endeavors. Cic. Ut illum dī perdant, would that the gods would destroy him. Ter.

2. FORCE OF TENSES. — The Present and Perfect imply that the wish may be fulfilled; the Imperfect and Pluperfect, that it cannot be fulfilled :

Sint beātī, may they be happy. Cic. Nē trānsieris Hībērūm, do not cross the Ebro. Liv. Utinam possem, utinam potuissem, would that I were able, would that I had been able. Cic.

3. NEGATIVES. — With the Subjunctive of Desire, the negative is nē, rarely nōn; with a connective, nēve, neu, rarely neque :

Nē audeant, let them not dare. Cic. Nōn recēdāmus, let us not recede. Cic. Nēve minor neu sit prōductior, let it be neither shorter nor longer. Hor.

NOTE 2. — In the fourth and fifth of the examples at the head of this lesson, observe that the verbs cole and perge both denote a command. They are in the Imperative, in accordance with the Latin usage expressed in the following RULE XL. — Imperative.

487. The Imperative is used in COMMANDS, EXHORTATIONS, and ENTREATIES :

Jūstitiam cole, practise justice. Cic. Tū nē cēde malis, do not yield to misfortunes. Verg. Sī quid in tē peccāvi, ignōsce, if I have sinned against you, pardon me. Cic.

1. The PRESENT IMPERATIVE corresponds to the Imperative in English :

Jūstitiam cole, practise justice. Cic. Perge, Catilīna, go, Catiline. Cic.

119. Examples. — Sequence of Tenses. — Subjunctive of Purpose.

1. Nititur ut vincat. He strives TO CONQUER.
2. Nitebatur ut vinceret. He was striving TO CONQUER.
3. Mittuntur quā (= ut it) cōnsulant Apollinem. They are sent TO CONSULT (who may consult) Apollo.
4. Missi sunt qui cōsulerent Apollinem. They were sent TO CONSULT Apollo.

NOTE 1. — In these examples observe that after a present tense, as nititur, mittuntur, the verb of the subordinate clause¹ is also Present, as vincat, cōnsulant,² while after a past tense, as nitebatur, missi sunt, the verb in the subordinate clause is in the Imperfect, as vinceret, cōsulerent.² This adjustment of the tense in the subordinate clause to the tense in the Principal clause¹ is in accordance with the Latin usage expressed in the following RULE XLI. — Sequence of Tenses.

491. Principal tenses depend upon principal tenses ; historical upon historical :³

*Nititur ut vincat, he strives to conquer.*⁴ Cic. *Nēmō erit qui cēseat, there will be no one who will think.*⁴ Cic. Quaesierās nōne

² If the verb in the Subordinate Clause denotes completed action, it must be in the Perfect after a Present tense, and in the Pluperfect after a Past tense. See 492, 2, and 493, 2.

³ For Principal and Historical Tenses, see p. 13, 198.

⁴ The Present Subjunctive generally denotes present time in relation to the principal verb. Accordingly, vincat depending upon the present, nititur, denotes present time, while cēseat depending upon the future, erit, denotes future time.

putārem, you had asked whether I did not think. Cic. Ut honōre dignus essem laborāvi, I strove to be worthy of honor. Cic.

492. In accordance with this rule, the Subjunctive dependent upon a principal tense, present, future, future perfect, is put —

1. In the PRESENT, to denote incomplete action :

Quaeritur cūr dissentiant, the question is asked, why they disagree. Cic. Nēmō erit quī cēseat, there will be no one who will think. Cic.

2. In the PERFECT, to denote completed action :

Quaerāmus quae vitia fuerint, let us inquire what faults there were. Cic. Rogitabit mē ubī fuerim, he will ask me where I have been. Ter.

493. The Subjunctive dependent upon an historical tense, imperfect, historical perfect, pluperfect, is put —

1. In the IMPERFECT, to denote incomplete action :

Timēbam nē ēvenirent ea, I was fearing that those things would take place (i.e. at some future time). Cic. Quaesierās nōne putārem, you had inquired whether I did not think (i.e. at that time). Cic.

2. In the PLUPERFECT, to denote completed action :

Themistoclēs, cum Graeciam liberāset, expulsus est, Themistocles was banished, though he had liberated Greece. Cic.

NOTE 2. — In the examples given above, observe that the verbs in the Subordinate clauses, vincat, vinceret, cōsulant, cōsulerent, all express the purpose of the leading action. He strives (for what purpose?) that he may conquer or to conquer. They are sent (for what purpose?) that they may consult Apollo or to consult Apollo. These verbs are all in the Subjunctive, in accordance with the Latin usage expressed in the following

RULE XLII. — Purpose.

497. The Subjunctive is used to denote PURPOSE:

I. With the relative quī, and with relative adverbs, as ubī, unde, etc. :

Missi sunt quī (=ut ii) cōsulerent Apollinem, they were sent to CONSULT Apollo (who should, or that they should). Nep. Missi sunt dēlecti quī Thermopylās occupārent, picked men were sent to TAKE POSSESSION OF Thermopylae. Nep. Domum, ubī habitāret, lēgit, he selected a house where he might dwell (that he might dwell in it). Cic.

II. With ut, nē, quō, quōminus:

Enītur ut vincat, he strives that HE MAY CONQUER. Cic. Pūnit nē peccētur, he punishes that crime MAY NOT BE COMMITTED. Sen. Lēgum idcirco servi sumus, ut liberi esse possimus, we are servants of the law for this reason, that we may be free. Cic. Medicō dare quō sit studiōsior, to give to the physician, that (by this means) he may be more attentive. Cic. Nōn recūsāvit quōminus poenam subiret, he did not refuse to submit to punishment. Nep.

498. CLAUSES OF PURPOSE readily pass into Object Clauses,¹ but they still retain the Subjunctive.

Optō ut id audiātis, I desire (pray) that you may hear this. Cic. Servis imperat ut filiam dēfendant, he commands his servants to defend his daughter. Cic. Contendit ut vincat, he strives to conquer. Cic.

LESSON XLI.

The soldiers remained³ to hear the words of Caesar. 8. Let us lead the army back into camp. 9. Let us enrol three legions in Gaul. 10. The commander will send five legions to withstand⁴ the attacks of the enemy.

11. He sent three legions to withstand the attack of the enemy. 12. Let him not announce our plans to the enemy. 13. Will he not send a messenger to announce these things to Caesar? 14. Listen to me (hear me) that you may understand these things. 15. Caesar demanded that the Germans should not remain in Gaul.⁵ 16. The soldiers remained in the city that they might fortify it. 17. He asked us to help you. 18. They demand that you listen to our words. 19. Ariovistus demanded that Caesar should not help the Gauls. 20. They asked Caesar not to give them up to the Germans.

LESSON XLII.

PRESENT AND IMPERFECT SUBJUNCTIVE ACTIVE. —

RULE XLIII.

123. Examples. — Subjunctive in Clauses of Result.

1. Nōn is sum quī (= ut ego) I am not such a one AS TO USE his ūtar. these things.
2. Ita vīxit ut esset cārissimus. He so lived that HE WAS most dear.

¹ In Latin, use the Ablative of Means. See 78, Rule XXV.

² Use ut with the Subjunctive.

³ Or were remaining; use the imperfect.

⁴ Use the Relative with the Subjunctive.

⁵ That . . . in Gaul, an Object Clause; see 119, 498.

NOTE. — In these examples observe that the Subordinate verbs, ûtar, esset, express the Result of what is stated in the principal clause. They are in the Subjunctive in accordance with the Latin usage expressed in the following RULE XLIII. — Result.

500. The Subjunctive is used to denote RESULT:

I. With the relative quī, and with relative adverbs, as ubi, unde, cūr, etc.:

Nōn is sum quī (= ut ego) his ûtar,¹ I am not such a one as TO USE these things. Cic. Innocentia est adfectiō tālis animi, quae (= ut ea) noceat nēmīni,¹ innocence is such a state of mind as INJURES no one. Cic.

II. With ut, ut nōn, quān:

Ita vixit ut Athēniēnsibus esset cārissimus, he so lived that HE WAS very dear to the Athenians. Nep. *Ita laudō, ut nōn pertimēscam, I so praise as not TO FEAR.*² Cic.

501. CLAUSES OF RESULT readily pass into Substantive Clauses, but they still retain the Subjunctive. Thus the Subjunctive is used —

I. In SUBJECT CLAUSES:

Fit ut quisque delectētur, it happens that every one is delighted. Cic. Sequitur ut falsum sit, it follows that it is false. Cic.

II. In OBJECT CLAUSES:

Sōl efficit ut omnia flōreant, the sun causes all things to bloom (i. e., produces that result). Cic.

503. The Subjunctive is used in RELATIVE CLAUSES to characterize an Indefinite or General Antecedent:

Quid est quod tē delectāre possit, what is there which can delight you? Cic. Sunt qui putent, there are some who think. Cic. Nēmō est qui nōn cupiat, there is no one who does not desire. Cic.

¹ Is quī, literally, he who = 'such that I.' Tālis quae, literally, such which = 'such that it.'

² Or that I do not fear.

LESSON XLIII.

PRESENT AND IMPERFECT SUBJUNCTIVE ACTIVE. —

RULE LV.

127. Examples. — Indirect Questions.

1. Quaeris cūr dissentiant. You ask WHY THEY DISAGREE.
 2. Quaesivit salvusne esset clipeus. He asked WHETHER HIS SHIELD
 WAS SAFE.

NOTE. — In these examples observe that the Subordinate clauses cūr dissentiant, 'why they disagree,'¹ and salusne esset clipeus, 'whether the (his) shield was safe,'¹ involve questions without directly asking them. Such clauses are called Indirect Questions. The verbs in these Indirect Questions are in the Subjunctive, in accordance with the Latin usage expressed in the following

RULE LV. — Moods in Indirect Clauses.

529. The Subjunctive is used —

I. In indirect questions :

Quaeritur, cūr doctissimi hominēs dissentiant, it is a question, why the most learned men disagree. Cic. Quaesierās, nōne putārem, you had asked whether I did not think. Cic. Quālis sit animus, animus nescit, the soul knows not what the soul is. Cic. Quid diēs ferat incertum est, what a day will bring forth is uncertain. Cic.

II. Often in clauses dependent upon an Infinitive or upon another Subjunctive :

Nihil indignius est quam eum quī culpā careat supplicio nōn carere, nothing is more shameful than that he who is FREE from fault should not be exempt from punishment. Cic. Vereor nē, dum minuire velim laborem, augeam, I fear that while I WISH to diminish the labor, I shall increase it. Cic.

3. Indirect double questions are generally introduced by the same interrogative particles as are direct double questions (106, 353).

Thus they generally take utrum or -ne in the first member, and an in the second:

Quaeritur virtūs suamne propter dignitatem an propter fructūs aliquōs expetatur, it is asked whether virtue is sought for its own worth, or for certain advantages. Cic.

LESSON XLIV.

PRESENT INFINITIVE ACTIVE. — RULE LVI.

131. The *Present Infinitive*¹ of the verb Sum is esse, 'to be.' In the four conjugations, the Present Infinitive Active has the following

ENDINGS.

CONJ. I.	CONJ. II.	CONJ. III.	CONJ. IV.
āre,	ēre,	ere,	īre.

PRESENT INFINITIVE ACTIVE.

First conjugation,	amāre, to love.
Second conjugation,	monēre, to advise.
Third conjugation,	regere, to rule.
Fourth conjugation,	audire, to hear.
Verb sum,	esse, to be.

132. Examples. — Infinitive.

- | | |
|--------------------------|--|
| 1. Haec vitāre cupit. | He desires to AVOID these things. |
| 2. Vincere scit. | He knows how TO CONQUER. |
| 3. Gestiant scire omnia. | They long TO KNOW all things. |

NOTE. — In these examples observe that vitāre depends upon the verb cupit, 'he desires to avoid,' vincere upon scit, and scire upon gestiant. They are all in the infinitive, in accordance with the Latin usage expressed in the following

RULE LVI. — Infinitive.

533. Many verbs admit an Infinitive to complete or qualify their meaning:

Audeō dicere, I dare say (I venture to say). Cic. Haec vitāre cupimus, we desire to avoid these things. Cic. Cōstituit nōn prōgredi, he decided not to advance. Caes. Crēduli esse coepērunt, they began to be credulous. Cic. Vincere scīs, you know how to conquer (you know to conquer). Liv. Victōriā ūti nescīs, you do not know how to use victory. Liv.

133. In the Irregular verb Possum, 'I am able,' a compound of Sum,¹ the THIRD PERSON in the singular and plural of the present, imperfect, future, and perfect of the indicative has the following forms :

SINGULAR.	PARADIGM.	PLURAL.
Pres. potest , he is able ;		possunt , they are able.
Imp. poterat , he was able ;		poterant , they were able.

¹ Compounded of potis, 'able,' and sum, 'I am.'

² In a few verbs the third person singular has the same form in the perfect as in the present. Thus cōstituit in the present tense means he determines ; in the perfect, he has determined, or he determined. Contendit, 124, is also either present or perfect.

³ Thus dicere mātūrat, he hastens to write.

The soldiers ought not to hesitate to remain in line, that they may avoid suspicion of fear.

LESSON XLV.

READING AT SIGHT. — DIRECTIONS. — EXERCISE.

137. Directions for Reading at Sight.

I. Read at Sight in the Latin, slowly and attentively, the entire passage that is assigned for the exercise. In this reading

1. Remember that the full and exact meaning of an inflected word contains two distinct elements.

1) The general meaning of the word, without reference to case, number, mood, tense, etc., that is, the meaning of the STEM. See 11, 46.

2) The meaning of the endings which mark case, number, mood, tense, etc., that is, the meaning of the SUFFIXES.

2. Recall as vividly as possible the exact meaning of all the words which you recognize.

3. Notice carefully the ending of each word, and thus determine which words are nouns, which verbs, etc.

4. Determine from these endings case, number, voice, mood, tense, etc., and endeavor to recall the exact force of each.

¹ What Mood will you use in rendering into Latin? See 123, 500, II

² By what Mood will you render are? See 127, 529, I.

5. In Complex and Compound Sentences, observe carefully the relation of the clauses to one another, and determine which are principal,¹ and which are subordinate.¹ Remember that a clause introduced by a conjunction meaning and, or, but, therefore, adds a new thought, while a clause introduced by a conjunction meaning when, since, etc., only explains or modifies some other clause.

II. Having by this first reading acquired a good general idea of the entire passage, read a second time with the same care. If in this reading, any word should appear unfamiliar, endeavor to recall some passage in which you have previously met it. Be not hasty in turning to the passage, but use the knowledge which you already possess. As a last resort, if you fail to recall the word, turn to the vocabulary for it, and make yourself so familiar with it, that you will always recognize it in future.

III. Having by these two readings thoroughly mastered the entire passage, read the Latin aloud two or three times, for the important purpose of appreciating and enjoying the thought in its original form. By this practice the Latin will become, in time, a second vernacular, and you will enjoy reading a fine passage in Latin as you would enjoy reading one in English.

IV. After having thus read and examined the Latin, write a translation² of the passage in good idiomatic English.

138. *Read at Sight, examine carefully, and translate into English.*³

Omnēs ferē Belgae contrā populum Rōmānum conjūrāvērunt. Caesar igitur duās legiōnēs in citeriōre Galliā cōn-

² On Translation, see Suggestions XII, to XIX.

³ It is hoped that the pupil will enter upon this exercise with the determination to master it without help from any source. He has already had in previous lessons every word and every construction contained in it. The Hī cōstanter omnēs nūtiāvērunt: "Belgae manūs magnās cōgunt, et omnem exercitum in ūnum locum condūcunt." Tum vērō Caesar rem frūmentāriam comparāvit et ad finēs Belgārū contendit. Rōmī autem quī nōn in armīs erant, ad eum lēgātōs mīserunt quī cum populō Rōmānō pācem et amīcitiam cōfirmārent, et dicerent: "Reliquī omnēs Belgae in armīs sunt."

139. Translate into Latin.

1. The Remi did not conspire against the Roman people. All the rest of the Belgae did not hesitate to conspire against the Romans. 2. Caesar enrolled many legions in Italy and Gaul. He determined to send a lieutenant to conduct¹ two legions into the interior of Gaul. 3. The Remi hastened to establish peace and friendship with the Roman people. They will announce to the Romans what the rest of the Belgae are doing.

4. Caesar determined to hasten to the army and to ascertain what the Gauls were doing. 5. The tidings so disturbed the commander that he hastened² to enrol soldiers and to fortify his camp. 6. Let us prepare supplies of grain and hasten² toward the territory of the enemy. 7. Caesar ordered Pedius, the lieutenant, to conduct the legions into Gaul. 8. The Belgae determined to collect large bands of men. 9. The commander determined to send five legions to withstand¹ the attack of the enemy.

important point is, not that he should translate it absolutely at sight, but that he should master it entirely by means of his own resources. These exercises in Reading at Sight are intended to encourage independent work, to promote self-reliance in study, and to give facility in reading and appreciating Latin.

² For the choice of words, see 124 and 134.

LESSON XLVI.

VERB Sum IN FULL.140. Lesson from the Grammar.

CONJUGATION.

201. Regular verbs are inflected, or conjugated, in four different ways, and are accordingly divided into Four Conjugations. These Four Conjugations are distinguished from one another by the stem characteristics or by the endings of the Infinitive, as follows:

	CHARACTERISTICS.	INFINITIVE ENDINGS.
CONJ. I.	ā	ā-re
II.	ē	ē-re
III.	e	e-re
IV.	i	i-re

202. PRINCIPAL PARTS.—The Present Indicative, Present Infinitive, Perfect Indicative, and Supine are called from their importance, the Principal Parts of the verb.

203. The ENTIRE CONJUGATION of any regular verb may be readily formed from the Principal Parts by means of the proper endings.¹

1. SUM, I am, is used as an auxiliary in the passive voice of regular verbs. Accordingly, its conjugation, though quite irregular, must be given at the outset. The Principal Parts are —

PRES. INDIC.	PRES. INFIN.	PERF. INDIC.
Sum, I am ,	esse, to be ,	fuī, I have been .

¹ In the Paradigms of regular verbs, the endings which distinguish the various forms are separately indicated, and should be carefully noticed. In the principal tenses each ending contains the characteristic vowel.

204. Sum, I am.—STEMS, es, fu.

fuerit,	he will have been ;	fuerint,	they will have been.

¹ The Supine is wanting.² Sum is for esum, eram for eam. Whenever s of the stem es comes between two vowels, s is dropped, as in sum, sunt, or s is changed to r, as in eram, erō; see p. 3, 31. The pupil will observe that the endings which are added to the roots es and fu are distinguished by the type.³ Or you are, and in the Imperfect, you were; thou is confined mostly to solemn discourse.⁴ In verbs, final o, marked ō, is generally long.⁵ Or, Future, I will be; Perfect, I was.

Fut. estō,	thou shalt be,²	estōte,	ye shall be,
estō,	he shall be ;³	suntō,	they shall be.

INFINITIVE.

Pres. esse,	to be.
Perf. fuisse,	to have been.
Fut. futūrus esse,⁴	to be about to be.

PARTICIPLE.

Fut. futūrus,⁴ about to be.

1. In the Paradigm all the forms beginning with e or s are from the stem es ; all others from the stem fu.⁴

2. RARE FORMS :—forem, forēs, foret, forent, fore, for essem, essēs, esset, essent, futūrus esse ; siem, siēs, siet, sient, or fuam, fuās, fuat, fuant, for sim, sis, sit, sint.

¹ On the translation of the Subjunctive, see 111, 196, and remember that it is often best rendered by the Indicative. Thus, sim may often be rendered I am, and fuerim, I have been.

² Or be thou, or may you be.

³ The Fut. may also be rendered like the Pres., or with let : be thou ; let him be.

⁴ Futūrus is declined like bonus. So in the Infinitive : futūrus, a, um esse.

⁵ Es and fu are roots as well as stems. As the basis of this paradigm they are properly stems, but as they are not derived from more primitive forms, they are in themselves roots.

LESSON XLVII.

VERB SUM. — RULE XIV. — EXERCISES.

141. Examples. — Dative with Adjectives.

Patria omnibus cāra est. Native country is dear TO ALL.

Pax nobis grāta fuit. Peace was acceptable TO US.

amō,	amāre,	amāvī,	amātum.

INDICATIVE MOOD.

SINGULAR.		PRESENT TENSE.		PLURAL.
amō, ¹	I love, ²	amāmus,	we love,
amās,	you love, ³	amātis,	you love,
amat,	he loves ;	amant,	they love.

IMPERFECT.

amābam,	I was loving,	amābāmus,	we were loving,
amābas,	you were loving,	amābātis,	you were loving,
amābat,	he was loving ;	amābant,	they were loving.

FUTURE.

amābō,	I shall love, ⁴	amābimus,	we shall love,
amābis,	you will love,	amābitis,	you will love,
amābit,	he will love ;	amābunt,	they will love.

PERFECT.

amāvī,	I have loved, ⁵	amāvimus,	we have loved,
amāvisti,	you have loved,	amāvistis,	you have loved,
amāvit,	he has loved ;	amāverunt, ēre,	they have loved

PLUPERFECT.

sophōrum appellāt. | They call PLATO THE HOMER of
philosophers. |
| 2. Urbem Rōmam vocāvit. | He called THE CITY ROME. |

NOTE. — In these examples observe that appellāt, 'they call,' takes two Accusatives, Platōnem and Homērum, both referring to the same person, and that vocāvit, 'he called,' also takes two Accusatives, urbem and Rōmam, both referring to the same city. This Latin usage is expressed in the following

RULE VI. — Two Accusatives — Same Person.

373. Verbs of MAKING, CHOOSING, CALLING, REGARDING, SHOWING, and the like, admit two Accusatives of the same person or thing :

Hamilcarem imperātōrem fēcērunt, they made Hamilcar COMMANDER. Nep. Ancum rēgem populus creāvit, the people elected Ancus KING. Liv. Summum cōsiliū appellārunt Senātum, they called their highest council SENATE. Cic.

1. PREDICATE ACCUSATIVE. — One of the two Accusatives is the Direct Object, and the other an essential part of the Predicate. The latter may be called a Predicate Accusative; see 59, Rule I.

LESSON LIII.

FIRST CONJUGATION. — INDICATIVE PASSIVE. — REVIEW OF DECLENSIONS IV. AND V. — RULE XXII.

157. Lesson from the Grammar.

In the verb Amō, learn the Indicative Mood of the Passive voice. See page 136.

158. Examples. — Ablative.

- | | |
|-----------------------------|---|
| 1. Caedem ā vōbis dēpellit. | He wards off slaughter FROM YOU. |
| 2. Statua ex aere facta. | A statue made OF BRONZE. |
| 3. Expulsus est patriā. | He was banished FROM HIS COUNTRY. |
| 4. Ars utilitāte laudātur. | An art is praised BECAUSE OF ITS USEFULNESS. |

¹ For the construction of Double or Disjunctive Questions, see 106, 353.

² Or was inquiring, imperfect.

³ For the construction, see 127, 529, 3.

NOTE. — In these examples vōbis (ū vōbis), ‘from you,’ aere (ex aere), ‘of bronze,’ patriā, ‘from his country,’ and ūtilitāte, ‘because of its usefulness,’ are all in the Ablative, in accordance with the Latin usage expressed in the following RULE XXII. — Separation, Source, Cause.

413. Separation, Source, and Cause are denoted by the Ablative with or without a preposition :

SEPARATION. — Caedem ā vōbis dēpellō, I ward off slaughter FROM YOU. Cic. Expulsus est patriā, he was banished from his country. Cic. Urbem commeātū privāvit, he deprived the city of supplies. Nep. Cōnātū dēstitērunt, they desisted from the attempt. Caes.

SOURCE. — Hōc audīvī dē parente meō, I heard this FROM MY FATHER. Cic. Oriundi ab Sabinis, descended FROM THE SABINES. Liv. Statua ex aere facta, a statue made of bronze. Cic.

CAUSE. — Ars ūtilitāte laudātur, an art is praised BECAUSE OF ITS USEFULNESS. Cic. Rogātū vēneram, I had come by request. Cic. Ex vulnere aeger, ill in consequence of his wound. Cic.

415. The ABLATIVE OF SOURCE more commonly takes a preposition ; see examples under 413. It includes agency, parentage, material, etc.

I. The agent or author of an action is designated by the Ablative with ā or ab :

Occisus est ā Thēbānis, he was slain by the Thebans. Nep.

NOTE 1. — The Accusative with per may be used of the person through whose agency the action is effected :

Ab Oppianicō per Fabriciōs factum est, it was accomplished by Oppianicus THROUGH THE AGENCY OF THE FABRICII. Cic.

171. Examples. — Infinitive with Subject.

1. Pontem jubet rescindī. He orders THE BRIDGE TO BE BROKEN DOWN.
 2. Sentimus calēre ignem. We perceive THAT FIRE IS HOT.

NOTE 1. — The Latin usage illustrated in these examples by the Accusative and the Infinitive is expressed in the following

RULE LVII. — Accusative and Infinitive.

534. Many transitive verbs admit both an Accusative and an Infinitive :

Tē sapere docet, he teaches you to be wise. Cic. Eōs suum adventum expectāre jussit, he ordered them to await his approach. Caes. Pontem jubet rescindī, he orders the bridge to be broken down. Caes.

NOTE 2. — In the second of the above examples, the Accusative ignem may be regarded as the Subject of the Infinitive calēre, in accordance with the Latin usage expressed in the following

RULE LVIII. — Subject of Infinitive.

536. The Infinitive sometimes takes an Accusative as its subject :

Sentimus calēre ignem, we perceive that fire is hot. Cic. Platōnem Tarentum vēnisse reperiō, I find that Plato came to Tarentum. Cic.

LESSON LXIII.

FIRST AND SECOND CONJUGATIONS. — ACTIVE VOICE. — RULE XXX.

185. Examples. — Place in which.

- | | |
|-----------------------------|----------------------------|
| 1. In nostrīs castrīs fuit. | He was in our CAMP. |
| 2. Rōmæ fuit. | He was AT ROME. |

¹ Use the Ablative of the Gerund, as Ablative of Means.

² Remember that the Gerund governs the same case as other parts of the verb.

³ For Mood and Tense, see 114, 483, 2.

⁴ See 123, 500, II.

NOTE.—The Latin usage illustrated in the Locative Ablative castris, and in the Locative Rōmae, is expressed in the following RULE XXX.—Place in which.

425. The PLACE IN WHICH is denoted—

I. Generally by the *Locative Ablative*¹ with the preposition in:

Hannibal in Italiā fuit, Hannibal was IN ITALY. Nep. In nostris castris, in our camp. Caes. In Appiā viā, on the Appian way. Cic.

II. In NAMES OF TOWNS by the Locative,² if such a form exists, otherwise by the Locative Ablative:

Rōmae fuit, he was AT ROME. Cic. Corinthī puerōs docēbat, he taught boys AT CORINTH. Cic. Athēnīs fuit, he was AT ATHENS. Cic.

1. In the names of places which are not towns, the LOCATIVE ABLATIVE is often used without a preposition, when the idea of means, manner, or cause is combined with that of place:

Castris sē tenuit, he kept himself IN CAMP. Caes. Aliquem tectō recipere, to receive any one IN ONE'S OWN HOUSE. Cic. Proeliō cadere, to fall IN BATTLE. Caes.

2. The Ablatives locō, locis, parte, partibus, dextrā, laevā, sinistrā, terrā, and marī, especially when qualified by an adjective, and other Ablatives, when qualified by tōtus, are generally used without the preposition:

Aliquid locō pōnere, to put anything IN ITS PLACE. Cic. Terrā marique, on land and sea. Liv. Tōtā Graeciā, in all Greece. Nep.

426. LIKE NAMES OF TOWNS are used—

1. Many NAMES OF ISLANDS:

Lesbi vixit, he lived in Lesbos. Nep. Conōn Cypri vixit, Conon lived in Cyprus. Nep.

2. The LOCATIVES domī, rūri, humī, militiae, and belli:

Domī militiaeque, at home and in the field. Cic. Rūri agere vitam, to spend life in the country. Liv.

² See 11, 48, 4; 32, 51, 8; 63, 66, 4. The Locative was the original construction in all names of places.

186. Vocabulary.

LESSON LXXXII.

FOUR CONJUGATIONS IN FULL. — PASSIVE VOICE. — REVIEW OF RULE IV. — RULE XXXII.

240. Lesson from the Grammar.

RULE XXXII.³ — Ablative Absolute.⁴

431. A noun and a participle may be put in the Ablative to add to the predicate an attendant circumstance:

¹ On all sides; Latin idiom, FROM all sides; or render by a single adverb.

² Use the Ablative of Difference.

³ It seems to be no longer necessary to introduce Rules, as in previous lessons, by means of examples. The pupil has already learned the fact that a Grammatical Rule is nothing more than a statement of the general usage of the language. The introductory examples were intended chiefly to show him this fact.

⁴ This Ablative is called absolute, because it is not directly dependent for its construction upon any other word in the sentence.

Serviō rēgnante viguērunt, they flourished in the reign of Servius (Servius reigning).¹ Cic. Rēgibus exāctis, cōsulēs creāti sunt, *after the banishment of the kings,*² consuls were appointed. Liv. Equitātū praemissō, subsequēbātur, having sent forward his cavalry, he followed. Caes. Rēgnum haud satis prōsperum neglēctā rēligiōne, a reign not sufficiently prosperous because religion was neglected. Liv. Perditis rēbus omnibus tamen virtūs sē sustentāre potest, though all things are lost, still virtue is able to sustain itself. Cic.

1. The Ablative Absolute, much more common than the English Nominative Absolute, generally expresses the time, cause, or some attendant circumstance of an action.

2. This Ablative is generally best rendered — (1) by a noun with a preposition — in, during, after, by, with, through, etc.; (2) by an active participle with its object; or (3) by a clause with when, while, because, if, though, etc.; ³ see examples above.

3. A connective sometimes accompanies the Ablative:

Nisi munitis castris, unless the camp should be fortified. Caes.

4. A noun and an adjective, or even two nouns, may be in the Ablative Absolute:⁴

Serēnō caelō, when the sky is clear. Sen. Caniniō cōsule, in the consulship of Caninius. Cic.

241. Vocabulary.

Abstineō, ēre, tinui, tentum,	to abstain, refrain.
Acūtus, a, um,	sharpened, sharp.
Adhūc, adv.	hitherto, thus far, as yet.
Catēna, ae, f.	chain.
Culpa, ae, f.	fault, blame.
Dēligō, ere, lēgi, lēctum,	to choose, select, elect.
Latinus, a, um,	Latin.
Liberō, āre, āvi, ātum,	to free, liberate.
Ligārius, ii, m.	Ligarius, a prominent Roman in whose behalf Cicero pleaded be-
Nāvigium, ii, n.	vessel, ship. [fore Caesar.

² Or, after the kings were banished.

³ The first method of translation comes nearer the original Latin conception, but the other methods generally accord better with the English idiom.

⁴ This construction is peculiar to the Latin. In the corresponding constructions in Sanskrit, Greek, and English, the present participle of the verb to be is used.

Nōbilitās, ātis, f.	nobility ; the nobility, nobles.
Probō, āre, āvi, ātum,	to approve ; to prove.
Quārē, adv.	wherefore.
Relinquō, ere, liqui, lictum,	to leave.
Spoliō, āre, āvi, ātum,	to despoil, rob, deprive.
Sudēs, is, f.	stake.
Tamesis, is, m.	the Thames.
Trini, ae, a,	three-fold, triple.
Vacō, āre, āvi, ātum,	to be without, be free from.
Vinciō, ire, vinxi, vinctum,	to bind.

242. Translate into English.

1. Labiēnus monte occupātō nostrōs exspectābat, proeliōque abstinēbat. 2. Mūnītis castris, Caesar duās ibi legiōnēs reliquit, quattuor reliquās in castra redūxit. 3. Ducēs iī¹ dēliguntur, quī summam scientiam rēi militāris habēre existimantur. 4. Caesar ad² flūmen Tamesim exercitum dūxit; ad² alteram flūminis rīpam māgnae cōpiaē hostium erant instrūctae; rīpa autem erat acūtis sudibus mūnita. 5. Captivī trīnīs catēnīs vincti sunt. 6. Imperātor fortis servitute Graeciam liberāvit. 10. Mūrus dēfēnsōribus nūdātus est. 11. Tuum, Brūte,³ jūdicium probō. 12. Adhūc, Caesar,³ Quīntus Ligārius omnī culpā vacat. 13. Quārē cōservāte, jūdicēs,³ hunc hominem nōbilissimum. 14. Caesar nāvigia, quae sēcum habēbat, militibus complēri jussit, et lēgātōs tribūnōsque militum monuit, ut ad² tempus omnēs rēs ab iīs administrārentur.

¹ Observe that iī is the subject, and ducēs a Predicate Noun.

² Observe that different English words must be used in rendering this preposition, according to the connection in which it occurs. Thus to the river, on or near the bank, at the (proper) time, or in time.

³ The Vocative rarely stands at the beginning of a sentence. It usually follows an emphatic word.

243. Translate into Latin.

1. As the general had freed the citizens from servitude,¹ he was called the father of his country. 2. May our country always be protected (fortified) by the valor of its citizens. 3. Having filled the ships with soldiers,¹ Caesar prepared to hasten into Britain. 4. Soldiers,² may you be called true friends of your country.

5. Having led his army to the Thames,¹ Caesar was told³ that the enemy were on the other bank of the river. 6. General,² we ask that your army be led back into camp. 7. On hearing our words,¹ the general ordered his army to be led back into camp. 8. Citizens,² this man is free from blame; let him be selected as leader. 9. The general, leaving one legion in camp,¹ led the others toward the enemy.

¹ Be careful here and elsewhere not to render the English words by the corresponding Latin words, but consider by what idiom the thought should be expressed in Latin. Here the Ablative Absolute should be used, as if the English were the citizens having been freed, etc. In the first sentence, the general will become the subject of the principal verb.

*Sī negem, mentiar, if I should deny it, I should speak falsely.*¹ Cic.

¹ Here sī negem is the condition, and mentiar, the conclusion.

RULE XLIV.—Conditional Sentences with sī, nisi, nī, sin.

507. Conditional sentences with sī, nisi, nī, sin, take —

I. The INDICATIVE in both clauses to assume the supposed case:

Sī spiritum dūcit, vivit, if he breathes, he is alive. Cic. Sī tot exempla virtūtis nōn movent, nihil unquam movēbit, if so many examples of valor do not move (you), nothing will ever move (you). Liv.

LESSON LXXXVI.

FOUR CONJUGATIONS IN FULL, INCLUDING VERBS IN IŌ. — RULE XLVI.254. Lesson from the Grammar.

514. A concessive clause is one that concedes or admits something, generally introduced in English by though or although.³

Quamquam itinere fessi erant, tamen prōcēdant, although they were weary with the journey, they still (yet) advanced. Sall.

² Use the Ablative Absolute.

³ Concessive clauses bear a close resemblance to conditional clauses both in form and in use. Si optimum est, 'if it is best,' is a condition; etsi optimum est, 'even if (or though) it is best,' is a concession; the one assumes a supposed case, the other admits it.

RULE XLVI. — Moods in Concessive Clauses.

515. Concessive clauses take —

I. Generally the Indicative in the best prose, when introduced by quamquam :

Quamquam intellegunt, tamen nūquam dicunt, though they understand, they never speak. Cic. Quamquam festinās, nōn est mora longa, though you are in haste, the delay is not long. Hor.

II. The Indicative or Subjunctive, when introduced by etsī, etiāmsī, tametsī, or sī, like conditional clauses with sī. Thus —

1. The Indicative is used to represent the supposed case as a fact :

Gaudeō, etsī nihil sciō quod gaudeam, I rejoice, though I know no reason why I should rejoice. Plaut.

2. The Present or Perfect Subjunctive, to represent the supposed case as possible :

Etsī nihil habeat in sē glōria, tamen virtūtem sequitur, though glory may not possess anything in itself, yet it follows virtue. Cic.

3. The Imperfect or Pluperfect Subjunctive, to represent the supposed case as contrary to fact :

Etiāmsi mors oppetenda esset, domi māllem, even if death ought to be met, I should prefer to meet it at home. Cic.

III. The Subjunctive, when introduced by licet, quamvis, ut, nē, cum, or the relative quī :

Licet irrideat, plūs tamen ratiō valēbit, though he may deride, reason will yet avail more. Cic. Nōn tū possis, quamvis excellās, you would not be able, although you excel. Cic. Ut dēsint virēs, tamen est laudanda voluntās, though the strength fails, still the will should be approved. Ovid. Nē sit summum malum dolor, malum certē est, though pain may not be the greatest evil, it is certainly an evil. Cic. Cum domi divitiāe adfluerent, fuēre tamen civēs, etc., though wealth abounded at home, there were yet citizens, etc. Sall.

LESSON LXXXVII.

FOUR CONJUGATIONS. — DEPONENT VERBS. — RULE XXVI.

258. Lesson from the Grammar.

DEPONENT VERBS.

231. Deponent Verbs have in general the forms of the Passive Voice with the signification of the Active. But —

² An Indirect Question.

³ Render, would have been able to be led.

1. They have also in the Active, the future infinitive, the participles, gerund, and supine.

2. The gerundive generally has the passive signification; sometimes also the perfect participle: hortandus, to be exhorted; expertus, tried.

3. The Future Infinitive of the Passive form is rare, as the Active form is generally used.

NOTE.—The synopsis of a single example will sufficiently illustrate the peculiarities of Deponent Verbs.

232. Hortor, I exhort.

1. PRINCIPAL PARTS.

hortor, hortāri, hortātus sum.

2. PRESENT SYSTEM; STEM, hortā.

INDICATIVE.	SUBJUNCTIVE.	IMPER.	INFINITIVE.	PARTICIPLE.
Pres. hortor ¹	horter	hortāre	hortārī	hortāns
Imp. hortābar	hortārer
Fut. hortābor		hortātor

Gerund, hortandī.

Gerundive, hortandus.

3. SUPINE SYSTEM; STEM, hortāt.

Perf. hortātus sum	hortātus sim		hortātus esse	hortātus
Plup. hortātus eram	hortātus essem
F. P. hortātus erō
Fut.			hortātūrus esse	hortātūrus

Supine, hortātum, hortātū.

RULE XXVI.—Ablative in Special Constructions.²

421. The Ablative is used—

I. With ūtor, fruor, fungor, potior, vescor, and their compounds:

¹ The tenses are inflected regularly throughout: hortor, hortāris, hortātur; hortāmur, hortāmini, hortantur. All the forms in this synopsis have the active meaning, I exhort, I was exhorting, etc., except the Gerundive, which has the passive force, deserving to be exhorted, to be exhorted. The Gerundive, as it is passive in meaning, cannot be used in intransitive Deponent Verbs, except in an impersonal sense; see 281, 301, 1.

² This Ablative is readily explained as the Ablative of means: thus, ūtor, 'I use,' 'I serve myself by means of'; fruor, 'I enjoy,' 'I delight myself with'; vescor, 'I feed upon,' 'I feed myself with,' etc.

Plūrimis rēbus fruimur et ūtimur, we enjoy and use VERY MANY THINGS. Cic. Māgnā est praedā potitus, he obtained GREAT BOOTY. Nep. Lacte et carne vescēbantur, they lived upon milk and flesh. Sall.

II. With VERBS and ADJECTIVES OF PLENTY :

Villa abundat lacte, cūseō, melle, the villa abounds IN MILK, CHEESE, and HONEY. Cic. Urbs referta copiis, a city filled WITH SUPPLIES. Cic. Virtūte praeditus, endowed with virtue. Cic. Deus bonis explevit mundum, God has filled the world with blessings. Cic.

III. With dignus, indignus,¹ and contentus :

Digni sunt amicitia, they are worthy OF FRIENDSHIP. Cic. Vir patre dignus, a man worthy OF HIS FATHER. Cic. Honore indignissimus, most unworthy of honor. Cic. Natura parvo contenta, nature content with little. Cic.

NOTE 1. — Transitive verbs of Plenty² take the Accusative and Ablative:

Armis navēs onerat, he loads the ships with arms. Sall.

259. Vocabulary.

Abundō, āre, āvī, ātum,	to abound, to be well supplied
Arbitror, āri, ātus sum,	to think. [with.
Cōfidō, ere, fisis sum, ³	to trust, have confidence in, rely
Cōnor, āri, ātus sum,	to try, attempt. [upon.
Contentus, a, um,	content, satisfied.
Indignus, a, um,	unworthy.
Interclūdō, ere, clūsi, clūsum,	to cut off.
Nūllus, a, um, 45, 151,	not any, no, none.
Persuādēō, ēre, suāsi, suāsum,	to persuade.
Potior, iri, itus sum,	to gain possession of, take possession of, obtain possession of.
Privō, āre, āvī, ātum,	to deprive.
Proficiscor, i, profectus sum,	to start, set out.

¹ The nature of the Ablative with dignus and indignus is somewhat uncertain. On etymological grounds it is explained as instrumental; see Delbrück, p. 72; Corssen, 'Krit. Beitr.', p. 47.

² Transitive verbs of plenty mean 'to fill,' 'to furnish with,' etc., as cumulō, compleō, impleō, imbuō, instruō, onerō, ornō, etc.

³ Cōfidō is a semi-deponent, i.e. in the tenses for completed action it has the forms of the passive voice, with the meaning of the active.

Trānō, āre, āvi, ātum,	to swim across.
Tūtō, adv.	safely.
Tūtus, a, um,	safe.
Ūllus, a, um, 45, 151,	any, any one.
Ūtor, i, ūsus sum,	to use.
Versus, ūs, m.	verse.
Vis, vis, f.	force, violence; pl. virēs, virium,
Vulnus, eris, n.	wound. [strength.

Hostēs ad flūmen Rhēnum vērunt; ibi paucī viribus cōnfisi trānāre contendērunt. 13. Vercingetorix equitatū abundābat. Is militibus quōs antea habuerat sē esse contentum dixit. 14. Militēs extrēmam famem sustinēbant, nulla tamen vōx est ab⁴ iis audita, populī Rōmāni glōriā et superiōribus victōriis indigna. 15. Galli superiōrem partem collis castris suis complēvērunt.

² Item modifies persuādet.

³ What determines the gender of this predicate adjective?

⁴ The context here shows that ab should be rendered from, not by.

261. Translate into Latin.

1. Although the Gauls were well supplied with grain, Caesar was cut off from supplies. 2. Gaul was filled with very warlike nations. 3. We shall not obtain possession of the camp of the enemy without receiving¹ many wounds. 4. Many words which we hear are unworthy of wise men. 5. The Helvetii were not contented with their territory, but desired to obtain possession of the lands of their neighbors. 6. The general, relying on² the valor of his soldiers, has determined to assault the town. 7. We shall attempt to set out to-night.³ 8. Caesar thought that he should use the supplies of grain which were sent by the Aedui. 9. Do you understand for what reason the Druids used Greek letters?⁴

LESSON LXXXVIII.

FOUR CONJUGATIONS IN FULL. — RULES LIII. AND LIV.

262. *Lesson from the Grammar.*INDIRECT DISCOURSE. — Ōrātiŏ Oblīqua.

522. When a writer or speaker expresses thoughts, whether his own or those of another, in any other form than in the original words of the author, he is said to use the Indirect Discourse — Ōrātiŏ Oblīqua:⁵

Platōnem ferunt in Ūtaliā vēnisse, they say that Plato came into Italy. Cic. Respondeō tē dolōrem ferre moderatē, I reply that you bear the affliction with moderation. Cic. Ūtilem arbitror esse scientiam, I think that knowledge is useful. Cic.

¹ In rendering, omit receiving.² See 260, sentence 12.³ Render on this night.⁴ What kind of a clause? See 127, 529.⁵ Thus, in the first example, Platōnem in Ūtaliā vēnisse is in the indirect discourse; in the direct, i e. in the original words of those who made the statement, it would be Platō in Ūtaliā vēnit.

1. In distinction from the INDIRECT DISCOURSE — Ōrātiō Obliqua, the original words of the author are said to be in the DIRECT DISCOURSE — Ōrātiō Rēcta.

2. Words quoted without change belong to the DIRECT DISCOURSE:

Rēx 'duumvīrōs' inquit 'secundum lēgem faciō,' the king said, 'I appoint duumvirs according to law.' Liv.

RULE LIII. — Moods in Principal Clauses.

523. The principal clauses of the DIRECT DISCOURSE on becoming INDIRECT take the Infinitive or Subjunctive as follows:

I. When DECLARATIVE, they take the Infinitive with a Subject Accusative.

Dicēbat animōs esse divinōs, he was wont to say that souls are divine. Cic. Platōnem Tarentum vēnisse reperīō, I find that Plato came to Tarentum. Cic. Catō mirārī sē aiēbat, Cato was wont to say that he wondered. Cic. Hipplās glōriātus est, ānulum sē suā manū cōnfēcisse,¹ Hippias boasted that he had made the ring with his own hand. Cic.

II. When INTERROGATIVE, they take —

1. Generally the Subjunctive:

Ad postulāta Caesaris respondit, quid sibi vellet, cūr veniret,² to the demands of Caesar he replied, what did he wish, why did he come? Caes.

2. Sometimes the Infinitive with a Subject Accusative, as in rhetorical questions:³

¹ In the direct discourse these examples would read — (1) animi sunt divini, (2) Platō Tarentum vēnit, (3) miror, and (4) ānulum meā manū cōnfeci. Observe that the pronominal subjects implied in miror and cōnfeci are expressed with the Infinitive, as mirārī sē, sē cōnfēcisse. But the subject is sometimes omitted when it can be readily supplied; see second example under II., 2, below.

² In the direct discourse this example would read — quid tibi vis? cūr venis?

³ A question used for rhetorical effect in place of an assertion is called a Rhetorical Question, as num potest, 'can he?' = nōn potest, 'he can not'; quid est turpius, 'what is baser?' = nihil est turpius, 'nothing is baser.'

Docēbant rem esse testimoniū, etc.; quid esse levius, etc., they showed that the fact was a proof (for a proof), etc.; what was more inconsiderate, etc.? Caes. Respondit, num memoriam dēponere posse,¹ he replied, could he lay aside the recollection? Caes.

III. When IMPERATIVE,² they take the Subjunctive:

Scribit Labiēnō cum legiōne veniat, he writes to Labienus to come (that he should come) with a legion. Caes. Redditur respōsum, castris sē tenērent, the reply was returned, that they should keep themselves in camp. Liv. Militēs certiōrēs facit, sē reficerent, he directed the soldiers to refresh themselves. Caes. Ōrābant ut sibi auxilium ferret, they prayed that he would bring them help. Caes. Nūntius vēnit, nē dubitāret,³ a message came that he should not hesitate. Nep.

RULE LIV.—Moods in Subordinate Clauses.

524. The subordinate clauses of the DIRECT DISCOURSE on becoming INDIRECT take the Subjunctive:

Respondit sē id quod in Nerviiis fēcisset factūrum,⁴ he replied that he would do what he had done in the case of the Nervii. Caes. Hippias glōriatus est, anulū quem habēret sē suā manū cōnfēcisse,⁵ Hippias boasted that he had made with his own hand the ring which he wore. Cic.

526. In passing from the DIRECT DISCOURSE to the INDIRECT, pronouns of the first and second persons are generally changed to pronouns of the third person,⁶ and the first and Here belong many questions which in the direct form have the verb in the first or in the third person. As such questions are equivalent to declarative sentences, they take the same construction, the Infinitive with its subject.

² Imperative sentences include those sentences which take the Subjunctive of Desire; see 114, 483.

⁴ Direct, faciam id quod in Nerviiis fēci.

⁵ Direct, anulū quem habeo meā manū cōnfēcī.

⁶ Thus — (1) ego is changed to sui, sibi, etc., or to ipse; meus and nos to suis; (2) tū to is or ille, sometimes to sui, etc.; tuus and vester to suis or to the Genitive of is; and (3) hic and iste to ille.

second persons of verbs are generally changed to the third person :

Glōriātus est, ānulum sē suā manū cōnfēcisse,¹ he boasted that he had made the ring with his own hand. Cic. Redditur respōsum, castris sē tenērent,² the reply was returned that they should keep themselves in camp. Liv. Respondit, sī obsidēs ab iis sibi dentur, sēsē cum iis pācem esse factūrum,³ he replied that if hostages were given to him by them, he would make peace with them. Caes.

RULE X. — Accusative of Limit.

380. The PLACE TO WHICH is designated by the Accusative:¹

I. Generally with a preposition — ad or in:

Legiōnēs ad urbem addūcit, he is leading the legions TO or TOWARD THE CITY. Cic. In Asiam redit, he returns INTO ASIA. Nep.

II. In names of towns without a preposition:

Nūntius Rōmā redit, the messenger returns TO ROME. Liv. Fūgit Tarquiniōs, he fled TO TARQUINII. Cic.

NOTE. — Verbs meaning to collect, to come together, etc., — conveniō, cōgō, convocō, etc. — are usually treated as verbs of motion, and thus take the Accusative, generally with a preposition; but verbs meaning to place — locō, collocō, pōnō, etc., — are usually treated as verbs of rest, and thus take the Ablative (185, 425), generally with a preposition:

Ūnum in locum convenīre, to meet IN one PLACE. Caes. In alterius manū vitam pōnere, to place one's life IN THE HAND of another. Cic.

1. In the NAMES OF TOWNS the Accusative with ad occurs — (1) to denote to, toward, in the direction of, into the vicinity of, and (2) in contrast with ā or ab:

Ad Zamam pervēnit, he came TO THE VICINITY OF ZAMA. Sall. A Diāniō ad Sinōpēn, from Dianium TO SINOPE. Cic.

2. Like NAMES OF TOWNS are used —

1) The Accusatives domum, domōs, rūs:

Domum reductus est, He was conducted HOME. Cic. Domōs abducti, led TO THEIR HOMES. Liv. Rūs ēvolāre, to hasten INTO THE COUNTRY. Cic.

RULE XXI. — Place from which.

412. The PLACE FROM WHICH is denoted by the Ablative:

I. Generally with a preposition — ā, ab, dē, or ex:

Ab urbe proficiscitur, he sets out FROM THE CITY. Caes. Dē forō, from the forum. Cic. Ex Africā, from (out of) Africa. Liv.

II. In NAMES OF TOWNS without a preposition:¹

Platōnem Athēnīs arcēssivī, he summoned Plato FROM ATHENS. Nep. Fūgit Corinthō, he fled from Corinth. Cic.

1. Many names of islands, and the Ablatives, domō and rūre, are used like names of towns:

Domō profūgit, he fled FROM HOME. Cic. Dēlō proficiscitur, he proceeds FROM DELOS. Cic.

LESSON XCVI.

IMPERSONAL VERBS. — REVIEW OF RULE XLIII. — RULE XIII.281. Lesson from the Grammar.

298. Impersonal Verbs correspond to the English Impersonal with it: licet, it is lawful; oportet, it behooves.¹ They are conjugated like other verbs, but are used only in the third person singular of the Indicative and Subjunctive, and in the Present and Perfect Infinitive:

Decet, decuit, it becomes.

Oportet, oportuit, it behooves.

Miseret, miseritum est, it excites Paenitet, paenituit, *it causes regret.*² *pity.*²

300. Generally Impersonal are several verbs which designate the changes of the weather, or the operations of nature:

Fulminat, it lightens; grandinat, it hails; lucēscit, it grows light; pluit, it rains; rōrat, dew falls; tonat, it thunders.

301. Many other verbs are often used impersonally:

Accidit, it happens; appāret, it appears; cōstat, it is evident; contigit, it happens; dēlectat, it delights; dolet, it grieves; interest, it concerns; juvat, it delights; patet, it is plain; placet, it pleases; praestat, it is better; rēfert, it concerns.

1. In the PASSIVE VOICE intransitive verbs can be used only impersonally. The participle is then neuter:

Mihī crēditur, it is credited to me, I am believed; tibī crēditur, you are believed; crēditum est, it was believed; certātur, it is contended; curritur, there is running, people run; pūgnātur, it is fought, they, we, etc., fight; vīvitur, we, you, they live.

2. The PASSIVE PERIPHRASTIC CONJUGATION (266, 234) is often used impersonally. The participle is then neuter:

Mihī scribendum est, I must write; tibī scribendum est, you must write; illī scribendum est, he must write.

² Mē miseret, I pity; mē paenitet, I repent.

RULE XIII.—Two Datives—To which and For which.

390. Two Datives — the OBJECT TO WHICH and the OBJECT OR END FOR WHICH — occur with a few verbs:

I. With INTRANSITIVE and PASSIVE verbs:

Malō est hominibus avāritia, avarice is AN EVIL TO MEN (literally is TO MEN FOR AN EVIL). Cic. Est mihi cūrae, it is A CARE TO ME. Cic. Domus dēdecori dominō fit, the house becomes A DISGRACE TO ITS OWNER. Cic. Vēnit Atticis auxiliō, he came to the assistance of the Athenians. Nep. Hōc illi tribuēbatur ignāviae, this was imputed to him as cowardice (for cowardice). Cic. Eis subsidiō missus est, he was sent to them as aid. Nep.

II. With TRANSITIVE verbs in connection with the ACCUSATIVE:

Quinque cohortēs castris praesidiō reliquit, he left five cohorts FOR THE DEFENCE OF THE CAMP (literally TO THE CAMP FOR A DEFENCE). Caes. Periclēs agrōs suōs donō rēi publicae dedit, Pericles gave his lands to the republic as a present (literally, for a present). Just.

282. Vocabulary.

Accidō, ere, i,	to fall to, befall; accidit, it happens,
Athēnae, ārum, f. pl.	Athens. [comes to pass.
Athēniēnsis, is, m. and f.	an Athenian.
Atticus, i, m.	Atticus, a Roman name.
Cōiciō, ¹ ere, cōjēcī, jectum,	to cast, hurl, throw.
Difficilis, e,	difficult.
Impedimentum, i, n.	hinderance, embarrassment; impedimenta, pl., hinderances; baggage (of an army). [against.
Īnferō, ferre, intuli, illātum,	to bear into, bear against, wage
Īnstō, āre, stitī,	to be near, be at hand.
Lūna, ae, f.	moon.
Mētior, iri, mēnsus sum,	to measure, allot.
Multō, ² adv.	much, far.
Novissimus, a, um, sup. of
novus,	newest; novissimum āgmen, the rear.
Oportet, ēre, uīt,	it behooves, is proper; one ought.

LESSON XCVII.

IMPERSONAL VERBS. — RULE XX.

285. *Lesson from the Grammar.RULE XX. — Accusative and Genitive.

409. The ACCUSATIVE of the PERSON and the GENITIVE of the THING are used with a few transitive verbs:

I. With verbs of reminding, admonishing:

Tē amicitiae commonefacit, he reminds you OF FRIENDSHIP. Cic.
Militēs necessitātis monet, he reminds the soldiers of the necessity. Ter.

II. With verbs of accusing, convicting, acquitting:

Virōs sceleris arguit, you accuse men OF CRIME. Cic. Levitātis eum convincere, to convict him of levity. Cic. Absolvere injūriam eum, to acquit him of injustice. Cic.

III. With miseret, paenitet, pudet, taedet, and piget :

Eōrum nōs miseret, we pity THEM (it moves our pity OF THEM).

Cic. Cōsiliū mē paenitet, I repent of my purpose. Cic. Mē stultitiā meae pudet, I am ashamed of my folly. Cic.

NOTE 1. — The Genitive of the Thing designates, with verbs of reminding, etc., that to which the attention is called; with verbs of accusing, etc., the crime, charge; and with miseret, paenitet, etc., the object which produces the feeling; see examples.

NOTE 2. — The personal verbs included under this rule retain the Genitive in the Passive :

Accūsātus est prōditiōis, he was accused OF TREASON. Nep.

LESSON XCIX.

GERUNDS, GERUNDIVES, AND PARTICIPLES. — REVIEW OF RULES LIX., LX., AND XXXII.

291. Lesson from the Grammar.

I. GERUNDS.

541. The GERUND is a verbal noun which shares so largely the character of a verb that it governs oblique cases, and takes adverbial modifiers:

² Observe that this is an Indirect Question.

*Jūs vocandi*¹ senātum, the right of summoning the senate. Liv. *Beātē vivendi*¹ cupiditās, the desire of living happily. Cic.

542. The GERUND has four cases — the Genitive, Dative, Accusative, and Ablative — used in general like the same cases of nouns. Thus —

I. The GENITIVE OF THE GERUND is used with nouns and adjectives:

Ars vivendi, the art of living. Cic. Studiōsus erat audiendī, he was desirous of hearing. Nep. Cupidus tē audiendī, desirous of hearing you. Cic. Artem vērā ac falsā dijūdicandī, the art of distinguishing true things from false. Cic.

II. The DATIVE OF THE GERUND is used with a few verbs and adjectives which regularly govern the Dative:

Cum solvendō nōn essent, since they were not able to pay. Cic. Aqua utilis est bibendō, water is useful for drinking. Plin.

III. The ACCUSATIVE OF THE GERUND is used after a few prepositions:²

Ad discendum prōpēnsi sumus, we are inclined to learn (to learning). Cic. Inter lūdendum, in or during play. Quint.

IV. The ABLATIVE OF THE GERUND is used (1) as Ablative of Means, and (2) with prepositions:

Mēns discendō alitur, the mind is nourished by learning. Cic. Salūtem hominibus dandō, by giving safety to men. Cic. Virtūtēs cernuntur in agendō, virtues are seen in action. Cic. Dēterrēre ā scribendo, to deter from writing. Cic.

II. GERUNDIVES.

543. The GERUNDIVE, like other participles, agrees with nouns and pronouns:

Inita sunt cōsilia urbis dēlendae, plans have been formed for destroying the city (of the city to be destroyed). Cic. Numa sacerdotibus creandis animum adjēcit, Numa gave his attention to the appointment of priests. Liv.

¹ Vocandi as a Genitive is governed by jūs, and yet it governs the Accusative senātum; vivendi is governed by cupiditās, and yet it takes the adverbial modifier beātē.

² Most frequently after ad; sometimes after inter and ob; very rarely after ante, circā, and in.

544. The GERUNDIVE CONSTRUCTION may be used —

1. In place of a Gerund with a direct object. It then takes the case of the Gerund whose place it supplies:

Libidō ejus videndī (= libidō eum videndī), the desire of seeing him (literally, of him to be seen). Cic. Platōnis audiendī (= Platōnem audiendī) studiōsus, fond of hearing Plato. Cic. Legendis orātōribus (= legendō orātōrēs), by reading the orators. Cic.

2. In the Dative and in the Ablative with a preposition :

Locum oppidō condendō cēpērunt, they selected a place for founding a city. Liv. Tempora dēmetendis fructibus accommodāta, seasons suitable for gathering fruits. Cic. Brūtus in liberandā patriā est interfectus, Brutus was slain in liberating his country. Cic.

III. PARTICIPLES.

548. The PARTICIPLE is a verbal adjective which governs the same cases as the verb :

Animus sē nōn vidēns alia cernit, the mind, though it does not see itself (literally, not seeing itself), discerns other things. Cic.

549. PARTICIPLES are often used —

1. To denote, TIME, CAUSE, MANNER, MEANS:

Platō scribēns mortuus est, Plato died while writing. Cic. Itūrī in proelium canunt, they sing when about to go into battle. Tac. Sol oriēns diem cōnficit, the sun by its rising causes the day. Cic. Militēs renūntiant sē perfidiam veritōs revertisse, the soldiers report that they returned because they feared perfidy (having feared). Caes.

2. To denote CONDITION or CONCESSION:

Mendāci hominī nē vērū quidē dicentī crēdere nōn solēmus, we are not wont to believe a liar, even if he speaks the truth. Cic. Scripta tua jam diū expectāns, nōn audeō tamen flāgitāre, though I have been long expecting your work, yet I do not dare to ask for it. Cic.

3. To denote PURPOSE:

Perseus rediit, bellī cāsū tentātūrus, Perseus returned to try (about to try) the fortune of war. Liv. Attribuit nōs trucidandōs Cethēgo, he assigned us to Cethegus to slaughter. Cic.

4. To supply the place of RELATIVE CLAUSES:

Omnēs aliud agentēs aliud simulantēs, improbi sunt, all who do one thing and pretend another are dishonest. Cic.

5. To supply the place of PRINCIPAL CLAUSES:

Classem devictam cepit, he conquered and took the fleet (took the fleet conquered). Nep.

550. The TENSES OF THE PARTICIPLE — Present, Perfect, and Future — denote only relative time. They accordingly represent the time respectively as present, past, and future relatively to that of the principal verb:

Oculus se non videns alia cernit, the eye, though it does not see itself (not seeing itself), discerns other things. Cic. Platō scribens mortuus est, Plato died while writing. Cic. Uva maturata dulcescit, the grape, when it has ripened (having ripened), becomes sweet. Cic. Sapiens bona semper placitura laudat, the wise man praises blessings which will always please (being about to please). Sen.

SUGGESTIONS ON EXERCISES IN LATIN COMPOSITION.

No exercises for Translation into Latin are given in connection with these passages of connected narrative, but it is not intended that this important subject should be neglected. The pupil may now begin Part II. of the "Introduction to Latin Composition"; but an exercise as often as once a week or once a fortnight is recommended, to be prepared by the teacher, and based upon some passage of the Latin which the pupils have read. At first the pupils may be permitted to make their translation with the aid of the Latin, but the plan should be adopted early, of assigning the passage to be committed to memory by the pupil, and then requiring the translation into Latin within the hour assigned for the exercise, with no aid but the pupil's memory and the knowledge that he has acquired of the language. The following exercise, based upon paragraph II., page 282, is given simply as an illustration.

Translate into Latin.

Caesar says that in the consulship of Messala, Orgetorix, a chieftain (*princeps*¹) of very high birth and of great wealth, persuaded the Helvetii to emigrate from their country. The territory of this tribe (gens) was very limited for its population, and it was separated from the adjacent countries (terra) by high mountains and deep rivers. The Rhine hemmed them in on one side, Mount Jura on another, and on a third the Lake of Geneva and the Rhone. Thus (itaque) the warlike (bellicōsus) Helvetii were not able readily to carry on war against their neighbors.

¹ Words not occurring in the Latin passage may be furnished to the pupil, but in general he should be expected to give familiar words without aid.

SUGGESTIONS TO THE LEARNER.

I. The preparation of a reading lesson in Latin involves:

1. An exact comprehension of the thought expressed in the original.
2. An appropriate expression of that thought in an English translation.

MEANING OF THE LATIN.

II. In preparing your lessons take special note, from the outset, of the more obvious difference between the Latin and the English.

III. The Latin gives new names to persons and things already familiar to you. Therefore store your memory as rapidly as possible with these new names. Learn the vocabularies so thoroughly that you will be able, not only to give with promptness either the English for the Latin or the Latin for the English, but also, what is of supreme importance, to recognize the full meaning in the Latin word itself, without any thought of the English. It is not enough to find English equivalents for Latin words. In your vocabulary, Latin nouns must represent not mere words, but real persons and things; AGRICOLA, not the English word husbandman, but the husbandman himself, not the name, but the man.

IV. Remember that the full meaning of an inflected word can seldom be ascertained from the dictionary alone. Every word of this kind has a significant ending, which gives it an important part of its meaning. Therefore make yourself so familiar with all the endings of inflection, whether in declension or conjugation, that you will readily distinguish not only the different parts of speech, but also the different forms of the same word.

V. But these endings of inflection should not only enable you to distinguish the parts of speech, should not only tell you the cases of nouns, and the voices, moods, tenses, numbers, and persons of verbs, but they should also give you the exact meaning of all these forms. The meaning is what you must have. It will be of little use to you to know that a verb is in the Imperfect tense, for instance, unless you also know what that tense really means, what it really tells you about the action of the verb.

VI. Again, the dictionary and the grammar combined often fail to meet the needs of the student. If I tell you that rēgēs is the first word in a sentence, and then ask you to give me its full and exact meaning, I require an absolute impossibility. The most learned Roman that ever lived could not answer the question. The dictionary can only tell you that the general idea is that designated by our word king, while the grammar informs you that rēgēs is in the plural number, and that the form may be found in the Nominative, Accusative or Vocative. It will also tell you that, if it is in the Nominative, it may be the subject of an action, an appositive, or a predicate Nominative; that if it is in the Accusative, it may be the object of an action, an appositive, a predicate Accusative, or the subject of an infinitive; and that, if it is in the Vocative, it is used as a form of address; but neither the dictionary nor the grammar can tell you which case it is, or which one of these numerous meanings it actually has. How, then, can you ever ascertain what it really means? Simply by the light which the subsequent words in the sentence will cast upon it.

I now give you the second word in the sentence, sententiam, and you have rēgēs sententiam. Can you tell the meaning of these words, or of either of them? Sententiam must be an Accusative, but as that case may be variously used, its special force in this sentence is still uncertain. The Accusative sententiam, however, makes it probable that rēgēs is not an Accusative, but either a Nominative or a Vocative. I add probant and thus complete the thought: Rēgēs sententiam probant. Notice now the effect of this last word upon the meaning of the sentence. It shows that the Accusative sententiam, which of itself might have various meanings, is here simply the object of the action and that rēgēs, which at first covered such a variety of cases is simply the subject of the action. We are now prepared to translate: The kings approve the opinion.

VII. From the example just given, observe to what an extent the meaning of a word is determined by the connection in which it is used. Standing alone it may perhaps be any one of three or four cases but as soon as it is combined with other words in a sentence, it stands revealed in the clearest light as a single case with a definite and distinct meaning. Accordingly, in all your reading, as each successive word meets your eye, let it be your unfailing rule to study its effect upon the meaning of the sentence, to observe the light which it throws upon the words that precede it and the light which it in turn will derive from those which are to follow; to observe, in fine, how the thought is gradually unfolded.

VIII. In taking up a Latin sentence remember that your object is not primarily to translate it, but to understand and appreciate the thought in the original. This should be done, not only without translating it, but even without thinking of the corresponding English words. To this end, you will find it helpful to read over your Latin exercises, especially the longer passages, somewhat frequently, with the special purpose of appreciating and enjoying the thought in its original form. Under this treatment, the Latin constructions so strange to the beginner, will soon be found to be entirely simple and natural, and the language will in time become a second vernacular, and you will then enjoy fine thoughts in Latin as you enjoy them in English.

IX. But if you would fully appreciate the thoughts of a Latin writer, you must take his words in the order in which he wrote them. The arrangement of the words is an essential part of a Latin sentence and one of the means by which its meaning may be most successfully reached. The Latin order, more flexible than the English, allows a much larger scope for emphasis, and thus shows the relative importance of the several words. In general the subject and its verb, so essential to the thought, are assigned important places, the former at the beginning and the latter at the end of the sentence, yet other words when especially emphatic may occupy either of these positions.

X. Finally, never attempt to translate a Latin sentence until you clearly comprehend the exact thought in the original. The habit of starting off blindly to render separate words without any conception of the thought which they are intended to express is fatal to all high scholarship. Therefore, make it your first and chief object to ascertain the exact thought contained in the sentence. To accomplish this object, you will need to attend to the following particulars:

1. The general meaning of the several words as given in the vocabulary.
2. Their more definite meaning as determined by their endings.
3. The exact sense which they assume in consequence of the connection in which they are used.

XI. In the use of the Dictionary, remember that you are to look, not for the particular form which occurs in the sentence, but for the Nominative Singular of nouns, adjectives, and pronouns, and for the First Person Singular, Present Indicative Active of Verbs. Therefore

1. In Pronouns, make yourself so familiar with their declension that any oblique case will at once suggest the Nominative Singular.

2. In Nouns and Adjectives, make yourself so familiar with the case-endings, that you will be able to drop that of the given case, and substitute for it that of the Nominative Singular.

3. In verbs, change the ending of the given form into that of the First Person Singular of the Present Indicative Active.

TRANSLATION.

XII. In translating, render as literally as possible without doing violence to the English.

In many important idioms of the Latin, a literal translation not only would fail to do justice to the original, but also would be a gross perversion of the mother-tongue. The following suggestions are intended to aid the pupil in disposing of such cases; but even in these, it is earnestly recommended that he should first construe literally, in order that he may be made to feel the force of the Latin construction before attempting a translation.

Participles.

XIII. These are much more extensively used in Latin than in English; hence the frequent necessity, in translating them, of deviating from the Latin construction. They may generally be rendered in some one of the following ways¹ (291, 549).

¹ The pupil must early learn to determine from the context the appropriate rendering in each instance.

1. Literally :

Pyrrhus proeliō fūsus ā Tarentō recessit, Pyrrhus having been defeated in battle withdrew from Tarentum.

2. By a Relative Clause :

Omnes aliud agentēs, aliud simulantēs improbi sunt, all who do one thing and pretend another are dishonest.

3. By a Clause with a Conjunction :

1) With a Conjunction of Time, — while, when, after, etc.

Ūva mātūrāta dulcēscit, the grape when it has ripened (having ripened), becomes sweet.

2) With a Conjunction of Cause, Reason, Manner, — as, for, since, etc.

Militēs perfidiam veriti revertērunt, the soldiers returned, because they feared perfidy.

3) With a Conjunction of Condition, — if.

Accūsātus damnābitur, if he is accused he will be condemned.

4) With a Conjunction of Concession, — though, although.

Urbem ācerimē dēfēnsam cēpit, he took the city, though it was valiantly defended, or though valiantly defended.

4. By a Verbal Noun :

Ad Rōmam conditam, to the founding of Rome; literally, to Rome founded. Ab urbe conditā, from the founding of the city. Post rēgēs exāctōs, after the expulsion of the kings.

5. By a Verb :

Rēx ēi benignē receptō fillam dedit, the king received him kindly and gave him his daughter; literally, gave his daughter to him kindly received.

XIV. Participles with nōn or nihil are sometimes best rendered by Participial nouns dependent upon without :

Nōn ridēns, without laughing.

XV. Future Participles are sometimes best rendered by Infinitives, or by Participial Nouns with for the purpose of :

Rediit bellī cāsum tentātūrus, he returned to try (about to try) the fortune of war.

XVI. The Ablative Absolute is sometimes best rendered (1) by a Clause with—when, while, after, for, since, if, though, etc., (2) by a Noun with a Preposition,—in, during, after, by, from, through, etc., or (3) by an Active Participle with its Object:

Serviō rēgnante, while Servius reigned, or in the reign of Servius (literally, Servius reigning). Duce Fabiō, under the command of Fabius (literally, Fabius being commander).

Sometimes, as in the last example, a word denoting the doer of an action can be best rendered by the word which denotes the thing done. Thus, instead of commander, consul, king, we have command, consulship, reign.

Subjunctive.

XVII. This may be rendered as follows :

1. With the Potential signs, may, might, would, should, or with let.

Forsitan quaerātis, perhaps you may inquire. Hōc nēmō dixerit, no one would say this.

2. By the English Indicative. This is generally the best rendering

1) In clauses denoting Cause or Time, as after cum, quod, quia, quoniam, etc.

Cum vīta metūs plēna sit, since life is full of fear. Cum Rōmam vēnisset, when he had come to Rome.

2) In Indirect Questions (127, 529, I.) :

Quaeritur, cūr dissentiant, it is asked why they disagree.

3) In the Subjunctive in Indirect Clauses (127, 529, II.) :

Vereor, nē, dum minuere velim labōrem, augeam, I fear I shall increase the labor, while I wish to diminish it.

4) In the Subordinate Clauses of Indirect Discourse (262, 524) :

Hippiās glōriātus est ānulum quem habēret sē suā manū cōnfēcisse, Hippias boasted that he had made with his own hand the ring which he wore (had).

5) In Relative Clauses defining indefinite antecedents, and sometimes in clauses denoting result (123, 503, 500, 501) :

Sunt qui putent, there are some who think. Ita vixit ut Athēniēnsibus esset cārissimus, he so lived, that he was very dear to the Athenians.

6) Sometimes in Conditional and Concessive clauses, and in clauses with Quin and Quōminus (250, 560, 254, 515, 123, 500, II., 119, 497, II.):

Dum metuant, if only (provided) they fear. Sī voluisset, dimicasset, if he had wished, he would have fought. Ut dēsint virēs, tamen est laudanda voluntās, though the strength fails, still the will should be approved. Adest nēmō, quin videat, there is no one present who does not see.

3. By the Infinitive.¹ This is often the best rendering

1) In Clauses denoting Purpose (119, 497):

Contendit ut vincat, he strives to conquer (that he may conquer). Decemvirī creātī sunt qui lēgēs scriberent, decemvirs were appointed to prepare the laws (who should prepare).

2) In Clauses denoting Result: hence after dignus, indignus, idōneus, aptus, etc. (123, 500, 503):

Nōn is sum qui his ūtar, I am not such a one as to use (he who may use) these things. Fābulae dignae sunt quae legantur, the fables are worthy to be read (which, or that they, should be read).

Infinitive.

XVIII. The Infinitive has a much more extensive use in Latin than in English. The following points require notice.

1. The Infinitive with a Subject is rendered by a Finite verb with that:

Dixit sē rēgem vidisse, he said that he had seen the king.

2. The Historical Infinitive² is rendered by the Imperfect Indicative:

īram pater dissimulāre, the father concealed his anger.

² In lively descriptions the Present Infinitive is sometimes used for the Imperfect or the Perfect Indicative. It is then called the Historical Infinitive, and, like a finite verb, has its subject in the Nominative.

3. The Infinitive is sometimes best rendered by a Participial noun with of, with, etc.

Insimulātur mystēria violāsse, he is accused of having violated the mysteries.

Miscellaneous Idioms.

XIX. The following Miscellaneous Idioms are added :

1. Certiōrem facere should be rendered, to inform, and certior fieri, to be informed :

Caesar certior factus est, Caesar was informed.

2. Inter sē, literally between themselves, is often best rendered, from each other, from one another, to each other, to one another, together.

Omnēs inter sē differunt, they all differ from one another.

3. Nē—quidem, with one or more words between the parts, should be rendered, not even, or even—not :

Nē nōmen quidem, not even the name.

4. When two or more verbs stand together in the same compound tense, the copula (sum) is generally expressed with the last only, but in rendering, the copula should be expressed with the first only :

Captus et in vincula cōjectus est, he was taken and thrown into chains.

5. Quantō—tantō, literally, by as much as—by so much, is often best rendered before comparatives, the—the :

Quantō diūtius cōsiderō, tantō rēs vidētur obscurior, the longer (by as much as the longer) I consider the subject, the more obscure (by so much the more obscure) does it appear.

6. A Clause with quōminus, 'by which the less,' or 'that the less,' may generally be rendered by a Clause with that, by the Infinitive, or by a Participial noun with from.

Per eum stetit quōminus dimicārētur, it was owing to him (stood through him) that the engagement was not made. Nōn recūsāvit quōminus poenam subiret, he did not refuse to submit to punishment. Rēgem impediit quōminus pugnāret, he prevented the king from fighting.

GENERAL RULES OF SYNTAX

Given here in a body, for convenience of reference, in the order and form in which they occur in the standard edition of Harkness's LATIN GRAMMAR, together with the numbers of sections in which the Rules are given respectively in this Volume, and their grammatical reference numbers.

AGREEMENT OF NOUNS.

RULE I.—Predicate Nouns (59).

362. A noun predicated of another noun denoting the same person or thing agrees with it in CASE :

Brūtus cūstōs libertātis fuit, Brutus was the guardian of liberty.

RULE II.—Appositives (28).

363. An appositive agrees in CASE with the noun or pronoun which it qualifies :

Clullius rēx moritur, Clullius the king dies.

NOMINATIVE.—VOCATIVE.

RULE III.—Subject Nominative (12).

368. The Subject of a Finite verb is put in the Nominative :

Servius rēgnāvit, Servius reigned.

RULE IV.—Case of Address (190).

369. The Name of the person or thing addressed is put in the Vocative :

Perge, Laeli, proceed, Laelius.

ACCUSATIVE.

RULE V.—Direct Object (16).

371. The DIRECT OBJECT of an action is put in the Accusative :

Deus mundum aedificavit. God made (built) the world.

RULE VI.—Two Accusatives—Same Person (153).

373. Verbs of MAKING, CHOOSING, CALLING, REGARDING, SHOWING, and the like, admit two Accusatives of the same person or thing :

Hamilcarem imperatorem fecerunt, they made Hamilcar commander.

RULE VII.—Two Accusatives—Person and Thing (273).

374. Some verbs of ASKING, DEMANDING, TEACHING, and CONCEALING admit two Accusatives—one of the person and the other of the thing :

Mē sententiam rogavit, he asked me my opinion.

RULE VIII.—Accusative of Specification.

378. A verb or an adjective may take an Accusative to define its application :

Capita velāmur, we have our heads veiled.

RULE IX.—Accusative of Time and Space (98).

379. DURATION OF TIME and EXTENT OF SPACE are expressed by the Accusative :

Septem et trigintā regnavit annos, he reigned thirty-seven years. Quinque milia passuum ambulare, to walk five miles.

RULE X.—Accusative of Limit (277).

380. The PLACE to WHICH is designated by the Accusative :

I. Generally with a preposition—ad or in :

Legiōnes ad urbem adducit, he is leading the legions to or toward the city.

II. In names of towns without a preposition :

Nuntius Rōmam redit, the messenger returns to Rome.

RULE XI.—Accusative in Exclamations.

381. The Accusative, either with or without an interjection, may be used with Exclamations :

Heu mē miserum, ah me unhappy!

DATIVE.

RULE XII.—Dative with Verbs (54).

384. The INDIRECT OBJECT of an action is put in the Dative. It is used—

I. With INTRANSITIVE and PASSIVE verbs:

Tibi serviō, I am devoted to you.

II. With TRANSITIVE verbs, in connection with the DIRECT OBJECT:

Agrōs plēbi dedit, he gave lands to the common people.

RULE XIII.—Two Datives—To which and For which (281).

390. Two Datives—the OBJECT TO WHICH and the OBJECT OR END FOR WHICH—occur with a few verbs:

I. With INTRANSITIVE and PASSIVE verbs:

Malō est hominibus avaritia, avarice is an evil to men.

II. With TRANSITIVE verbs in connection with the ACCUSATIVE:

Quinque cohortēs castris praesidiō reliquit, he left five cohorts for the defence of the camp.

RULE XIV.—Dative with Adjectives (141).

391. With adjectives, the OBJECT TO WHICH the quality is directed is put in the Dative:

Omnibus cārum est, it is dear to all.

RULE XV.—Dative with Nouns and Adverbs.

392. The Dative is used with a few special nouns and adverbs:

I. With a few nouns from verbs which take the Dative:

Iūstitia est obtemperatiō lēgibus, justice is obedience to laws.

II. With a few adverbs from adjectives which take the Dative:

Congruenter naturāe vivere, to live in accordance with nature.

GENITIVE.

RULE XVI.—Genitive with Nouns (28).

395. Any noun, not an Appositive, qualifying the meaning of another noun, is put in the Genitive:

Catonis orationēs, Cato's orations.

RULE XVII.—Genitive with Adjectives.

399. Many adjectives take a Genitive to complete their meaning :

Avidus laudis, desirous of praise.

RULE XVIII.—Predicate Genitive.

401. A noun predicated of another noun denoting a different person or thing is put in the Genitive :

Omnia hostium erant, all things belonged to the enemy.

RULE XIX.—Genitive with Special Verbs.

406. The Genitive is used—

I. With miserer and miserēscō :

Miserere laborum, pity the labors.

II. With recordor, memini, reminiscor, and obliscor :

Meminit praeteritorum, he remembers the past.

III. With rēfert and interest :

Interest omnium, it is the interest of all.

RULE XX.—Accusative and Genitive (285).

409. The ACCUSATIVE of the PERSON and the GENITIVE of the THING are used with a few transitive verbs :

I. With verbs of reminding, admonishing :

Tē amicitiae commonefacit, he reminds you of friendship.

II. With verbs of accusing, convicting, acquitting :

Virōs sceleris arguit, you accuse men of crime.

III. With miscret, pacnitet, pudet, taedet, and piget :

521. In temporal clauses with cum—

I. Any tense except the Imperfect and the Pluperfect is put in the INDICATIVE :

Cum quiescunt, probant, while they are silent, they approve.

II. The Imperfect and Pluperfect are put—

1. In the INDICATIVE, when the temporal clause ASSERTS AN HISTORICAL FACT:

Páruit cum necesse erat, he obeyed when it was necessary.

2. In the SUBJUNCTIVE, when the temporal clause simply DEFINES THE TIME of the principal action:

Cum epistulam complicárem, while I was folding the letter.

RULE LIII.—Moods in Principal Clauses (262).

523. The principal clauses of the DIRECT DISCOURSE on becoming INDIRECT take the INFINITIVE or SUBJUNCTIVE as follows:

I. When DECLARATIVE, they take the Infinitive with a Subject Accusative:

Dicēbat animós esse divínós, he was wont to say that souls are divine.

II. When INTERROGATIVE, they take—

1. Generally the Subjunctive:

Ad postuláta Caesaris respondit, quid sibi vellet, cūr veniret, to the demands of Caesar he replied, what did he wish, why did he come?

2. Sometimes the Infinitive with a Subject Accusative, as in rhetorical questions:

Docēbant rem esse testimoniō, etc. ; quid esse levius, they showed that the fact was a proof, etc. ; what was more inconsiderate?

III. When IMPERATIVE, they take the Subjunctive:

Scribit Labiēnō cum legiōne veniat, he writes to Labianus to come (that he should come) with a legion.

RULE LIV.—Moods in Subordinate Clauses (262).

524. The subordinate clauses of the DIRECT DISCOURSE, on becoming INDIRECT, take the Subjunctive:

Respondit sē id quod in Nervili fecisset factūrum, he replied that he would do what he had done in the case of the Nervii.

RULE LV.—Moods in Indirect Clauses (127).

529. The Subjunctive is used—

I. In indirect questions:

Quaeritur, cūr doctissimi hominēs dissentiant, it is a question, why the most learned men disagree.

II. Often in clauses dependent upon an Infinitive or upon another Subjunctive:

Nihil indignius est quam eum qui culpâ careat supplicio nōn carere, nothing is more shameful than that he who is free from fault should not be exempt from punishment.

INFINITIVE.

RULE LVI.—Infinitive (132).

533. Many verbs admit an Infinitive to complete or qualify their meaning :

Haec vitare cupimus, we desire to avoid these things.

RULE LVII.—Accusative and Infinitive (171).

534. Many transitive verbs admit both an Accusative and an Infinitive :

Tē sapere docet, he teaches you to be wise.

RULE LVIII.—Subject of Infinitive (171).

536. The Infinitive sometimes takes an Accusative as its subject :

Platōnem Tarentum venisse reperiō, I find that Plato came to Tarentum.

SUPINE.

RULE LIX.—Supine in Um (166).

546. The Supine in um is used with verbs of motion to express PURPOSE :

Legātī vērērunt rēs repetitum, deputies came to demand restitution.

RULE LX.—Supine in ū (246).

547. The Supine in ū is generally used as an Ablative of Specification :

Quid est tam jucundum auditū, what is so agreeable to hear (in hearing)?

ADVERBS.

RULE LXI.—Use of Adverbs (70).

551. Adverbs qualify VERBS, ADJECTIVES, and other ADVERBS :

Sapientēs feliciter vivunt, the wise live happily.

PROFESSOR LINCOLN'S LATIN TEXT-BOOKS.

Selections from the Poems of Ovid. With Notes. By J. L. LINCOLN, LL. D., Professor of Latin in Brown University. 12mo. 288 pages.

This edition of Ovid was prepared at the request of many teachers of Latin who regard the poetry of Ovid more suitable for the use of beginners than that of Vergil, an opinion that governs the course pursued in the European schools generally. The text is very carefully annotated, and references are made to Harkness's Standard Grammar.

Some selections from the "Amores," the "Fasti," and the "Tristia," have been added to those made from the "Metamorphoses," not only on account of the interesting themes of which they treat, but also for the sake of giving the student an opportunity of becoming acquainted with Latin elegiac verse, of which, in Latin poetry, Ovid is the acknowledged master.

With Notes and Vocabulary.

Horace. With English Notes, for the Use of Schools and Colleges. 12mo. 575 pages.

Selections from the First Five Books of Livy, together with the Twenty-first and Twenty-second Books entire; with a Plan of Rome, a Map of the Passage of Hannibal, and English Notes for the Use of Schools. 12mo. 329 pages.

PROFESSOR LINDSAY'S LATIN TEXT-BOOKS.

Cornelius Nepos. Prepared expressly for the Use of Students Learning to Read at Sight. With Notes, Vocabulary, Index of Proper Names, and Exercises for Translation into Latin. Illustrated by numerous Cuts. By THOMAS B. LINDSAY, Ph. D., Assistant Professor of Latin in the Boston University. 12mo. 357 pages.

Among the characteristic features of this new edition of "Cornelius Nepos" are the following: The orthographical accuracy of the text, the results of the investigations of Fleckelsen, Brambach, and others having been kept carefully in view. The notes have been prepared with special reference to the training of the student in sight-reading, and to assist him in grasping the main idea of the sentence. The English-Latin exercises make immediate use of the words and idioms of the text, thus fixing them firmly in the mind. The marking of the long vowels and the relation of derivatives to a common root are among the special features of the vocabulary. It is a valuable supplementary reading-book, where the curriculum does not admit of its introduction into the prescribed course.

"Cornelius Nepos" is one of the authors regularly read in the German Gymnasia. The clearness of his style and the interest of the subjects treated by him are especially adapted to engage the attention of the student, and make his study of Latin a pleasure rather than a task.

THE SAME, for Sight-Reading in Schools and Colleges, with English-Latin Exercises and Index of Proper Names. 12mo.

This edition contains the Text, the English-Latin Exercises, and the Historical and Geographical Index, and is designed to meet the wants of students that desire in addition to the regular course to read a Latin author at sight.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS FOR THE STUDY OF GREEK.

Hadley's Greek Grammar. Revised, and in part rewritten, by FREDERICK DE FOREST ALLEN, Ph. D., Professor of Classical Philology in Harvard University.

This grammar not only presents the latest and best results of Greek studies, but also treats the language in the light received from comparative philology. The work is clear in its language, accurate in its definitions, judicious in its arrangement, and sufficiently comprehensive for all purposes, while it is free from cumbrous details. It is simple enough for the beginner, and comprehensive enough for the most advanced students. 12mo. 405 pages. Introductory price, $1.50.

Greek Lessons. Prepared to accompany the Grammar of Hadley and Allen. By ROBERT P. KEER, Ph. D., Principal of the Norwich (Connecticut) Free Academy.

An elementary Greek book intended to serve as a companion and guide to the Grammar, and as an introduction to the study of Xenophon. The publishers commend this work to American teachers with great confidence that it will be found to possess important advantages above other books of its class. 12mo. Introductory price, $1.20.

Elementary Lessons in Greek Syntax, designed to accompany the reading of Xenophon's Anabasis. By S. R. WINCHELL, A. M.

A series of lessons on Attic Greek Syntax, designed to follow about one year's study of the etymology of the language. It comprises lessons on the last half of the Grammar, with exercises and vocabularies, all arranged with a view of making the pupil familiar with the fundamental principles of Greek syntax. It is intended as an introduction to a thorough and comprehensive treatise on Greek prose composition. Introductory price, 54 cents.

Harkness's First Greek Book. Comprising an Outline of the Forms and Inflections of the Language, a complete Analytic Syntax, and an Introductory Greek Reader. With Notes and Vocabularies.

Revised and rewritten by the author. Designed especially to accompany Allen-Hadley's Greek Grammar, with references also to Goodwin's and Crosby's Greek Grammars. 12mo. 276 pages. Introductory price, $1.05.

Three Months' Preparation for Reading Xenophon. By JAMES MORRIS WHITON, Ph. D., author of Whiton's "First Lessons in Greek," and MARY BARTLETT WHITON, A. B., Instructor in Greek in Packer Collegiate Institute, Brooklyn.

A concise and practical new introductory Greek book, designed to accompany Allen-Hadley's Greek Grammar. Containing references also to Goodwin's Greek Grammar. 12mo. 94 pages. Introductory price, 48 cents.

Sample copies, for examination, sent to teachers of Greek, post-paid, for examination, on receipt of the introductory price.
